Before Planting Season, Lebanon 4-H Club Practices Farm Safety

ANDY ANDREWS
Editor

LEBANON (Lebanon Co.) — John Donmoyer really knew how to drive home a point.

Using a simple towel, John, from Harpers, and his assistant Chris Seaman, Grantville, showed what really could happen if children work around engaged power takeoffs (PTOs) on tractors.

Quick as a bee, the shaft took hold of the towel, twisting it haphazardly and winding it as tight as a noose. If that would have been a kid's shirt or baggy pants, who knows what could have happened?

Most likely, the child would have been badly injured, dismembered, or killed.

Dave Rittle, with his PTO demonstration graphic, said that most accidents occurred when the equipment was left running "100 percent of the time," he said.

Family and friends of the Lebanon County 4-H Farm Safety Club — about 100 altogether — witnessed the hands-on demonstrations at the Expo Center Tuesday evening.

Other 4-H'ers, such as Drew Pausher, also drove home a point about not playing around grain bins. His demo showed how a young child could easily suffocate when the bin is unloaded.

More than two dozen youth demonstrated potential hazards around the farm and spoke about the importance of care around equipment and animals at the Lebanon Countywide Farm Safety Evening Tuesday at the Lebanon Expo Center.

Two age groups were present. Speakers included Jim Dice, leader of the 9-11 year-old youth group, and Pete Hanson, 13-15 year-old group leader.

> "...think you've mastered that ... it masters you right back."
> – Tom Seaman
> Grantville

Alex Seaman, with fellow 4-H member Kean Richards, demonstrated how important it was to have signaling on tractors when on the road. The "most important safety signal feature," said Tom Seaman, Alex's dad, "is the reflective (slow moving vehicle, or SMV, emblem). Bolt it fast."

Alex, 13, son of Tom and Donna Seaman, Grantville, is an eighth grader along with friend Kean Richards at North Lebanon School. Kean, 14, son of Jim and Lyndell Conrad, Annville, has been a member of the Lebanon Farm Safety Club along with Alex for about two years.

Tom Seaman said that without the SMV, if the tractor goes onto a public road, police will cite you. Seaman also spoke about his own experience with wagons that literally got away from him, because they didn't have the locking chuck to stop the wheels, and the dangers of a runaway, upside-down and running diesel engine.

The overturned diesel engine can literally run on its own crankcase oil. The only way to stop it is to shove a heavy block of wood against the air intake to deprive the engine of oxygen.

Seaman said, "Just when you think you've mastered that equipment, it masters you right back."

Other youth who addressed the countywide safety night included Joel Crouse, Myerstown, on "Tractor Safety On The Road"; David Rittle and Joe Mills, both of Lebanon, who spoke about power takeoffs or PTOs; Matt McFeaters, Annville, on hydraulic system

NEW HOLLAND (Lancaster Co.) — "Baa baa black sheep . . ." That nursery rhyme always comes to mind at the Easter lamb sales. (Yes, I know there are not many black sheep, but the sound still applies — baa baa!)

This year, by sale time Monday, the baa-baaing seemed louder than ever. Perhaps it was the cold temperatures and Easter being so early.

National Egg Market At A Glance
Atlanta, Ga.
March 27, 2002
Report Supplied By USDA

Prices were trending lower on mediums and sharply lower on larger sizes in most of the major terminal markets. The market tone was weak as traders confidence of market values take a post holiday move. Retail movement was seasonally active and generally reported as moderate to good with best movement noted where limited attractive features were in progress. Supplies were irregular and usually in a range of well balance to available for trade needs. However, most traders were unwilling to take on any new inventories and were trying to get floor stocks to a minimum level. Breaking stock inventories were tight in some locations to fully adequate at others. Offerings of nest run increased and were about adequate to ample for the light and very cautious demand. Light type hens were adequate for the fair demand.

Northeast Broiler Fryer Parts Part I

ATLANTA, GA.
March 27, 2002
Report Supplied By USDA

Trucklot buying activity was very light during midweek trading as dealers attempted to remain as lean as possible heading toward the holiday weekend. In addition, product was available across the board and freshness was increasingly a concern. Offerings of breast items were at least adequate to available. Wings were fully adequate. Legs and leg quarters were ample and thighs were starting to build at some locations. Movement through retail and distributive channels remained seasonally slow The market tone was barely steady to instances weak. Trade sentiment was cautious

National Broiler Market At A Glance

Atlanta, Ga.

Report Supplied By USDA

Trade sentiment was steady to weak, mostly barely steady to weak. Retail demand was seasonally slow to fair with buying interest focused towards more traditional holiday items. Food service was strongest into fast food for promotions Supplies were adequate to ample and frequently discounted to clear. In the parts structure, trading was light and limited to immediate needs. Tenders were in the best balance, but not difficult to find, and all other items were at least fully sufficient and barely moving. In production areas, live supplies were moderate Weights were in a full range, but mostly desirable

New York Broilers/Fryers

ATLANTA, GA.

March 26, 2002

Report Supplied By USDA

Trucklot buying activity on ready-to-cook whole broiler/fryers continued light and spotty as dealers kept floorstocks closely cleared. Offerings of the 2 5 pound birds were ample and discounted. The larger birds were at least adequate to available. Movement through retail and distributive channels was seasonally slow The market tone was barely steady to weak

The OLD FARMER'S THIS WEEK WITH ALMANAC

ALL FOOLS', APRIL 1

FOOLS, GLORIOUS FOOLS

"Let us be thankful for the fools," suggested American humorist Mark Twain. "But for them, the rest of us would not succeed." The April Fools' Day custom began in England in the 1600s and was brought to America with the early colonists. One theory claims that it began with the change from the old calendar (Julian), where the new year began on March 25 and was celebrated through April 1, to the new calendar (Gregorian), which starts the year on January 1. At the time of the changeover, the April Fools' joke was to wish someone a happy new year on April 1, and then call them an April fool if they'd forgotten the calendar change.

TIP OF THE WEEK

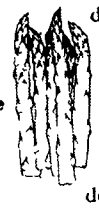
QUICK SPRING PASTA

1 pound fresh asparagus
1 tablespoon olive oil
4 ounces (about 1/2 cup) sliced fresh mushrooms
1/2 cup chicken or vegetable broth
8 ounces angel hair pasta
1/2 cup grated Parmesan cheese
red pepper flakes (optional)



Cut asparagus into one-inch sections. Add olive oil to skillet and saute mushrooms until just tender. Drain juices. Add asparagus and cook for another 3 minutes, stir while cooking, and add broth as needed for moisture. In the meantime, cook pasta to desired doneness. Drain pasta and top with vegetables. Then sprinkle cheese (and pepper flakes if desired) over the top.

Makes 4 servings

The OLD FARMER'S WEATHER PROVERBS

If it thunders on All Fools' Day, it brings good crops of corn and hay.

April snow breeds grass.

OPINION

For Real Reform, Set A Deadline

We've spoken many times about how property tax should be reformed, and though the issue is big for the state gubernatorial candidates, that's all it's been — talk.

However, speaking at the recent Cornucopia in Harrisburg, one legislator has a more practical solution.

State Sen. Michael A. O'Pake (D-11th), said Pennsylvania should act like Michigan and set a deadline. That deadline would put a real reform into place.

O'Pake spoke about Senate Bill 1239, which he introduced in January this year, that would mandate the end of the power to tax at the local level after June 30, 2004. That would give state government two years to come up with a solution.

You can view the complete bill on the Internet at http://www2.legis.state.pa.us/WU01/LI/BI/BT/2001/0/SB1239P1644.pdf. The bill is in the Pennsylvania Senate Committee on Finances.

In Michigan, this type of legislative solution helped remove the "oppressive burden" of property tax for homeowners and farmers, according to the state senator.

"It's the first step," said O'Pake. "We have to do that. It's a better and fairer solution."

We agree with O'Pake. The current system is antiquated and oppressive. It hurts people of middle income and the farm community in general.

We support bills that take these kind of oppressive and unfair taxes off the backs of farmers.

❖ FARM FORUM ❖

Editor:

The state says to preserve farmland, yet they seize and destroy farmland for whatever reason they want.

We are owners of farmland enrolled in Clean and Green, which is third highest priority under the Agricultural Land Preservation Policy.

Our farm has been in the family for three quarters of a century. Ten acres were seized without any just compensation or payment for the land in September of 2001 by an elementary school for athletic field, parking, and future purposes.

The elementary school already has 12 acres, which is more than sufficient. The school has not complied with procedure of law to condemn, thereby destroying our constitutional rights.

We are fighting this action ourselves without a lawyer.

This abuse of power is happening all over the state all the time, but is not being publicized, and more people need to get involved. Anyone interested in how to fight government misuse of eminent domain and its two-faced stance on preservation should attend our court case on April 3, court room number 2, at 3 p.m. at the Lycoming County Courthouse in Williamsport. Any favorable comments or questions should be directed to the Horner Family at (856) 327-3877.

Shiny new pickup trucks are a common sight today in suburban shopping malls.

I'm told that sporty little pickups even have a certain cachet with Yuppie couples.

If you happen to be one of those people who drive a pickup for fun or for style, I wish you well, but what I have to say doesn't really concern you.

On the other hand, if you are one of the millions of Americans who drive a pickup for work, especially agricultural work, pay close attention. Because our own federal government is considering legislation that would mean the end of pickups as you know and use them.

The U.S. Senate is considering legislation that would raise the

Lancaster County Extension Director

To Scout For Cereal Rust Mites In Timothy

Mark Goodson, agronomy agent in York County, suggests timothy growers be prepared to scout for cereal rust mites and to treat with insecticide if necessary. Adult rust mites are very small (less than 1 millimeter in size). They are spindle-shaped, with four legs and may be white, yellow, or orange.

You will need a 10 to 20X hand lens to see them. Evidence of their presence on the plant is off-colored foliage and leaf or bud abnormalities, similar to drought stress. The mites overwinter in the adult and egg stages. Eggs from overwintering adults are deposited in the leaf vein grooves. The eggs appear as very small spherical yellow balls.

The immature stages are similar to the adult, but smaller. Immatures begin hatching in March, with the peak adult populations being reached in April. Damage is most evident in April and May.

Severe mite infestations have two negative impacts on Pennsylvania growers. Feeding injury causes substantial yield losses and reduces hay quality because of a brown discoloration. Horse producers are reluctant to buy hay that is not the normal color of quality timothy.

Growers should check fields now for the presence of small round eggs in the leaf veins. Although scouting procedures have not been fully developed, it is always a good idea to take a representation sample across the field. Populations can begin in isolated pockets. A few mites can rapidly develop into an economic problem.

There are no established economic thresholds for the pest. Treatment is recommended, however, in fields with a previous history of cereal rust mites and/or when 25 percent of the plant tillers exhibit curled tips on the new leaf blades within several weeks following green-up. Research is under way to develop better monitoring plans and an economic threshold.

Data provided by Dr. Marvin Hall of the Department of Crops and Soil Sciences at Penn State compares Pennsylvania economic loss with and without the use of a trademarked carbaryl product during the 2000 season. Net revenue per acre (average) with and without miticide treatment is estimated to be $303 and $181, respectively, a net increase of $122 per acre. For more information, refer to http://www.ento.psu.edu/extension/factsheets/cerealrust.htm on the Internet.

The only known and registered method of managing the pest is a properly timed application of the carbaryl product. Research trials at the University of Maryland in 1999 and 2000 indicated that the carbaryl product applied at 3 pints per acre provides effective control of cereal rust mites in timothy. Because mite stages are concealed in the leaf blade grooves, a spray volume of 20 or more gallons with a ground applicator is required to achieve adequate coverage and penetration to the mites.

Higher water volumes should be used for improved mite control. If scouting indicates you have a problem, spray approximately four weeks after green-up in the spring. This usually occurs around early to mid-April in the eastern and central counties of Pennsylvania where most timothy is grown. Only one application per cutting at 3 pints per acre of formulated material is allowed per season, and it must be applied more than 30 days before harvest or grazing.

To Develop Your Food Processing Idea Into A Business

Got a great new snack food idea? Ready to market Grandma's chicken salad recipe? People looking to turn family recipes into money-making businesses now have access to valuable information on the food processing business, thanks to a special Web-based service developed by Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences.

"Resources for Small Food Processors and Potential Entrepreneurs" is a Website created by Luke LaBorde, assistant professor of food science, to introduce budding business owners to the fundamentals of food processing technology and regulations.

The site (http://foodsafety.cas.psu.edu/processor/ent—res—text2.htm) is designed to answer the most frequently asked questions surrounding commercial food processing.

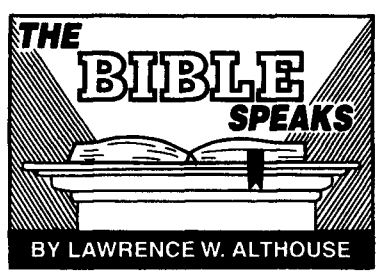
"Many people have an old family recipe for a barbecue sauce, salad dressing, or salsa that they think tastes better than what's on the market," LaBorde said. "Our site offers a variety of resources available in Pennsylvania and other states to answer key questions."

More than 90 online resources have been collected and categorized into various sections. The site also has links to food testing laboratories, equipment and packaging resources, and direct marketing opportunities and farm alternatives.

Quote Of The Week:

"Many people mistake our work for our vocation. Our vocation is the love of Jesus."

— Mother Teresa



THE EASTER LIFE

Background Scripture:
John 20:1-18; Romans 6.
Devotional Reading:
Romans 6:9-13.

It is always interesting to me to find Mary Magdalene figuring so prominently in the gospel accounts of the resurrection.

In Matthew 28, there are only two disciples, Mary Magdalene and "the other Mary," who go to the garden tomb and find it empty. On their way to tell the disciples, they encounter the risen Lord.

In Mark 16 there are three women — Salome is added to the two Marys — who find the empty tomb. Luke also lists three women but, instead of Salome, he names Joanna. In John 21, Mary Magdalene goes to the tomb alone, finds the stone rolled away, and goes to summon Simon Peter "and the other disciple, the one whom Jesus loved." When they find the tomb empty, they return to their homes. But Mary stays at the tomb and encounters first two angels and then the risen Christ.

I would have expected that certain other disciples would have played the prominent role in these accounts: Simon Peter, because of his leadership role among the disciples; James, the brother of Jesus, as future head of the Jerusalem church; John, because he was almost certainly "the other disciple . . . whom Jesus loved"; and Mary, the mother of Jesus, in light of her role in Roman Catholicism. Altogether, Mary Magdalene is mentioned only a dozen times in the four gospels.

Mary Magdalene

To me, this is a revolutionary note, indicating that the experience of the risen Christ is not governed by human priorities. Magdalene was not one of the Twelve, but even more shocking is the fact that she was a woman!

Jewish men and women were not permitted to worship together in the main portion of the synagogue, but the gospel records make it clear that the first Easter greetings from human lips came from her.

There is another sense in which Easter is for everyone. To be sure, the Easter story is focused on Christ's victory over sin, death, and the grave. But we must understand that Easter is not only about Christ's victory, but also ours.

Easter is not only about the resurrection of Christ. Easter is also about us, our death and resurrection.

Paul uses the analogy of Christian baptism: "We were buried therefore with him by baptism into death . . ." (6:4). Paul also says: "We know that our old self was crucified with him . . ." (6:6). He goes on to say that we have "died with Christ" (6:8). In other words, when we become disciples of Christ, it means the death of our former way of living. You cannot follow him without something changing significantly in your life. If, after you have committed yourself to Christian discipleship, your life is not somewhat different, then you probably are not his disciple.

The New Life

Easter is about both the death of the old life and the birth of a new life: " . . . so that as Christ was raised from the dead by the glory of the Father, we too might walk in newness of life" (6:4). Life without Christ is life under the "dominion" of death.

Our mortality colors and structures everything. Humanly speaking, death is the one experience to which all creatures are subject. Money, position, and power do not shield us from the grave. What we think of death has a controlling effect upon the way we live.

"But if we have died with Christ, we believe that we shall also live with him:" (6:8). This is not a matter of being lucky enough to be resurrected as Christ was, nor of being good enough so that we may make the same claim on God. If we "live with him," we will share the Easter victory. Getting "resurrection" or "life eternal" is not the goal: living with him is and then life eternal is one, but only one, of the results.

Just as Jesus promised, " . . . seek his kingdom, and these things shall be yours as well," so Paul is saying "live with him" and you will experience the resurrected life both before and after death.

The Easter faith is for both conquering death and living life.

Heat with Corn!
Made in USA

A BETTER ALTERNATIVE
The corn burning furnace has many advantages over wood and coal heat The large storage bin holds up to 14 bushels of fuel, which is automatically fed into the combustion chamber as needed There's no need to load the furnace several times a day. The use of corn also eliminates the bark mess, insects, splinters, and handling problems connected with the use of wood fuel, and the dust and dirt from coal UL Approved

HELP WANTED

"WAFFLE SLAT" Syri-Con Corporation

"We would use slats again if doing it all over!"

Harold Keeney; David, Nancy & Mark Wolfskill

Our original plan was to install scrapers. But after 10 minutes in a slatted barn in Somerset County, we changed our minds. Some people stay away from slats because of the initial cost, but that extra cost is made up for in the first couple years.

The one thing I like the most about slats is that there is no expense. I don't have any scrapers or drive units to maintain. I don't have to run scrapers every day or haul manure like we did in our previous tie stall barn. The cows' foot health has been a lot better, and the cows stay much cleaner. Our milk production is up and the somatic cell count has gone down. I give at least some of the credit to the slats because with less moisture on the floor, there is less bacteria.

-David Wolfskill

Weekly Dairy Market Outlook

Ken Bailey
Penn State
March 22, 2002

MARKETS UNCHANGED

• CME cheese and butter steady.

• Butter and cheese inventory building.

• International dairy markets weak.

The U.S. dairy market is unchanged this week, reflecting the fact that there is "nothing new." So far the market is expecting average production and average consumption, and is therefore picking "average prices" in the cash and futures markets.

Cheese prices at the Chicago Mercantile Exchange rose a penny or two this week. Barrel prices were up a penny to $1.19 per pound by Friday, March 22. Blocks were up two cents to $1.23 per pound by the end of the week. Grade AA butter fluctuated between $1.2275-$1.2450 per pound.

Butter stocks are well ahead of year-ago levels. USDA's Cold Storage report indicated that butter stocks on Feb. 28, 2002 were at 132 million pounds, up 53 percent relative to a year ago. This represents a significant increase. Butter stocks will continue to grow as we enter the spring flush.

The question is, why aren't butter prices falling below current levels? Butter futures at the Chicago Mercantile Exchange indicate a rise in butter prices to $1.28 per pound in May, to $1.31 by July, peaking at $1.36 by year's end.

Cheese inventories are actually below a year ago. American cheese and total cheese inventories at the end of February were 6 and 3 percent below year-ago levels, respectively. It appears, however, that cheese inventories are increasing. American cheese inventories in February rose 5 percent over January levels.

Finally, the global market for dairy products is weakening. The milk supply in the European Union is recovering from the outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease, and production is growing in New Zealand. The global recession is also a contributing factor. A weak global dairy market could lead to higher U.S. imports of butter and milk protein concentrates, and few commercial exports of nonfat dry milk outside of the Dairy Export Incentive Program.

Average Farm Feed Costs for Handy Reference

To help farmers across the state to have handy reference of commodity input costs in their feeding operations for DHIA record sheets or to develop livestock feed cost data, here's last week's average costs of various ingredients as compiled from regional reports across the state of Pennsylvania.

Remember, these are averages, so you will need to adjust your figures up or down according to your location and the quality of your crop.

Pasture Perfect® The Brand of Choice

PRODUCTIVE MIXES FOR SERIOUS GRAZIERS

Rohrer's Seeds has two serious mixes designed for management intensive grazing - the Pasture Perfect® Mid-Atlantic Grazer Mix and the Pasture Perfect® Triple Purpose Mix.

Mid-Atlantic Grazer Mix is designed for the serious grazier in the Mid-Atlantic region It is composed of 50% grazing type orchardgrasses that can take our summers. This mix also includes highly palatable tetraploids which make milk and weight gain. For the finishing touch we've added two excellent clovers

Pasture Perfect®
Mid-Atlantic Grazer Mix

25% Takena Orchardgrass
25% Eastwood Orchardgrass
20% Duo Festulolium
20% Tonga Perennial Ryegrass
5% Jumbo Ladino Clover
5% Starfire Red Clover

Triple Purpose is a great mix for taking a first cutting of hay For the remainder of the year you can add it to your rotation. A grazing alfalfa has been added for summer performance This mix will also make great horse hay

National Feeder Cattle Weekly Summary

St. Joseph, Mo.
Report Supplied By USDA

NATIONAL FEEDER CATTLE SUMMARY for week ending Mar. 22 Receipts: This week 149,000; last week 183,900; year ago 164,700. Compared to last week, feeder steers and heifers sold 1.00 to 3.00 lower, with instances of 2.00 to 5.00 lower on cattle weighing over 700 lbs. A much needed rainfall was received in parts of the Plains over the past week, which should boost demand for graze-out prospects. Areas of the Southeast received enough rain to hamper the movement of livestock, as the states of Kentucky and Tennessee posted lowered auction receipts. Buyers are anxious to purchase grass cattle, but remain cautious as futures at the CME remain rattled, and finished cattle prices continue to show weakness.

The direct feedyard trade took its fair share of blows this week, with live sales 3.00 to 3.50 lower at 71.00, and dressed sales ranging from 113.00 to 114 00, which is 6.00 lower than last week. A sharply lower feedlot trade, coupled with a rumor of Foot and Mouth Disease in Kansas last week, has brought the Board to its knees; with nearby live cattle closing down 75 cents on Friday at 69 77.

Last Friday's bearish Cattle on Feed report seems to have taken a back seat to all the other events in the beef industry over the past couple of weeks. Officials in Kansas have estimated a substantial monetary impact due to the Foot and Mouth rumor that started last Wednesday; with regulators now investigating whether the market was manipulated for profit With April a week away, red meat demand should start blooming as weekend warriors' start dusting off their grills for the barbeque season This week's reported volume included 46 percent weighing over 600 lbs

Sometimes You Need a Spreader Built Like A Tank

When spreading stockpiled lime, for example. The Stoltzfus Wet Lime Spreader is likely the most powerful spreader of its kind on the market today. You see, we've been building them since 1945, and farmers are still using Stoltzfus Wet Lime Spreaders they've had for 20, even 30 years. Our special drag chain is 4 times stronger than stainless steel, and handles frozen and heavy stockpiled lime with ease. Plus for spreading compost, composted sludge, poultry litter and certain fertilizers, the WLS is without equal for sheer volume spreading.

Cut your fertilizer bill by liberating nutrients tied up by acid soil.

Use Lime.

Daily National Grain Market Summary

St. Joseph, MO
March 27, 2002
Report Supplied By USDA

Grain and soybean bids are on a roll, two consecutive days of higher trends. Of course, tomorrow USDA will release their government reports ever- one has been anticipating. Corn and soybean received good overnight export orders, especially corn. Wheat exports have been good over the past couple of weeks. Wheat 1 to 6 cents higher. Corn 1 to 2 cents higher. Sorghum 3 to 4 cents higher. Soybeans 5 to 8 cents higher.

Wheat bids were also supported by continued crop concerns as many winter wheat areas remain too dry. Some areas in the eastern belt have even received an overabundant amount of moisture, boosting wheat bids.

Good export sales overnight for corn underpinned bids but ideas a higher acreage number will be in tomorrows planting report is keeping bids from moving sharply higher. Higher soybean bids also reflect trade expectations for Thursdays government report numbers.

Cattlemen Present Scholarships, Awards At Banquet

BOALSBURG (Centre Co.) — A Pennsylvania Cattlemen's banquet Thursday evening conducted at the Boalsburg Fire Hall included the traditional scholarships, awards, and fun auction. Approximately 120 members attended the event.

Beef Quiz Bowl finals were conducted during the evening, and York County's clubs were well represented, with both junior and senior teams winning first place.

The Gross family, Manchester, of Cold Springs Farm, was honored with the Cattle Feeder Award. Daniel and his wife Tina Gross, left, join Daniel's parents Steve and Phyllis Gross. Also with the family is agriculture secretary Sam Hayes, left, and PCA president Terry Shearer, right.

After graduation, Warfield hopes to work in the beef industry in the promotions and marketing field. Raised on a small farm, she exhibited beef, sheep, and swine as a 4-H'er.

From Marriottsville, Md., Warfield is also involved in the Maryland Junior Angus Association.

Winning this year's Pfizer scholarship was Billie Joe Zeigler, Carlisle. Zeigler is studying as a first-year veterinary student at the University of Pennsylvania.

She hopes to do a mixed practice but "has a major interest in large animals," she said. Zeigler grew up in a rural area and got agricultural experience helping the neighbors with farm chores.

Roy and Jean Fuss, Dillsburg, took home Commercial Cattleman Award honors. The couple, Certified Angus Beef producers, have 70 head of Angus-based brood cows on their 250-acre farm.

The Environmental Stewardship Award was shared by Brown's Ranch, Gettysburg, and Cedar Hill Farm, Wellsville.

Terry Bentz, maintenance, and Harold Wendte, farm manager, represented Brown's Ranch for the Environmental Stewardship Award. The operation has 100 head of crossbred and Scottish Highland Cattle.

The award honored their efforts such as installing extensive streambank fencing plus the newly installed 20,000 feet of drain tile. Hay and pasture makes up the majority of the farm's 230 acres.

The other Environmental Stewardship recipients were the Eisenhour and Sweitzer families. Jim and Brenda Eisenhower are joined by Terry and Sandy Sweitzer and son Jim Jr.

No-till fields, contour and strip techniques, waterways, and careful barnyard manure runoff strategies such as sediment bowls are a part of not only their 650-acre farm but also are implemented on the 3,5000 additional acres the families rent.

They work closely with the conservation district representatives, according to Jim. The family has 600-700 steers on feed and 90 beef cows, besides a 750-sow barn and 60,000 layers.

The Industry Service Award went to Dr. Les Griel, professor of veterinary science at Penn State. Griel has been teaching at the university for 37 years. He also serves as a veterinarian for the Beef Expo and does clinical work for the livestock evaluation center.

price of pickups by thousands of dollars even as it would drastically cut their weight and power. The new result would be trucks too expensive for many farmers and other working people, but without the power to carry a heavy load or make their way across an early spring pasture in hubcap-deep mud.

It's not that the government has anything against pickup trucks in particular. The damage would be done in the name of fuel efficiency and the environment. And the weapon of choice would be the notoriously inefficient corporate average fuel efficiency (CAFE) regulations. These are a set of federal regulations adopted in 1975 in response to the Arab oil embargo that require manufacturers to meet average gas mileage requirements for specific classes of vehicles.

As a quick measurement of the effectiveness of CAFE regulations in achieving their original intent of reducing America's dependence on imported oil, consider that we were importing 35 percent of our oil before them, and 50 percent today.

Nonetheless, the Senate is considering a bill that would mandate an unrealistically steep increase in the CAFE gas mileage requirements for light trucks.

Specifically, the mileage exception for vehicles in the "light truck" category (including all pickups) would be eliminated. That would mean raising the light truck average from 20.7 miles per gallon (mpg) to 35 mpg, rolling them in with normal passenger cars that today are only expected to meet a 27 mpg average.

The only way vehicle manufacturers could comply would be to strip down the weight and power of light trucks while boosting the sticker price. Farmers would be left with no option but to buy politically correct toys that kind of look like pickups used to.

Those toys might be OK for weekend pickup drivers, but they are no substitute for the powerful pickups that are the main workhorse for most farmers. No wonder so many farm organizations have come out strongly against this increase in CAFE regulations, but the danger of these regulations goes well beyond their potential economic damage to U.S. farmers.

Well intentional as CAFE regulations might have been, they have created a generation of unsafe lightweight passenger cars. People in these lighter vehicles are tragically more vulnerable in traffic accidents.

A Harvard Center for Risk Analysis study found that traffic deaths are increased by 1,300 to 2,600 a year as the result of vehicles downsized to comply with CAFE. In 1999, USA Today found that traffic accidents since the CAFE mandated downsizing had killed 46,000 people who would have survived had they been in heavier vehicles.

There is no environmental reason for extending CAFE's dismal record with passenger cars into light trucks. The higher mileage CAFE mandated for cars only encouraged people to drive more, spewing more exhaust into the environment. And the higher prices for these cars caused people to keep them longer, resulting in more older cars with higher emission levels.

We can't undo the damage CAFE regulations have already done. Maybe someday we can get rid of them altogether. But for now, I'm sure I speak for all American farmers and ranchers when I urge our U.S. senators to leave our pickup trucks alone.

University Of Maryland To Forego Field Days

COLLEGE PARK, Md. — Faced with changing clientele and priorities, as well as shrinking state budgets, the University of Maryland College of Agriculture and Natural Resources (AGNR) will forego all major field day activities in 2002.

Cancelled field days include the annual August field day at the Wye Research and Education Center (WREC), the Farm and Family Field Day at the lower Eastern Shore facility (LESREC), etc.

The college will convene a task force of faculty, staff, and others to examine the role of field day activities. Their goal: to make recommendations that allow the college to best achieve the outreach education component of its mission within the fiscal constraints it faces.

Friends and clients of the college can share their ideas and suggestions by calling (301) 405-2072 or emailing rb11@umail.umd.edu.

AGNR will continue to offer highly focused open houses, twilight tours, and other issue- or audience-specific educational programs and activities at its research and education centers and local Maryland Cooperative Extension offices.

A Dry Cow Booster That Costs 7¢ a Day

Hoffmans Horse and Cattle Powder is an ideal tonic for cows over freshening. Feed 6 wks. before freshening. 1 Tablespoon a day. (Two weeks over freshening, feed 1 Tablespoon in the morning & 1 Tablespoon in evening)

Cows will clean better after freshening. Cows have a lower somatic cell count and will have less mastitus problems. Great for reproduction tract and cows will cycle better after freshening. Will help rumen function over freshing. Less feet problems and less stress.

This is an over-all good booster if fed to dry cows, and it will pay you big dividends.

Hans Herr FFA'ers Attend Leadership Conference

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Five members of Lancaster Mennonite High School's Hans Herr FFA Chapter attended the State Legislative Leadership Conference in the Grantsville, Harrisburg, and Hershey areas in March. The conference trains students about how our state government works.

Students who participated are Nathan Hoover, son of Lloyd and Elaine Hoover, Leola; Darrel Martin, son of Galen and Nancy Martin, Mount Joy; Mary Nickle, daughter of James and Sharon Nickle, Nottingham; Alex Ranck, son of James and Joan Ranck, Christiana; and Kevin Shaiebly, son of Nelson Shaiebly, Conestoga, and Sandra Shaiebly, Mountville.

Two 2001 LMH graduates — Paul Hostetter, Holtwood, and Jeremy Ranck, Christiana — carried major responsibilities for the conference. Hostetter is president of the Pennsylvania FFA Association and Ranck is eastern region vice president.

Conference highlights included a legislative breakfast where FFA members spent time socializing with Sen. Noah Wenger and other senators and representatives. In addition, FFA members had a chance to participate in a legislative simulation and learn more about the legislative process through workshops and hands-on activities. They also toured Milton Hershey School, the Hershey Zoo, the Hershey Chocolate Factory, and the historic state capitol.

Adams County Workshops Highlight Wellwater Security

DAVE LEFEVER
Lancaster Farming Staff

GETTYSBURG (Adams Co.) — Drought or no drought, homeowners with private wells should pay attention to their water supply.

Unusually low groundwater levels across the region this spring — at a time when they should be approaching their yearly high — heightens the concern.

Adams County residents recently attended wellwater workshops here March 18 and 25 aimed at helping ensure a safe supply of water from their well. They learned about groundwater movement, well drilling, water-testing, and homeowner handling of fertilizers and pesticides.

According to Tom McCarty, multicounty water quality extension agent, starting the spring season with low groundwater levels is risky for some private water supplies.

"I think we're going to head into the summer with low (water) levels," he said, predicting the likelihood of "shallow" wells going dry.

Randy Alexander of Alexander's Well Drilling, Fairfield, said that most of the drought-related problems he has seen are with shallow water sources such as springs and hand-dug wells, or drilled wells less than 100 feet deep.

"We haven't seen much problem with deeper wells," he said.

Alexander noted that deep wells can also go dry — especially if they are fed by groundwater from a shallow level. However, wells that are drawing water from depths of more than 100 feet will likely keep producing a steady supply, he said.

For homeowners, direct monitoring of groundwater levels on your property is difficult, usually requiring an expensive water level meter to lower into the well, according to Penn State extension information. A less direct but more practical way to gauge water levels is by referring to U.S. Geological Survey data gathered from 67 monitoring wells across the state. Website posting this information is found at http://pa.water.usgs.gov/durplots/well_duration.html.

McCarty demonstrated the movement of water in the ground by using a cross-sectional model consisting of soil, colored water, a stream bed, and observation wells.

Rivers and larger streams tend to be natural dividing points for groundwater movement, he pointed out.

Under normal conditions, groundwater moving toward a streambed will generally not flow across or under the streambed to the other side. Accordingly, any contamination in the groundwater on one side of the stream will not usually reach the water table on the other side.

If drought conditions cause a stream to dry up, however, groundwater — and any contaminants in it — could potentially cross under the streambed.

Flood waters can carry surface contamination across these natural boundaries as well, McCarty said.

Groundwater movement is also affected by the type of material that surrounds it in the earth, he said. A relatively loose material such as gravel (or limestone) allows faster water movement than a denser substrate.

Dr. Irving Kipnis, lab director of Express Analytical Services, Inc., Chambersburg, gave an overview of water quality testing.

While water can be tested for a wide spectrum of contaminants, homeowners usually need to concern themselves with only a few of them, according to Kipniss. Bacteria is at the top of the list.

"The most important test to do for a home well is for coliform bacteria," Kipniss said, pointing out that the Pennsylvania Department of Environmental protection recommends testing once a year.

Though coliforms are common above ground and most are not harmful in themselves, they indicate the possible presence of harmful types such as E. coli. The absence of coliforms generally means no harmful kinds are present, he said.

Nitrates are a concern for wells in farming and residential areas with high fertilizer applications. Water hardness and pH follow on the list of the most widely used water tests for homeowners. Metals such as lead can also be a concern, especially in homes with older plumbing.

Each of the most common water tests cost less than $30, according to Kipniss. Some local conservation districts, such as the one in Adams County, also offer better rates to homeowners by sending samples to the lab in bulk.

Philip Pitzer, environmental safety specialist with the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, delivered encouraging news about the impact of pesticides on water quality in the state.

Of 1,100 wells tested for five major pesticides since 1993, only three of the wells showed a problem, he said.

The program focuses on "vulnerable areas," with high concentrations of agriculture. Water samples are analyzed for the presence of atrazine, alachlor, metolachlor, simazine, and cyanazine. Acetachlor has recently been added to the list.

The state has also gathered and disposed of about 1.1 million pounds of old pesticides and recycled about a half million pounds through another program, Chemsweep, begun in 1993. About 265,000 pounds of pesticide containers have been recycled at 137 locations statewide for pesticide container recycling, Pitzer said

PRODUCING HIGH-QUALITY MILK
Galen Kopp
Lebanon County Extension Agent — Dairy/Livestock

Good quality raw milk is essential for the production of dairy products acceptable to the consumer. The key to their acceptance is the delivery of consistent high-quality products having good favor, odor, and texture at the time of consumption.

What are some of the general reasons for high counts?

Most high raw milk counts involve improper cleaning and sanitizing of dairy equipment, poor production practices, inadequate cooling, or mastitis problems.

All milk handling equipment must be properly cleaned after use and sanitized before reuse. A cleaning program based on water conditions should be set up and followed. You should seek advice from your dairy sanitarian or technical representative of the cleaning and sanitizing materials supplier.

Cooling should be adequate to decrease temperature at the first milking to 40 degrees Fahrenheit (F) within one hour of milking. Blend temperatures should remain below 45 degrees F on subsequent milkings. Milk must be held between 36 degrees F to 40 degrees F at all times in the bulk tank to maintain the highest quality.

Recording thermometers are a useful tool to monitor milk cooling and cleaning practices. They are also a valuable tool as a warning system. The recording thermometer can be wired to indicate improper cooling or to trigger a warning device that the tank is not functioning properly. If the loss of one or more tanks of milk can be avoided, the cost of the system is recovered. Portable thermometers should be available for you to check the accuracy of the bulk tank thermometer from time to time.

When trying to determine the cause of high bacteria counts, one should look at all phrases of his or her dairy operation. Do not assume that the same practices are followed by everyone on your farm. Be thorough and check all possibilities even after you think you found the causes for a high bacteria count.

In summary, consider all areas of animal preparation, milk practices, and cleaning and sanitizing of equipment. For persistent problems, have your dairy inspector or equipment representative do a milking time inspection to observe your procedures and practices.

Remember, your dairy inspector or equipment representative doesn't like troubleshooting high counts anymore than you like receiving them on your milk company bacteria card. All milk companies would much rather pay you a premium for producing high-quality milk then troubleshooting high counts. Once milk is contaminated with bacteria or drugs, it can never be made pure and wholesome again.

Interested In Improving Profits From Your Dairy Farm?

SUNBURY (Northumberland Co.) — There are many dairies throughout the U.S. Numbers are declining at a fairly rapid rate.

The good news is that "progressive" producers, regardless of size, will survive.

If you want to be a survivor in the dairy industry, your farm must generate "sufficient" profit. In some cases dairy producers expand their farms. There are, however, many other strategies to generate "sufficient" profit without expanding your dairy.

Penn State Cooperative Extension in the Susquehanna Valley, along with Monsanto Dairy Business and Select-Sire Power will be conducting a "thought-provoking" meeting titled, "Ten Ways to Improve Profit Without Expanding." Dr. Mark Armfelt, DVM, technical service veterinarian for Monsanto Dairy Business, will be the speaker.

This meeting will take place in two locations on Monday, April 1. An early luncheon meeting will be at 11 a.m. at the Country Cupboard Restaurant in Lewisburg (11 a.m. registration, 11:45 a.m. buffet lunch, 12:45 p.m.-3 p.m. presentation). An after-dinner meeting with pie and ice cream will be at 6 p.m. at the Montour Delong Fair Building in Washingtonville (6 p.m.-7 p.m. pie and ice cream, 7 p.m.-9:30 p.m. presentation).

If interested in attending, call the extension office to make your reservation at (888) 922-5420 or (570)-988-3750, or call Owen Bewley at (570) 756-3418. There is no charge for this meeting and Monsanto Dairy Business will be providing lunch or after dinner pie and ice cream at the meeting.

NRCS Accepts Applications For Excellence In Conservation Award

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) has announced the first annual Excellence in Conservation Award to honor nongovernmental individuals, groups, tribes, or organizations for their contributions to natural resource conservation on private land.

The nomination must include the cover page of the NRCS Excellence in Conservation Award nomination form. All nominations must be submitted with six copies on 8½-inch by 11-inch paper. Nominations must have the appropriate signature approvals before submission to the Human Resources Management Division.

All awards should be sent to the following address by Tuesday, April 2: USDA, Natural Resources Conservation Service, 14th & Independence Ave., S.W., Washington, D.C. 20250, Room 6218-S, ATTN: S. Thompson.

For more information, contact Sandra Thompson, Human Resources Specialist, HRMD Employment & Classification Team, Washington, D.C., at (202) 720-2900 or e-mail sandra.thompson2@usda.gov.

Lehigh To Conduct Farm Safety Camp

LYNNVILLE (Lehigh Co.) — Agriculture is one of the top three most hazardous occupations in the United States, along with mining and construction.

One in five farm families will have a serious accident this year. Children are especially at risk. In the United States each year, over 200 children die and 3000 are seriously injured in accidents involving tractors, livestock and grain storage facilities.

Lehigh County Farm Bureau's Women's Committee and Lehigh County Cooperative Extension are co-sponsoring a Farm Safety Day Camp for kids who live, play or visit farms. Parents, grandparents or guardians are invited to participate, also.

Ray and Karen Moyer will host the event at Junge Farm near Lynnville on Saturday, April 6, from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Demonstrations and exhibits will focus on hazards and safe practices relating to: farm tractors achinery, electricity, fire, lawn mowers, animals, grain storages, and agricultural chemicals.

The Women's Committee will serve lunch for program participants. For additional information contact the Lehigh County Extension Office at (610) 391-9840.

Susquehanna County Dairy Day A Success

ELK LAKE (Susquehanna Co.) — Record crowds came to the Elk Lake School recently for the 13th annual Dairy Day. More than 1,000 spectators enjoyed demonstrations, exhibits, and a roast beef/baked fish dinner.

"Dairy Day is an opportunity for farm families to visit commercial and agricultural exhibits as well as attend educational programs," said Andrea Garner, event organizer and dairy and livestock agent. "It's also a chance for the farming community to visit with friends and enjoy the wide variety of fun and interesting events at Dairy Day," she added.

Upon entering the school, participants got a chance to take a walk through history, with an antique farming exhibit sponsored by the Endless Mountains Antique Tractor Club.

The gymnasium housed 77 exhibitor booths ranging from feed companies and banks to custom farming operations and genetics companies. One of the most popular parts of the gym was the dairy promotion committee's dairy bar. Members of the dairy princess court served 60 gallons of homemade ice cream. The Susquehanna County dairy princess and her court also served cheese and crackers.

The classrooms were packed with educational programs and exhibits. Penn State cooperative extension speaker Dave Messersmith, agronomy agent from Wayne County, educated individuals with a variety of topics including pesticide security, weed management, and soil biology. New herbicide and pesticide points were available through these sessions.

Mike O'Connor from PSU gave a presentation on reproductive management. Other speakers were representatives of the Susquehanna County Cancer Coalition and the Department of Agriculture.

A highlight for the children was a farm safety display sponsored by the Endless Mountains Farm and Rural Safety Program. Many kids got a chance to test their knowledge about farm safety by pointing out the hazards and risks on the scaled model of a common farm.

"It was enjoyable to see kids having fun and learning about farm safety at the same time," Garner said.

Virginia Farm Business Transition Meeting Scheduled

WYTHEVILLE, Va. — The Virginia Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services' (VDACS) Agricultural Vitality Program will conduct its next regional farm business transition meeting on April 9 at the Ramada Inn in Wytheville, Virginia.

The meeting will be 5:30-9:00 p.m. Dinner is included.

The purpose of the session is to discuss basic issues related to farm business transition: estate planning, farm business planning, financing and capitalization, mediation and negotiation, and farmland preservation.

The department has sponsored general seminars and conferences on a statewide basis and is now moving to a regional format to allow for greater participation among Virginia farmers in specific areas of the state.

In addition to VDACS' staff, program participants will include Jesse Richardson, Assistant Professor in Urban Affairs and Planning at Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University.

Mr. Richardson is an attorney who has both private and public sector estate planning experience. The program will also feature a discussion on transition issues by several farmers experienced in the farm business transition process.

Space will be limited so farmers planning to attend are asked to call 804/225-2996 or email mseay@vdacs.state.va.us by Tuesday, April 2, to register. Sponsors will collect a $15 per person registration fee at the event to cover the cost of speakers, materials, and dinner.

Couples Attend Minn. Conference

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. — Two Pennsylvania dairy couples recently attended a conference here hosted by Land O' Lakes, Inc.

Arlan and Louise Kurtz, Morgantown, and Dale and Jill Zimmerman, Reinholds, were selected to attend the four-day event for dairy producers between the ages of 20 and 40. The invitation was based on their dairy operation and interest in community and cooperative involvement.

"These young producers represent the future of agriculture. The intent of the program is to grow together, utilizing their initiative, enthusiasm, and insight," said Jack Gherty, Land O' Lakes president and CEO.

safety; John Lehman, Lebanon, on rollover protection and road safety; silo safety, by Leon Stump, Upper Lawn; and Drew Pausher, Lebanon, on grain bin safety.

Also speaking were Jesse Stump, on a rollover protection system (ROPS) for tractors and Joe Mills, Lebanon, fire extinguisher facts.

Said Jesse Stump, "On any kind of tractor, even if it's big, if there is no ROPS, the tractor could roll over and you could die."

Two representatives of Cedar Crest FFA spoke about a farm fire extinguisher survey conducted on 10 farms in the area. Carl Eisenhauer and Beth Kreider, Cedar Crest FFA members, spoke about the need for fire extinguishers on the farm.

> "...72 percent of the areas have nonfunctional fire extinguishers. Of those that do, the extinguishers are inadequate or not charged."
> — Beth Kreider
> Cedar Crest FFA

Said Kreider, only a "third of the areas on average farms had fire extinguishers. There's a tremendous need, because 72 percent of the areas have nonfunctional fire extinguishers. Of those that do, the extinguishers are inadequate or not charged."

Working with Penn State extension, the Cedar Crest FFA was able to obtain Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture grant money to purchase a limited number of extinguishers for some farms. They will be available from extension on a first-come, first-serve basis.

An average farm, to be adequately protected, may need more than two dozen extinguishers, charged and fully functional.

Kreider noted that on equipment, combines should have two, including one in front and in back. Each floor of a farmhouse should have one. Extinguishers should be placed "near hazardous areas on the farm," she said.

In the tractor driving contest competition conducted by the club last Saturday, top driver awards were presented to Jerry Musser and Clark Zimmerman.

For more information about the club, contact Del Voight at the extension, (717) 270-4391.

Farm Health And Safety Checklist

Editor's Note: This is adapted from the Farm Health and Safety Project by the Newfoundland and Labrador Federation of Agriculture from the Canadian Agricultural Safety Program (CASP) and the Department of Forest Resources and Agrifoods.

The Importance Of Farm Safety

Farming is a demanding business which exposes farmers, farm workers and farm families to a wide range of safety hazards on a daily basis. It involves, for example, the extensive use of:

- Heavy machinery and moving equipment which can cause serious personal injury or death.
- Agricultural chemicals which are toxic to both humans and animals.
- A wide variety of tools, implements and equipment that can fall on farm workers, slip during use and take off a limb if used improperly or without adequate protective measures.
- Electrical, fuel-driven and propane-driven machinery and tools that can cause injury and property damage.
- Bulk commodities and supplies which can fall on workers or into which workers can fall.
- Scaling equipment such as ladders, scaffolding and overhead walkways which can become worn or slippery.

Less dramatic, perhaps, but equally important, are farm health hazards such as:

- Hearing loss from noisy machinery and tools.
- Back problems from lifting heavy loads.
- Breathing difficulties from inhaling respiratory irritants.
- Cuts and abrasions from sharp objects left in lumber piles.

This is just a brief illustration of the potential dangers to which farmers and farm workers are routinely exposed.

Accident Prevention

- Have any farm workers (including family members) received instruction in safe working practices?
- Are emergency phone numbers listed and posted in prominent places (e.g. by telephones and in main work areas)?

Medical

- Is there a first aid kit available in the farmyard, house, barn or the main farm buildings? Is there a first aid kit available for when workers are not within easy access to the farmyard or farm buildings (e.g. in vehicles)?
- Is someone on the farm with formal training in first aid?
- Are guards and shields always kept in place when farm machinery is in use?
- Is the power always turned off before machinery is adjusted, repaired, or unclogged?
- Is it a standard rule on your farm to not allow extra riders on farm equipment?
- Do farm workers always check to ensure children and animals are not close by before starting up farm machinery and equipment?
- Are seatbelts always used on tractors equipped with Roll Over Protective Structures?
- Are drawbar loads always hitched to a drawbar rather than to the tractor's axle, frame or raised three-point hitch?
- Are manufacturers' recommendations for adding front-end weights always followed when using rear mounted implements on tractors?
- Are all tractors and self-propelled machines equipped with a dry chemical fire extinguisher?
- Are doors and windows in buildings always open when vehicles or equipment with internal combustion engines are started or run indoors?
- Are flashing lights mounted on all farm equipment transported on public roads?
- Do farm machinery operators at all times wear clothing which is tight-fitting and not torn or ragged when working near machinery?
- Are farm equipment instructional manuals readily available to operators?
- Are farm tractors and other self-propelled vehicles always kept in good working order (e.g. periodic brake adjustments, properly inflated tires, hydraulic hoses kept in good condition, etc.)?
- Do all farm equipment operators know how to stabilize a piece of farm equipment using jacks and blocks before repairing or servicing the equipment?
- Is all trailing equipment fitted with safety chains and locking devices to keep hitch pins from falling out?
- Are all steps, ladders and platforms on farm equipment kept clear of mud and other material which may cause slipping or falling?

Have all farm workers using agricultural chemicals taken a pesticides course?

- Are all agricultural chemicals stored in a locked room or building away from animal, feed, seeds and living quarters?
- Are signs posted next to all chemical storage areas to warn of the potential hazards inside?
- Are chemicals always stored in their original containers with the labels clearly intact?
- Are empty chemical containers always disposed of promptly and safely?
- Is your chemical mixing area either outside or in an open, well-ventilated area?
- Are noncompatible chemicals in storage always physically isolated from one another?
- Is personal protective equipment (including gloves, goggles, respirators, aprons and hard-shell hats) always used by farm workers when applying or handling farm chemicals?
- Are fuel storage tanks at least 40 feet from the nearest building?
- Are fuel storage tanks located where they will not be struck by vehicles and machinery?
- Is the condition of underground fuel storage tanks checked periodically to ensure there is no leakage?
- Are dry chemical fire extinguishers readily available in all fuel storage areas?
- Are fuel storage hoses, nozzles and pumps always kept in good condition, and vents kept clean and free of dirt?
- Are approved safety containers always used to store small quantities of gasoline, kerosene or diesel fuel?
- Are all bulk propane storage tanks located at least the minimum distance of 10 feet from the nearest building?
- Are all propane system regulators and gauges protected from weather and dirt?
- Are areas around fuel tanks and pumps always kept free of weeds, trash and other combustible materials?
- Are "no smoking" signs posted in all fuel storage and handling areas and other places where combustible materials are located?

Electricity

- Are all wiring, power cords, plugs and switches in farm buildings and around the farm kept in good condition?
- Does the electrical system have ample capacity to handle all loads?

Hand, Power Tools

- Are all stationary power tools grounded and all portable power tools either double insulated or of the three-wire grounded type?
- Are portable power tools always disconnected when not in use?
- Are all stationary tools such as grinders and saws properly shielded and the shields always in place when in use?
- Are all hand tools (especially cutting tools like saws, axes and knives) properly stored so they cannot fall or be brushed against accidentally?
- Is your welding area well-ventilated?
- Are all work areas well lit?

National Junior Show: 'Angus Under The Big Top'

MILWAUKEE, Wis. — Junior Angus exhibitors should plan now to attend the 2002 National Junior Angus Show (NJAS), July 8-13 in Milwaukee, Wis. The Wisconsin Angus Association and Wisconsin Junior Angus Association will host the event, "Angus Under the Big Top."

Young Angus enthusiasts from more than 30 states are expected to enter cattle in the week-long event. In addition to the cattle shows, various educational contests and leadership opportunities will take place for all members of the National Junior Angus Association (NJAA).

In addition to the cattle show, various educational contests will take place. Both prepared and extemporaneous public speaking, team sales and quiz bowl, along with poster, photography, graphic design and writing contests will be held. The American Angus Auxiliary will also sponsor the All American Certified Angus Beef Cook-Off. As well, six members will be elected to the NJAA board of directors at the annual meeting of the NJAA which is held during the week.

A new program will be introduced at this year's event — a mentoring program that will match past NJAS exhibitors with first time exhibitors. The program is designed to help first time attendees to the large event learn more from their peers about the various shows and contests, and gives older exhibitors leadership opportunities.

More than 50 contestants will compete for the coveted title of champion showman during the finals of the 36th National Junior Angus Showmanship Contest. Only two exhibitors from each state can compete.

For more information about the 2002 National Junior Angus Show, contact the junior activities department at the American Angus Association, 3201 Frederick Ave., St. Joseph, MO 64506-2997, call (816) 383-5100 or access the Internet at www.angusjournal.com/2002njas.

Red Angus Popular Internationally

DENTON, Texas — For the sixth straight year in a row Red Angus was the number one breed for semen export sales holding 42 percent total market share in 2001 (National Association of Animal Breeders Semen Sales Report for 2000-2001, released February 25, 2002).

The Red Angus breed also experienced growth in domestic beef semen sales and custom frozen beef semen sales. Although the NAAB Semen Sales Report showed a general decline for total number of units sold in both markets, Red Angus semen sales increased 6.04 percent and 2.41 percent, respectively.

The Red Angus Association of America's executive secretary Dr. Bob Hough attributes the continuing growth and popularity of Red Angus to the breeders' dedication to performance. "We're seeing worldwide appreciation for the Red Angus industry leading performance programs with considerable growth in areas of the world that require heat tolerance" says Hough.

Red coat color is more desirable in hot climates, and the majority of the world's cattle are in areas that need heat tolerance.

Livestock Congress Conducted

HOUSTON, Texas — An attendance record was set for the International Livestock Congress (ILC) since its change to a think-tank format several years ago.

The event was conducted in Houston, Texas, in February during the Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo.

The International Stockmen's Educational Foundation produces and manages the annual event.

"We have always held to the belief that quality of speakers was more important than quantity," said ISEF Chairman and Show General Manager Dan Gattis. "However, I think we got both this year, as we had a tremendously high level of quality speakers who focused on some tough issues facing the beef and livestock industry."

Previously, the event had been known as the International Stockmens School and focused on a wide range of livestock species and issues. However, since the late '80s, the goal of the event was changed to reflect the growing need for a true industry caucus.

Dr. Larry Corah of Certified Angus Beef CAB) set the tone for the International Livestock Congress Beef Forum by presenting "Achieving Profitability in the Next Decade." Following breakout sessions, Dr. John Paterson of Montana State University presented a consensus report. A copy of Dr. Corah's presentation is available on the ILC Website at www.livestockcongress.com. Access the presentation by clicking on Beef Forum. Other papers will be posted on the site as they become available.

The 2003 International Livestock Congress is tentatively scheduled March 4-7, 2003 in Houston. For more information and updates, check the ILC web site at www.livestockcongress.com or call (817) 367-6563.

Edible Fruit, Vegetable-Based Wraps Win National Award

ALBANY, Calif. — Edible fruit- and vegetable-based food wraps have garnered a national award for an Agricultural Research Service food scientist. The editors of Popular Science magazine chose Tara H. McHugh's work as one of the magazine's 100 "Best of What's New" awards for 2001.

Her flavorful, nutritious wraps were selected from among thousands of products and technologies reviewed for the 14th annual competition. McHugh is with the ARS Processed Foods Research Unit at the Western Regional Research Center, Albany, Calif.

In her laboratory, McHugh has made coatings of varying thickness and strength from more than a dozen fruits and vegetables. They include apricots, guavas, mangos, papayas, broccoli and carrots. The edible wraps will increase the nutrition options for consumers and will reduce the amount of plastic food wrap that ends up in landfills, according to McHugh. Today, nearly 2 million tons of food packaging material end up as waste, according to the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency.

The unique wraps McHugh developed enhance flavors and protect freshness of foods by preventing moisture loss and by blocking oxygen that could cause unattractive browning.

For example, the thin, apple-flavored wraps that McHugh made from pureed apples intensify the flavor of apple slices and keep them from discoloring and shrinking. Her wrap made of strawberries complements the flavor of banana slices while keeping them fresh. McHugh's wrap from pureed peaches might be used to cover meat and then provide a tasty, attractive glaze when the meat is cooked.

ARS is the U.S. Department of Agriculture's chief scientific research agency.

LIMING THIS SPRING?

Use the old lime for old time results, or Use Reclime® with Soluble Silicon for:

- Increased quality and yield
- Improved nutrient management (Phosphorus and micros.)
- Better plant health

Reclime® is a calcium silicate-liming product with excellent liming ability (CCE 90+%, Ca 26%, Mg 6%), and has over 20 times more plant available silicon than traditional limestone. Extensive university and independent testing has shown that the silicon in Reclime® provides increased benefits to crop production including:

- Increased drought tolerance
- Reduced aluminum and sodium toxicity
- Lower disease susceptibility

Special Appreciation Award. The couple operate South Mountain Farm, a 200 acre, 150-head cow/calf farm. The beef herd is Charolais based with Angus influence. They have long been involved in PCA activities, including serving beef at agricultural events and helping to plan and implement the banquet.

The Gross family, Manchester, of Cold Springs Farm, was honored with the Cattle Feeder Award. Steve and Phyllis are joined by son Daniel and his wife Tina, in addition to his brother Steve and Steve's wife Becky.

The family's feedlot can handle 700 head of cattle at one time. Full-time employee Allen King and his wife Steph also help with the operation.

They rent 1,200 acres and own 480, growing most of their feed and selling the remainder on the open market. In addition, they sell their cattle on the open market. Additionally they have 100 Crossbred beef cows on the farm.

Daniel, a seventh-generation farmer, believes that community involvement is important for today's producers.

He credits the older generations of his family with doing a good job at working with the younger generations. "It's generations working together to preserve the future of our farms," Daniel said.

He emphasized that the farm's acres are not preserved

Terry Bentz, maintenance, and Harold Wendte, farm manager, represented Brown's Ranch, Gettysburg, to receive the Environmental Stewardship Award. They are joined by agriculture secretary Sam Hayes and PCA president Terry Shearer.

Roy and Jean Fuss, Dillsburg, took home Commercial Cattleman Award honors.

Other Environmental Stewardship Award recipients were the Eisenhour and Sweitzer families, Wellsville, represented by Brenda and Jim Eisenhower.

Ag Rally Day April 8

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — PennAg Industries Association is cooperating with Pennsylvania Farm Bureau (PFB) and Pennsylvania State Grange in conducting a Rally Day for Agriculture Monday, April 8, at the Pennsylvania State Capitol.

The event will begin at 3 p.m. on the capitol steps. Participants will be Guy Donaldson, PFB president; Jim Adams, PennAg Industries Association president; Bill Steel, Master, Pennsylvania State Grange; Secretary of Agriculture Sam Hayes; and legislative leaders.

Participants at the event are encouraged to make arrangements with their elected representatives or senators to meet with them following the rally. It is expected that the rally will conclude by 4 p.m. and appointments could be scheduled after that time.

PennAg will, upon request, provide participants with a list of talking points that can be utilized in meetings with legislators.

"This event is an important step in the agricultural community's efforts to remind decision-makers of the importance of agriculture to Pennsylvania and its economy," noted Walt Peechatka, executive vice president, PennAg Industries Association. "We encourage you to attend and bring with you business associates, family, and friends."

Pork Checkoff Sponsors Car Race

DES MOINES, Iowa — Producers, through their investments in the Pork Checkoff, sponsored the Pork. The Other White Meat 400 in Atlanta, Ga., on March 9. National Pork Board Member Mark Reding, a pork producer from Howardstown, Ky., was the Grand Marshal for the race.

"It was very exciting to represent pork producers at a race we sponsored," Reding said.

"We grilled and served pork samples at grocery stores in the Atlanta area several days prior to the race and on race day we grilled and served pork in the garage area. This type of promotion excites consumers about pork, so they may buy more pork when they are shopping at the meat case in grocery stores or eating in restaurants."

Reding and Georgia pork producers helped grill and serve pork at the racetrack. Reding and more than 30 pork producers from Iowa and South Carolina helped with Checkoff-funded pork promotions at 15 Publix stores in the Atlanta area.

Checkoff-funded pork promotions are planned with all others in the Automotive Race Club of America (ARCA) series in 2002. During similar Checkoff-funded race-related promotions in 2001, 481 pork producers from 16 states grilled and served more than 18,000 pork samples at race tracks.

In 2001, race-related promotions helped sell approximately 41 million pounds of pork in 18 retail chains with a total of 6,554 stores. Of that, 17.7 million pounds were incremental sales more than double the previous year's incremental sales of 8.3 million pounds. Incremental sales reflect the pounds of pork moved over normal tonnage and are compared to the same timeframe as the previous year. Incremental sales are a key measure of success of the checkoff-funded retail marketing programs.

2001 was the second year the pork checkoff has sponsored car # 46, driven by three-time ARCA/RE-MAX champion Frank Kimmel, in the ARCA racing series.

Horticulture Industry Recognized

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — DEP Deputy Secretary for Water Management Christine Martin recently addressed the Pennsylvania Horticultural Trade Alliance at a legislative breakfast on the status of water resources legislative efforts and praised the industry for its leadership and assistance to DEP during the current drought.

"The horticulture industry actively participated with the department in rewriting Pennsylvania's drought regulations, and already in the current drought, the industry is serving as a resource for developing and suggesting water conservation methods and as a point of contact to the gardening public," Martin said.

The industry has also been active in water resource legislation discussions. The alliance has listed water resources as one of its legislative priorities for this year. Among the elements the alliance believes needs to be addressed are an update of the State Water Plan, a need for the availability of water for agricultural irrigation during drought periods, representation of the horticulture industry during planning activities, registration and reporting of water uses with no fees; and a need to avoid duplication of efforts performed by river basin commissions.

Pa. Moves Closer To Goal

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Agriculture Secretary Sam Hayes announced that Pennsylvania's State Farmland Preservation Board has approved the preservation of another 23 farms totaling 2,545 acres, bringing the state another step closer to its goal of "2002 farms in 2002."

Farms include:

Adams County:

• Michael and Nora Keller, Mount Pleasant Township.

• Win and Winifred Schulteis, Menallen Township.

Berks County:

• James and Delores Adam, Windsor Township.

• Hetrick Brothers Farm, Jefferson and Tulpehocken townships.

• Edwin and Evelyn Lichtenstein, Oley Township.

• Ralph and Crystal Moyer, Bethel Township.

• William and Anna Norton, Upper Tulpehocken Township.

• Ray and Barbara Seidel, Windsor Township.

Erie County:

• Terrill and Jacqueline Dougan, Harborcreek Township.

• Mobilia Fruit Farm, North East Township.

Lackawanna County:

• John, Mary Ann and Jeanne Lally, Greenfield Township.

Lancaster County:

• Earl and Evelyn Landis, East Hempfield Township.

Montgomery County:

• Arlene Smith Farm, Salford Township.

• Charles, Jane, and Matthew Wismer, Limerick Township.

• Walton Yoder Farm, Franconia Township.

• William Zimmerman, Douglass Township.

Northumberland County:

• Timothy and Joyce Masser, Upper Mahanoy Township.

Union County:

• Dennis and Jeanne Hess, Limestone Township.

York County:

• Eugene and Dorladeen Brown, Lower Windsor Township.

• Steven and Harlan Harlacker, Dover Township.

• Kyle and Megan Rigby, Washington Township.

Two farms totaling 84 acres from Montgomery and Union counties were preserved through county preservation programs.

Overview Of NAHMS Swine Operations Report

WASHINGTON, D.C. — In 2000, USDA'S National Animal Health Monitoring system (NAHMS) conducted a study of swine operations within the 17 leading pork-producing states. These operations represented nearly 94 percent of the U.S. swine herd on sites with 100 or more pigs on December 1, 1999.

The following highlights were excerpted from a report released in July 2001, "Swine 2000 Part I: Reference of Swine Health and Management in the United States, 2000."

For sites with more than 500 breeding females, 85.3 percent of sows were mated via artificial insemination, compared to about 15 percent of sows on sites with less than 250 breeding females.

Three-fourths (76.4 percent) of sows were mated two or more times per service. For sites with less than 250 breeding females, 64.9 percent of sows and 57.0 percent of gilts were pen-mated.

For the 40.1 percent of sites that isolated or quarantined new breeding females, over 60 percent tested at least some new breeding females. Of the 65.1 percent isolating new boars, 51.8 percent tested all new breeding males.

Generally acclimatization measures were adopted more frequently on sites with an inventory of 250 or more. Besides vaccination (used on 84.1 percent of sites), exposure to cull females was used most often (49.0 percent of sites).

The average litter size was 10.9 pigs, of which 10.0 were born alive and 8.9 survived to weaning. The average preweaning mortality rate was 11.0 percent.

The most common measure taken for diseases prevention for piglets was to administer iron (75.4 percent of sites). For weaned growing pigs, antibiotics in feed and deworming were the primary treatments.

Mycoplasma was the most frequently used vaccine in sites with an inventory of 2,000 or more (approximately 60 percent of sites). More than 28 percent of all sites regularly administered vaccines against porcine reproductive and respiratory virus (PRRS).

During the previous year, 7.6 percent of sites were visited by a state or federal veterinary medical officer (VMO). VMOs visited a higher proportion of larger sites than smaller sites. Over one-third (34.5 percent) of sites had a local practitioner visit at least three times a year.

About two-thirds of sites restricted entry to the premises to employees only. Of those sites that did not restrict entry, only 23.6 percent required a 24-hour "no-swine-contact" period prior to entry.

Overall, 56.8 percent of sites allowed trucks to enter site perimeters. Smaller sites were less restrictive than larger sites.

Baits or poisons were the most frequently used method of rodent control (88.5 percent of sites). Although cats are associated with disease spread, they were nevertheless used for rodent control on 68.0 percent of smaller sites (less than 2,000 total pigs).

Respiratory disease was the greatest cause of mortality, accounting for 28.9 percent of nursery deaths and 39.1 percent of deaths in grower/finisher pigs.

Based on death loss data from December 1, 1999, through May 31, 2000, the annualized average sow and gilt death loss ranged from 5.0 to 7.4 percent, increasing with herd size.

From December 1, 1999, through May 31, 2000, nearly 18 percent of sows and gilts were removed from herds. The primary reason breeding females were culled was age (41.9 percent), followed by reproductive failure (21.3 percent) and lameness (16.0 percent).

A large percentage of sows were farrowed in total confinement facilities (83.4 percent), and 81.8 percent of pigs were placed in total confinement nurseries.

Less than 15 percent of pigs were finished in continuous flow facilities.

The average age of piglets at weaning was 19.3 days. Approximately two-thirds of piglets were weaned from 16 to 20 days of age.

Many sites (23.9 percent) utilized more than one source to obtain pigs for placement in grower/finisher units.

Approximately one-third of sites conducted tests on groundwater (37.9 percent) or nutrient content of manure (32.7 percent) during the previous three years. Less than 8 percent tested air quality.

Nearly one-fourth (23.2 percent) of sites composted dead preweaned pigs. Burial (37.8 percent of sites) and rendering (45.5 percent) were the most common methods of carcass disposal for larger pigs.

Lambs, Goats From 24 States Sell At Local Auction

There were hundreds of lambs to cry, and human cries of sheer joy were in the air after sheep receipts reached 1,676 head (mostly lambs) Monday at the New Holland Sales Stables.

The goat sale began at 9 a.m. and bidding was active from the outset. Auctioneer was Dale Stoltzfus with Roger Floyd, retired manager of the New Holland firm, clerking (via computer). Ring man was Tom Sharpe, a perennial figure in the area livestock trade. By the close in late afternoon, 1,697 head were sold.

At the three main sales for the Easter trade at New Holland this year, sheep and lambs were recorded at 4,816 head and goats numbered 4,466 for a grand total of 9,282 head. This is probably a record for sales for the Christian Easter (March 30) and the Passover trade. Passover began at sundown Wednesday and will continue for eight days.

Last year there were four religious or ethnic celebrations occurring at the same time, which resulted in the record numbers. The Christian Easter and the Greek Easter were observed Sunday, April 14, and it was also the first day of the Islam Year 1421 and the last day of the 8-day Jewish Passover observance. Record numbers of 4,884 sheep and 6,953 goats were sold at four sales within 10 days at New Holland from Monday, April 2 to Monday, April 9, 2001.

Ken Smoker, New Holland's manager of the sheep and goat division, said most of the sheep and goats went out of state to be slaughtered. He said they went to New York, New Jersey, Massachusetts, Connecticut, and Rhode Island.

Goat and sheep receipts at New Holland come from 24 states. In addition to the seven states surrounding Pennsylvania, Smoker said goats and lambs are trucked from Alabama, Arkansas, Georgia, Kentucky, Mississippi, Missouri, North Carolina, South Carolina, and Tennessee for sale at New Holland, where the demand is good from a wide range of buyers — large and small volume packers and individuals for religious observances.

Smoker has been involved in the livestock trade for more than 25 years. He got his start in the "short legs" division with the Walter M. Dunlap commission firm at the Lancaster Stockyards in the mid-'70s — "back in the days when Horace Plank was in charge," Smoker said.

With the influx of mideastern ethic groups of the Islamic faith in the eastern metropolitan areas, Smoker has experienced ever increasing numbers of meat goats being marketed at New Holland Sales Stables, where they had the facility in place to handle the trading.

Compared with last year, Smoker said, this year the market prices for lambs and goats were in the same range. Lambs are sold on a per-hundredweight basis and goats on per-head basis. When asked when the proposal in USDA channels to sell goats per hundredweight will begin, Smoker said he doesn't think that will happen. Buyers on the market are not pushing it.

This pen of lambs awaits sale for the Easter trade early Monday evening at the New Holland Sales Stables. Sheep and lamb receipts totaled 1,676 head.

Additional Notes About Holiday Sales

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — The Greek or Easter Orthodox Easter will be observed Sunday, May 5, this year. It is determined from the equinox (March 21) in the Julian Calendar while the Christian Easter is determined in the Gregorian Calendar and occurs on the Sunday following the first full moon after March 21. Sale dates for the Greek Easter trade will be Thursday, April 25, and Monday, April 29 at New Holland.

TECHNOLOGY AND AGRICULTURE

Agriculture in central Pennsylvania in the year 2015 will have a distinctive new dimension.

Agriculture is undergoing changes in all sectors. Production agriculture will have two size classes of farms in the next 15 years. The first class will be the very large or integrated enterprises. The second important size class will consist of small and part-time farms.

Large, independently owned farms and integrated agriculture serve the needs of increasing food exports abroad and commercial food distribution domestically. The major impact in the marketing scheme for large and integrated farms is wholesale pricing determined by supply and demand of commodities. Usually their profitability is based on lower cost of production relevant to the prices that are paid.

Since marketing opportunities have been narrowed by company consolidations and integration, producing commodities at lower costs is important for large farm survival.

A new marketing system is beginning to emerge and gradually being applied by innovative farmers. There are two systems that determine the marketing and production practices applied on the farm.

The two marketing systems in agriculture are:

- Commodity-based marketing
- Product-based marketing

Small and part-time farm enterprises are becoming increasingly dependent on product based markets. Direct marketing will have a major role in profitability.

The identification of a niche market is important for small farms to remain profitable. Farms in this size category will need to develop direct marketing skills and produce value-added products to remain viable enterprises.

Small and mid-sized enterprises can market services or products to a larger audience beyond the local area through technology applications such as e-commerce. This technology offers farmers tremendous marketing potential through extended market regions. Many businesses outside of agriculture are discovering the potential of internet sales.

The Internet caused a paradigm shift so severe that even Bill Gates missed its significance at first. The folks at Microsoft thought that the 'Net was just a plaything for academics, college kids, and military-industrial establishment spooks. Now they are betting the future of their company and their stock options on this worldwide communications phenomenon.

There is nothing evolutionary about the Internet. It is not the natural outgrowth of the telegraph or telephone or even television, although it shares some common characteristics. The Industrial Age is dead, and it has been replaced by the Communications Age.

It's not the Computer Age, even though it is powered by computer technology. The Communications Age as this era is identified, like the Industrial Age, entails a revolution in how the folks earn a living and exchange goods and services. It disrupts and reshapes markets and the very lives of those fortunate to be part of it.

When we talk about the new economy, we're talking about a world in which people work with their brains instead of their hands. Communication technology created global competition — everything from running shoes to laptop computers — but also bank loans and other services that can't be packed into a crate and shipped. In business today, innovation is more important than mass production. People are investing in new concepts or the means to create them, rather than new machines.

In business, rapid change is a constant — a world at least as different from what came before it as the industrial age was from its agricultural predecessor. A world so different its emergence can only be described as a revolution.

As all of agriculture struggles to remain profitable in an ever-changing global economy, both large, small, and mid-sized farms will need to apply e-commerce and other technology to remain sustainable. As markets continually change, farmers will need to be familiar with implementing cutting-edge technology. E-commerce is an example of technology being used as a valuable marketing tool.

Lancaster Farming's annual booklet, A Reference Guide To Animal Health and Housing, is scheduled April 6. The booklet's scheduled lineup includes a focus on animal care. Included are features on heat stress abatement in the summer months, hoof trimming guidelines, a look into a special-design milking parlor, heifer contracting, and a lambing story.

Did you know farmers and ranchers make up less than 2 percent of the U.S. population, and each one feeds 129 people, 101 in the U.S. and 28 abroad?

Morrison's Cove Announces Spring Plow Days

LINDA WILLIAMS
Bedford Co. Correspondent

NEW ENTERPRISE (Bedford Co.) — The Southern Cove Power Reunion Association will conduct its annual Spring Plow Days and Show April 6-7. The plowing will begin at 9 a.m. and run through 6 p.m. on Saturday and continue on Sunday afternoon.

Located on the club's 47-acre club show grounds, plowing equipment will include the horse-drawn variety as well as antique tractors and machinery.

Hit and Miss engines, a saw mill, and chain saw carving will also be a part of the day.

Smells of Southern Cove cooking are expected to fill the air and entice the appetites of spectators.

There will be a drawing for a 1948 Ford 8N.

Both exhibitors and campers are welcome. For more information, contact Darin Helsel at (814) 766-3715, Mel Calhoun at (814) 224-5861, or Fred Mellott at (814) 766-2703.

Plowing under all circumstances throughout history will be demonstrated at the Spring Plow Days April 6-7 at New Enterprise.

The Power Reunion grounds are located off Rt. 36 on Brumbaugh Road. Turn onto Cave Road.

Drinking Water Clinic Offered In Lebanon County

LEBANON (Lebanon Co.) — Lebanon County residents who rely on a private well, spring or cistern may be drinking tap water that contains some form of contamination, according to a Penn State Cooperative Extension educator.

"Between 60 and 70 percent of all private well water supplies in the state don't meet all drinking water safety standards," said Tom McCarty, water quality agent. "There are about one million private water supplies in Pennsylvania, mostly springs and wells fed by groundwater, and about 20,000 new wells are drilled in the state every year. Because private water systems are largely unregulated, water quality and quantity problems are all too common."

To address these problems, water specialists from Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences and the Environmental Resources Research Institute will offer a satellite clinic, which will be presented at Lebanon County extension office from 7 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. April 8. The aim is to provide rural residents with the information they need to cost-effectively maintain a safe and plentiful water supply.

"Residents who receive water from a public water company or authority can be confident that their water meets drinking water safety standards," McCarty said. "But if you own your own private supply, you have sole responsibility for managing the quality and quantity of your water."

Common problems in private water supplies include bacterial contamination, lead, radon, nitrate, iron, acidity and corrosivity. Residents attending the clinic can learn how to avoid, detect, and treat the contaminants they are likely to find in their water. Water conservation and managing a private water supply in times of drought also will be discussed.

"We'll cover drinking water standards, proper well construction and location, land-use activities associated with individuals pollutants, water testing, and water treatment," McCarty said.

McCarty recommends that private well owners hire a certified laboratory to test their water for bacteria annually, and for other chemicals at least every three years.

The clinic is free, but please call the office if you are planning to attend so that we can have enough materials for all attendees. For more information on the clinic or maintaining a private water supply, contact the Lebanon County office of Penn State Cooperative Extension at (717) 270-4391.

Blair County Honors Top Breeders, Herds

KRISTIN RUSSELL
Blair Co. Correspondent

WILLIAMSBURG (Blair Co.) — The Blair County Holstein Club conducted its annual meeting and banquet in conjunction with the DHIA awards presentations, March 18 at the Williamsburg Elementary School.

Presiding over the meeting was Holstein Club President Dennis Brumbaugh.

Guests for the evening included Blair County Dairy Princess Emily Kirsch and Pennsylvania Dairy Princess Rebecca Mowrer from Huntingdon County. The dairy princesses served a milk punch reception before the banquet.

The Blair County Holstein club recognized Judy Black and John Burket for their efforts in organizing the 2002 Pennsylvania Holstein Convention that was hosted by Blair County in Altoona earlier this month. Both were given a fruit basket. Club President Dennis Brumbaugh expressed the club's sincere appreciation for all of their hard work that resulted in one of the most successful and memorable state conventions.

New directors were elected to serve a three-year term on the Blair County Holstein Club board of directors. Serving until 2005 are Wesley Metzker of Martinsburg, Wesley Smith of Martinsburg, Bradley England of Williamsburg, and Judy Black of Tyrone.

Judy Black presented the Holstein Junior member awards for the milk, fat, and protein production contest. Deanne and Donna Delp, daughters of Durrell and Donna Delp of Williamsburg, swept that competition with their two outstanding production cows.

Delside Delaware Bingo won first place milk, fat, and protein award in her age division. She is owned by Deanne Delp. Delside Counselor Heidi also won first place in all three categories in her age division. She is owned by Donna Delp.

Rebecca Shaw, daughter of Steven and Karyn Shaw of Williamsburg, was recognized for having the only Junior All-PA show winner from Blair County this year. Her project calf, Windy-Knoll-View Jennifer, was the reserve Junior All-PA spring calf for 2001.

David Bigelow from Pennsylvania DHIA/Dairy One presented the production awards to top herds in Blair County. He brought greetings from the management of his organization and commended Blair County on its 10th place rank for milk in Pennsylvania.

Bigelow recognized Frederick Farms of Martinsburg as the high herd in Blair County for 2001 with a herd average of 28, 323 pounds of milk, 1,137 pounds of fat, and 877 pounds of protein per cow. Also recognized was the top Jersey herd in Blair County, the Jo-Be Farm, with 18,634 pounds of milk, 824 pounds of fat, and 623 pounds of protein per cow.

In the mixed breed competition, Harold and Bernard Bailey's Roaring Spring herd ranked on top with 18,760 pounds of milk, 725 pounds of fat, and 586 pounds of protein per cow. The top Ayrshire herd for Blair County is owned by Andrew and Jennifer Heltzel of Martinsburg with 18,055 pounds of milk, 693 pounds of fat, and 543 pounds of protein.

Pennsylvania DHIA presents a herd management award. This award is based on a point system. Points are awarded for increase in production from one year to the next, low somatic cell counts, and other good management practices. Ranking in the top for Blair County were 1. Frederick Farms. 2. Thomas W. Kelly. 3. Smith Hollow Farms. 4. Rodrick and Trudy Hinish. 5. Mill Hill Farms.

Also recognized were the herds with the lowest somatic cell counts. Top herds in this category were 1. Andrew and Jennifer Heltzel. 2. Barnes Brothers. 3. Jo-Be Farms. 4. Smith Hollow Farms. 5. Thomas W. Kelly.

Holstein Sale Announced

MONTROSE (Susquehanna Co.) — Holstein enthusiasts will have their pick of over 60 consignments at the Northeast Spring Classic sale, sponsored by the Susquehanna County Holstein Club April 5 at 7:30 p.m. Harold Hartt's farm, Susquehanna, will host the event. Fraley Auction Company, Muncy will auctioneer.

Consignments were handpicked by dairy farmers for dairy farmers and exemplify the best the Northeast has to offer. They include milking cows, springers, show-age calves, an embryo package, and a pick of flush. In the past, buyers have enjoyed customer-satisfaction cattle and have returned year after year. This sale has been a tradition in the Northeast for more than 35 years.

One unique consignment to the sale is three units of 29HO2775 Hanover-Hill Triple Threat semen, consigned by Charlie Clark, Springville. Triple Threat, born in 1972, has sired numerous All-American and All-Canadian cattle.

To request a catalog, contact sale chair Joe Vanderfeltz (570) 934-2406; or sale committee member Charlie Clark, Springville, (570) 996-0743; or Joseph Pavelski, Susquehanna, (570) 756-2256; or any member of the Susquehanna Holstein Club. Other sale information can be found on Fraley Auction Company's Website www.fraleyauction.com.

Community, Legislators Discuss Issues

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The Pennsylvania State Council of Farm Organizations (SCOFO) hosted its annual business meeting and Cornucopia reception in the state Capitol March 11.

The Cornucopia offers Pennsylvania's agricultural community an opportunity to interact with legislators and discuss the legislative agenda.

"While meeting with state legislators, our members addressed a number of current issues of interest to the organization," said Susan Fox, executive director of the Pennsylvania Association of Conservation Districts Inc. and chairwoman of the 2002 Cornucopia.

The meeting featured a two-part roundtable discussion, with the first part focused on "Local Governments and Agriculture." Elam Herr of the Pennsylvania Association of Township Supervisors and Jim Kennedy, Butler County Commissioner, served as panelists. The second part of the discussion, "Water Resources," featured panelists David Hess, DEP secretary; George Wolff of George Wolff Associates; Bill Adams of the Pennsylvania Farm Bureau and Brenda Shambaugh of the Pennsylvania State Grange.

Drought Under Discussion At Rural Water Association Annual Conference

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — Pennsylvania Department of Environmental Protection (DEP) Secretary David E. Hess recently discussed current drought conditions and stressed the need for new legislation to protect Pennsylvania's water resources at the annual conference of the Pennsylvania Rural Water Association (PRWA).

"Current drought conditions across the state reflect the need for water-resources planning to protect and preserve our water resources for the future," Hess said.

"DEP is grateful to the PRWA for serving as the voice of Pennsylvania's rural water and wastewater utilities, allowing even the smallest system to benefit from a united effort."

Hess praised the PRWA for providing leadership in the operation, maintenance, and management of systems responsible for providing safe drinking water and wastewater management.

"PRWA has provided training and on-site technical assistance to more than 370 Pennsylvania small community water systems," Hess said.

"Their efforts in on-site leak-detection in 70 communities has saved an astounding 1.3 billion gallons of drinking water and more than a half-million dollars."

PRWA is a member-supported, nonprofit organization whose mission is to support its members and utilities throughout the commonwealth with professional technical support, certified training, legislative representation, and other services and benefits.

Drought Emergency Tips For Agricultural Landowners, Operators

WEST CHESTER (Chester Co.) — The Pennsylvania Code, Chapter 119, regulates activities during a drought emergency.

Agricultural operations are addressed under Section 119.4.3, Prohibitions of Nonessential Water Uses, and include: "The use of fresh water for irrigation and watering of outdoor gardens, landscaped areas, trees, shrubs, and other outdoor plants except that fresh water may be: used for irrigation for the production of food and fiber, and the maintenance of livestock and poultry."

The following tips will help you to conserve water resources in your operation and may provide answers to frequently asked questions:

- Agricultural landowners and operators can withdraw water from a pond on their property to irrigate crops.
- To withdraw water from a stream, please call the Pennsylvania Department of Environmental Protection (PA DEP) for permission. They may direct you to the Delaware River Basin Commission (DRBC) or Susquehanna River Basin Commission (SRBC — for Octorara watershed only).
- Manure storage can be used to irrigate crops (if necessary).
- Fresh water irrigation should be done after 5 p.m. to reduce evaporation.
- To reduce dust, spray your farm lanes and driveways with soybean oil (one application per year) or dust suppressants (commercially available, see reverse for distributor).
- Dams or restrictions on waterways are not permitted or allowed unless permitted by PA DEP.
- Stagger heavy water use throughout the day so that the well has an opportunity to recover.
- Reduce mowing in non-productive areas.
- Residue and cover crops will hold the moisture- minimum tillage and/or no-till plowing.
- Check all pipes, faucets, and watering systems for leaks in your home and barn.
- Meter your well (even temporarily for a 30 day period) to know your water use.
- Learn how to recycle your water use for wash-down.
- For poultry use nipples instead of cups (also improves manure management)
- Cover watering hoses if they are black
- Closely monitor grazing (use rotational grazing sticks which are available from NRCS).
- Keep cows out of creek if flows are low to prevent stagnate, heavy nutrient laden water.
- To install streambank fencing, contact- Dave DiCeccio (Chesapeake Bay Foundation) or Chris Strohmaier (Chester County Conservation District) at (610) 696-5126.

Northwest Transition Cow Workshops Set

MERCER (Mercer Co.) — Do you have recurrent health problems with fresh cows? Are transition cow problems limiting production? Are your cows a challenge to breed back?

Take just 90 minutes out of the day and come listen to an informative cow side discussion of current transition cow issues facing today's dairyman. Hear how dry cow and close-up cow nutritional management practices offer opportunities to better prevent fresh cow problems. Learn what diseases transition cows are at risk for, and how to systematically evaluate them for early detection and treatment.

Speakers include Dr. Gabriella Varga of Penn State's Department of Dairy and Animal Science, and Dr. David H. Baver, Extension Veterinarian, Mercer County/Northwest Region. Workshop details are as follows:

- Workshop 1: Clarion County, at the Griebel Farm in Lucinda, Thursday, April 11, from 10-11:30 a.m. The farm is located 6½ miles north of the Rt. 322 and Rt. 66 north intersection. Take Rt. 66 north 6½ miles through Lucinda past Pennzoil station, turn right onto East Drive, go approximately ½ mile, and turn right onto Dairy Lane to Griebel Farm. Signs will be posted.
- Workshop 2: Crawford/Mercer Counties, at the Rynd Home Farm just outside of Cochranton, Thursday, April 11 from 1:30-3 p.m. Take Rt. 173 north out of Cochranton and turn right onto Route 322. Go two to three miles. The farm is on the left and is visible from the road. To get to the farm you will need to turn left on the next road past the farm.

Workshop 3: Warren/Erie Counties, at the Bob and Joe Nickerson farm, Friday, April 12, from 10:30-12:00 a.m. The Nickerson farm is located along Rt. 6, approximately two miles east of Corry.

For more information call our the Mercer County extension office at (724) 662-3141.

EPA Appoints New Bay Program Director

PHILADELPHIA — Donald S. Welsh, regional administrator of the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA's), mid-Atlantic Region, announced that Rebecca Hanmer has been selected as the new director of EPA's Chesapeake Bay Program.

"Rebecca brings an unparalleled record of experience to the important job of protecting the nation's largest estuary," said Welsh. "She has been an important leader in the development of many federal water protection programs, and I am confident that she will expand our partnership efforts that will lead to real and measurable environmental benefits in the bay and its entire watershed."

Hanmer is director of Region III's Water Protection Division, a post she has held since December 2000. A career federal executive, Hanmer began her government serve in 1964 as a program analyst in the U.S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare.

Hanmer is a charter member of the EPA, joining when the agency was created in 1970. Since 1975 she has held a number of executive positions in EPA in both Washington and in several EPA regions. Her posts have included acting assistant administrator for water, deputy assistant administrator for water, regional administrator for Region IV in Atlanta, action regional administrator for EPA's Region VIII in Denver, director of the Office of Water Enforcement and Permits and Federal Activities in EPA headquarters, and deputy regional administrator for Region I in Boston.

From 1990 to 1997 Hanmer worked for the Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development in Paris, where she managed OECD's technology and environment program and headed the Pollution Prevention and Control Division.

Prior to her current post, Hanmer was EPA's program manager for the mountaintop mining/valley fill environmental impact statement, and from 1997 to 1998 she was Region III's liaison with the District of Columbia.

A native of Keysville, Va., Hanmer is a recipient of the President's Distinguished Federal Executive Award and has twice received the President's Meritorious Federal Executive Award. She attended the College of William and Mary, New York University and the American University in Washington, D.C., and has a bachelor's and master's degree in political science.

Fuel Expert: Using Ag By-Products For Energy Making More Sense

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Using agricultural by-products as an energy source these days is making more economic sense, according to a fuels expert in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences. But "biomass" is not free, he points out.

"We have the opportunity to use biomass — generally defined as organic matter including wood, agricultural crops, crop residues and animal manures — to produce several types of fuel," says Dennis Buffington, professor of agricultural engineering. "But we can no longer think of these materials as free."

Although energy prices have stabilized this year, there are increased concerns about the price and availability of energy in various forms, notes Buffington. "Just one year ago, we were facing energy prices of over $2 a gallon for gasoline, natural gas prices approaching $25 per 1,000 cubic feet and home heating fuel of $1.40 a gallon in some markets," he says. "Considering the terrorist attacks last September and the continuing terrorist threats, we are now even more committed to reducing our vulnerability to world events by decreasing our dependence on imports of overseas petroleum."

Examples of biomass include ethanol produced from shelled corn, biodiesel from organic oils (derived from plants, animals and spent cooking oil), methane from digesting animal manures, ethanol from "cellulosic" plant materials and methane from landfill gases.

There are benefits in addition to the fuels produced, including by-products that often can be used for animal feed, organic fertilizers and soil amendments, points out Buffington. And there is always the potential for creating jobs and spurring economic development in the communities where these processing facilities are located.

"Unfortunately, many analyses of the economic benefits of producing ethanol from cellulosic plant materials often regard the cellulose as free," he says. "Whether we are talking about straw, corn stover, corncobs or other crop residue, these materials are anything but 'free'."

Obvious expenses, according to Buffington, include the labor, equipment and fuel costs for harvesting these biomass materials, transporting the low-density materials to a central facility for producing the fuel and storing the materials for use in off-season.

"Less obvious expenses include increased soil compaction because of more equipment traffic on the fields, increased soil erosion because of the loss of vegetative cover, increased need for fertilizer and herbicides for the next cycle of crops, decreased moisture-holding capacity of the soil, and decreased food and shelter for wildlife," he says.

"Obviously it's difficult to place dollar values on indirect costs of utilizing crop residues, such as soil compaction, soil loss and wildlife habitat," Buffington adds. "Direct costs of utilizing crop residues can be established for factors including labor, equipment and fuel."

Producers also need to consider that the crop residue has an opportunity cost from other competitive uses such as livestock bedding, landscape mulch, fiberboard and insulation.

"In all analyses, we must always include the economic costs and the environmental implications associated with utilizing crop residues to produce fuel," says Buffington.

New York Beef Producers Schedule Bull Test Sale

SYRACUSE, N.Y. — The New York Beef Producers Association (NYBPA) is facilitating a Central Bull Testing Program as a tool for evaluating and merchandising potential herd sires.

Following a 112-day feeding period, the top indexing bulls will be presented for sale on April 27 at the NYS Fairgrounds in Syracuse. The 56 bulls, representing eight breeds, are being fed and managed at Erwindale Farm in Waterloo, N.Y.

The purpose of a Central Testing Program is to:

- Compare individual performance of potential herd sires
- Provide an opportunity for seedstock producers to market individual bulls
- Provide a source of bulls for commercial and seedstock herds and
- Provide an educational opportunity for sellers and buyers alike.

After 56 days on test, the cumulative average daily gain was 2.95 pounds, the weight per day of age is 2.50 pounds.

Not all bulls that complete the test will be sold. Of the 56 bulls consigned, only 40 will sell. Bulls will not be allowed to sell if they fail the following two exams:

- Reproductive soundness. Each bull will undergo an internal and external exam by a veterinarian to evaluate his potential to breed females. A passing score indicates that from a reproductive standpoint, he is determined structurally fit to breed. Libido, which is his desire to find and service females in heat, will not be determined, nor will semen be evaluated, as the results are inconclusive on young bulls.
- Structural soundness. A herd sire is expected to travel a lot of ground to fulfill his duties in a short breeding season. Therefore bulls will be evaluated for defects in feet and leg structure that may inhibit their ability to service cows. As this evaluation can be subjective in nature, leaving it open to criticism, it will be completed by an individual with no direct ties to the consignors or the NYBPA.

Those that pass the above tests will be ranked by an index which takes into consideration average daily gain (ADG), weight per day of age (WDA), ultrasound measured backfat (BF), intramuscular fat (IMF) and ribeye area (REA). These factors will be weighted to represent the relative importance to the commercial industry: ADG, WDA and REA will make up 90 percent of the index, the remaining 10 percent to be placed on BF and IMF. Bulls that rank 90 or better will be eligible for sale.

Following the bull sale, 29 Empire Heifer Development Program certified heifers, and some select purebred females and club calves, will be offered for sale. This will be an excellent opportunity to improve the genetics of an existing herd or begin a herd with some of the best cattle to be offered in the northeast.

To receive a sale catalog, or for more information, contact Bill Miller, bull test manager, at (585) 750-4663.

Mason-Dixon Red And White Dairy Cattle Association Meeting Set

CARLISLE (Cumberland Co.) — A general membership meeting of the Mason-Dixon Red and White Dairy Cattle Association (RWDCA) was conducted March 17 at Middlesex Diner, Carlisle.

The agenda included discussion of the 2002 convention in Belvidere, Ill.; the 2003 convention; the 2004 convention in Minnesota; the Spring Red and White Show in Syracuse; update on National RWDCA; and election of officers. Planning began for a summer picnic.

The Mason-Dixon RWDCA will host the 2003 convention.

A meeting will be conducted Sunday, April 21 at 1 p.m. at Middlesex Diner, Carlisle. At this time, planning will continue for the summer picnic and the 2003 convention. Directors will be elected at this meeting. Anyone interested in Red and White Holsteins is encouraged to attend this meeting.

New officers are John Weiler, president; Jake Skinner, vice president; Kenneth Myer, secretary-treasurer; and Sally K. Nolt, assistant secretary-treasurer.

For membership information, contact Kenneth K. Myer, 393 Ridgeview Road N., Elizabethtown, PA 17022, (717) 367-3344.

Foraging Around, the newsletter of the Pennsylvania Forage and Grassland Council is scheduled April 20. The section includes additional coverage of the Council's recent annual conference in Grantville. Also included are features with a focus on making hay for specialty markets.

Klussendorf Offers Dairy Scholarships

COLUMBUS, Ohio — Two $1,000 Klussendorf Scholarship Awards are to be granted to students successfully completing their first, second, or third years at a two-year or four-year college or university. To be eligible, students must major in a Dairy Science (Animal Science/Dairy) curriculum with plans to enter the dairy cattle field as a breeder, owner, herdsperson, or fitter. The award is made possible by a generous gift by the late Klussendorf member, Chris Kampf.

The Arthur B. Klussendorf Memorial Association honors those who most nearly exemplify the character and ethics of this late, legendary showman and fitter of dairy cattle. Past, present, or potential members of dairy cattle judging teams will receive special consideration.

Applicants need to show leadership, participation in extra-curricular activities, and special interest and ability in showing dairy cattle in their best natural form.

For applications, please write to National Dairy Shrine, Office of the Executive Director, 1224 Alton-Darby Creed Rd., Columbus, OH 43228-9702.

The completed application, with two letters of recommendation, must be received by July 1.

Announcement of the two winners will be made Sept. 1 and the awards will be presented at the National Dairy Shrine banquet on Oct. 3 at World Dairy Expo, Madison, Wis.

Penn State To Offer E-Commerce Workshop

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — On June 25 and 27, Penn State Cooperative Extension will debut a two-day workshop for small business owners who are interested in developing an understanding of electronic commerce and its potential to improve their business' profitability.

The Access Pennsylvania Main Street workshop, co-sponsored by Ben Franklin Partnership, the Lebanon Valley Chamber of Commerce, and Harrisburg Area Community College (HACC) will be offered at the Lancaster Campus of HACC (1641 Old Philadelphia Pike, Lancaster).

E-commerce tools can work for any business because they are found throughout the business cycle — production, procurement, distribution, sales, payment, fulfillment, restocking, and marketing. E-business involves all communications technology, including WWW, e-mail, private bulletin board systems, value-added networks, intranets, and extranets.

Forms of communications technology such as television, telephone, and fax are part of the e-commerce process. By attending this course, participants will learn about each of these aspects of e-commerce, and begin to apply specific skills necessary for their business to expand and improve their opportunities in the rapidly growing global marketplace. Would-be entrepreneurs will equally benefit from this hands-on look at e-commerce feasibility and how it fits in their business dream.

The four-session workshop, delivered from 8:30 a.m.-4:30 p.m over two days, will be taught by extension educators Winifred McGee, Laura Watts, and Ed Herrmann. To receive your registration materials, contact the Lebanon County Office of Penn State Cooperative Extension at (717) 270-4391 or email wwm1@psu.edu.

Maryland Field Day Planned

WESTMINSTER, Md. — The Maryland Cooperative Extension has planned a Field Day on April 13 that will provide producers with information on Cover Crops for Organic Production, Late Season Raspberry Production in High Tunnels and the Use of High Density Tunnels for Season Extension for Vegetables and Small Fruits. A registration fee of $5 will be charged to help offset handouts and lunch.

The program will begin at noon at the Clarksville Research Farm in Ellicott City. There the group will tour the cover crop test plots and discuss results and future plans for this project.

Next the tour will visit Larriland Farm in Lisbon, where there will be discussion on the basics of high tunnel season extension, including site selection, site prep, construction basics, and uses with regard to late season raspberry production.

The final stop will be at Knill's Farm Market in Mt. Airy to tour an advanced form of season extension called a High Density Tunnel. This system is used for both vegetables, cutflowers and small fruit production.

A late lunch will be provided. To register, to obtain directions or more information, contact either the Howard County Extension Office at (410) 313-2707 or the Carroll County Extension Office at (410) 386-2760.

HAKARI ALASKA BROMEGRASS

Great Drought Tolerance! Fast Establishment

Hakari is a new type of Brome with very fast establishment, excellent drought tolerance, and very high protein and digestibility. Hakari is easy to mow and dry and not as sod forming as smooth brome. Very late maturing. Hakari's high palatability makes it good for grazing together with Baralfa 42-IQ in drought prone fields.

IMPORTANT: FOR LONG-TERM STAND PERSISTANCE LEAVE A 3 INCH OR MORE STUBBLE.

Egg Artists Recreate Ukranian Easter Tradition

The dye, colored black so it is easier to see, is applied to the egg with a medium- or fine-point "kiska."

MICHELLE KUNJAPPU
Lancaster Farming Staff

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — A springtime custom long practiced in faraway Ukraine has reached America.

"Pysanky" eggs have become a popular showpiece and craft endeavor for many people who enjoy the art.

"One of the oldest symbols of new life, rebirth, and love," according to brochure information, the eggs, traditionally created in the springtime, were decorated to celebrated nature's renewal with the coming of warm weather.

The word "Pysaty," meaning "to write," is accomplished by literally writing on the egg with a wax-applying instrument to create the colorful, meaningful designs.

Flowers, for example, symbolize love, charity, and good will. Evergreen trees symbolize eternal youth and health. Wheat symbolzies good health and a bountiful harvest.

Animal symbols also show up on eggs, as deer, sheep, horse, and lion symbolize weather, prosperity, strength, and speed. Fish symbolize Christianity. Geometric symbolize rakes, ladders, windmills, triangles, and stars are also combined to create the intricate picture.

Although the designs may look like they've been stenciled on the egg, the patterns are drawn on freehand.

Beryl Swisher, Lancaster, has filled her Easter season with crafting designs on eggshell canvases. After learning the art from a fellow church member, she now teaches a five-week course conducted at her church before Easter.

To create a Pysanky egg, Swisher carefully notes the lines on a pattern, then faithfully reproduces it on her egg with a pencil, dividing the egg into eighths.

The rest of the design, however, is accomplished simply with the wax-yielding tool called the "kiska."

By heating the metal end of the small instrument, Swisher melts the beeswax (candle wax cannot be substituted) which creates the lines of the pattern. She puts the black wax, which is most easily seen on the white egg shell, in the top of the kiska.

The small amount of wax dries very quickly, speeding the process. With a pattern she has completed several times, for example, Swisher can decorate an egg in less than an hour.

Mistakes can be scraped off with a small scalpel-like instrument. "These are little things you learn on your own," she said.

One of the last steps is melting the wax off of the egg, which is followed by wiping the egg with a paper towel. "That's when you see what you've accomplished," said Swisher.

Most of the time, the egg creator begins with a white egg to create the pearly white outline that contrasts with the vibrant colors of the dyes.

Once the original lines are drawn on the egg, it is placed in a yellow dye for 2-3 minutes.

To move to the following step, Swisher takes note of the second egg portrayed in the pattern, which adds lines which will be yellow on the egg.

"I look at one design to the next to see what is missing," she said. "I make sure there is enough room to put the next design in.

"If you make a mistake, don't worry about it because most people won't know you made a mistake. Just keep on going," she said.

After the wax lines are draw over the areas which are meant to be yellow, she places the egg in the pink dye. Again she looks at the pattern on the egg which dictates which lines, or filled-in designs, should be pink and applies the wax.

Following this the egg is put into the blue dye.

Since the blue dye is the last color for this particular pattern, she dries the egg with a paper towel, then places it in the flame of an alcohol burner.

"I teach my class to use a candle," she said, although the egg will take on black carbon smudges if it gets in the candle's flame. Once the egg's wax is melted off in a few seconds, she wipes the wax off with a paper towel.

"That's when you see what you've accomplished."

A varnish gives a glistening coat and protects the egg from damage, since water can change the dye. In addition, when the contents of the egg are blown out, a varnish coat will protect the outside of the egg from the wet yolk and white.

While the eggs look intricate and complicated, creating this art form is within reach of most.

"Once you learn the basics, you'll feel a lot more confident" in going ahead with more intricate designs.

Swisher gets her inspiration for new patterns from books or from attendees of the class that she has taught at her church, St. Peters Lutheran Church, for three years.

"I don't necessarily teach. The ladies just like to get together to do these eggs." Swisher sets up the area and copies designs for the evening's session. Participants bring their own dyes and tools. They create eggs once a week for five weeks before Easter, then display the eggs in a glass case on Easter Sunday at the church.

Fortunately for Pysanky creators, buying the materials needed to begin the art are approximately $10. Two kiskas, one fine and one medium, and five dyes, black, bright red, yellow, orange, and blue, are the necessities. From there, "you can make just about any colors you want to."

With more than 10 years of experience, she has passed on the art to not only fellow church and community members but also her grandchildren. Teaching the technique, however, is not the only thing she has given.

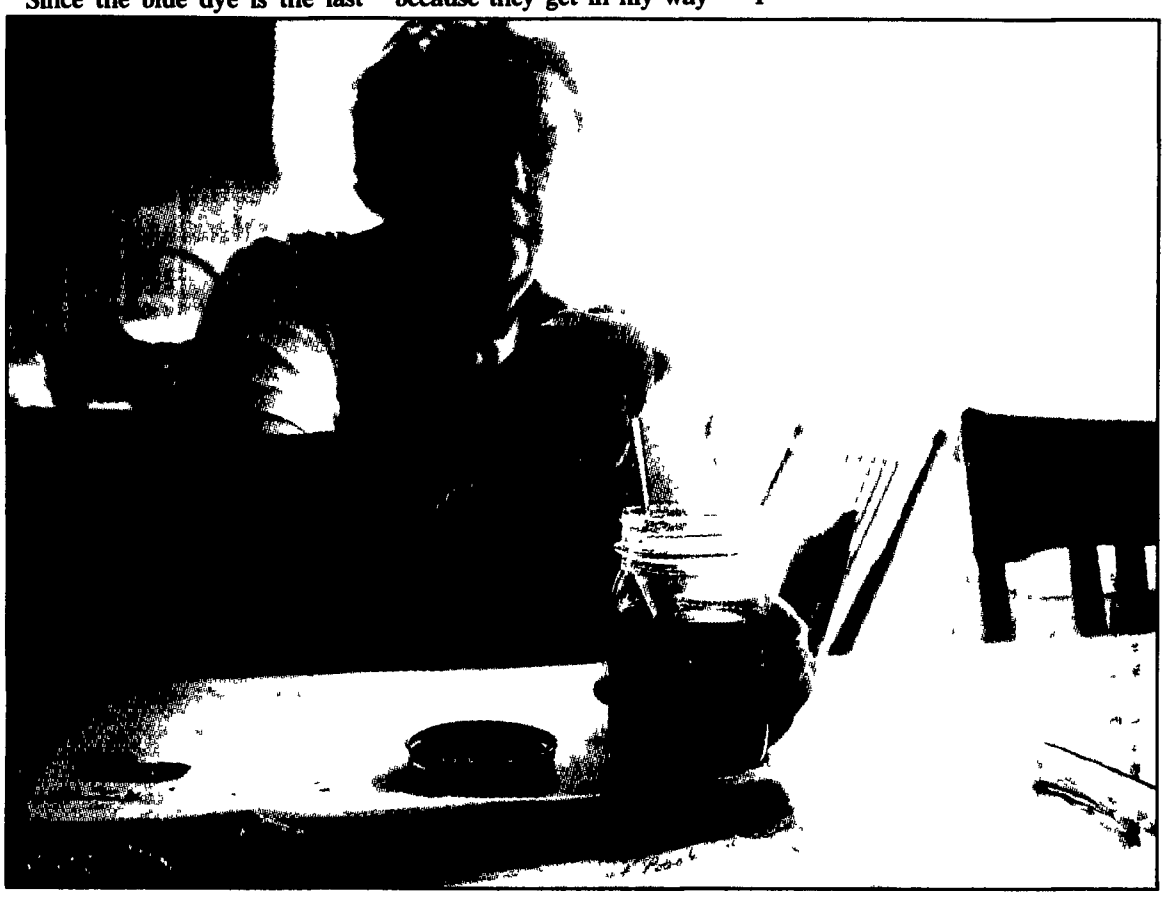
"I must have given away 20-30 because they get in my way — I don't know where to go with them after a while." The eggs she has kept have taken up residence on small iron stands, in a basket, or displayed in small wooden pots.

Swisher, who grew up on a small dairy and chicken farm in Espyville, Crawford County, buys only eggs from a nearby farm.

She said that the shell is harder since it has not been processed with the wash at a plant. Next she washes the eggs with white vinegar to give them a bright white glow for the outlines.

Dyes are available only during the Easter season, however once

(Turn to Page B3)



The wax dries quickly, so the egg can move on to the next step, a 2-3 minute bath in each dye.

Pysanky eggs are created with wax and dyes.

Pysanky Eggs

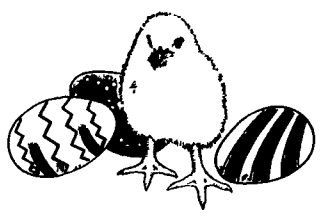
they are in liquid form in wide-mouthed jars they can be saved until the next year. She recommends adding ⅓ tablespoon of vinegar to rejuvenate the dye when it is brought out for its second season.

Mastering the kiska goes a long way toward a beautiful Pysanky egg, according to Swisher.

"I stress the fact that 75 percent of doing these egs is using the kiska — learning how to control it, heating the wax, and applying it to the egg," she said. Although electric kiskas are available, Swisher prefers the older, candle-warmed model.



Swisher creates the eggs only during the Easter season.

Colors also have meaning as in the following:

- Yellow: light.
- Red: sun, happiness, hope, and passion.
- Orange: everlasting sun.
- Light green: breaking of shackles and freedom from bondage, also spring, new growth, and hope.
- Purple: faith, patience, trust, and fasting.
- Brick: symbol of mother earth bringing forth her bounty.
- Royal blue: royal color, higher life and trust.
- Black: eternity, darkest time before dawn.
- Light blue: signifies the sky with its lifgiving air and good health.

Are you having trouble finding nutritious snacks for your children to eat?

Have you ever wondered about the nutritional benefits of prepackaged veggies compared to fresh?

Here are a few tips to help you decide what vegetables can fill the menu for your family and help your snacking younger children.

The popularity of pre-cut vegetables packaged in plastic bags is definitely on the rise. Cost not withstanding, they are very appealing to busy, health-conscious shoppers who'd like to eat more fresh fruits and vegetables but have less and less time to prepare them.

Don't be mislead into thinking that ready-to-cook (or eat) vegetables are nutritionally superior. They should be thought of in the same category as frozen and canned products. All such processed foods, from a practical standpoint, are equally good for you, according to a study reported by the Institute of Food Technologists. By the time you stick the product in your mouth, the nutrient content is about the same regardless of whether it was fresh, frozen, or canned, because in the end, all of these require different amounts of further processing. With the canned peas for example, they need only be barely heated, while frozen peas require a bit more.

Fresh peas, however, must be shelled, rinsed, and cooked considerably longer. So at some point along the line, all three "versions" have been subjected to about the same amount of heat to make them edible.

In addition, commercial processors typically pick right from the field and preserve the vegetables within hours, allowing less nutrient loss than occurs in that head of broccoli that's been trucked across the country, left to sit in the store for a day or two, taken home, stored even longer, and then overcooked.

Remember-pre-cut vegetables packaged in plastic bags are a "processed" food. First the vegetables are cut, then typically washed in a chlorine solution to kill harmful bacteria, and rinsed in plain water. They're placed in plastic bags that use a technology called "modified atmosphere packaging" to slow down nutrient loss and spoilage. How this works is that the plastic films used in the packages determine the amount of oxygen and carbon dioxide that can move in and out of the bag. Controlling this "respiration" (a natural occurrence that continues even after vegetables have been harvested) maintains nutrient quality significantly longer than if the same product sat out in the open air.

For this reason it's important to note the sell-by date on pre-cut vegetable products and to use them up promptly once the bag has been opened. When the "modified atmosphere" is torn, deterioration accelerates.

Be sure the store displays bagged products in refrigerated cases, similar to those used for chilled orange juice, and keep them cold at home as well, as cold temperature is critical to product quality.

The important thing to remember is eat five servings of fruits and vegetables daily, but it doesn't mean you have to eat garden fresh produce every day.

Count With Your Child

When you go on spring walks, look carefully at things along the way. Stop and count:

- Worms on the sidewalk.
- Ants on the ground.
- Flowers in the gardens.
- Clouds in the sky.
- Dandelions in the grass.
- Birds in the trees.

Teens Are Building Bones

Your body has 206 living bones that continually buildup and breakdown. The body starts to form most, 75-85 percent, of its bone mass before the teen years. Women reach their bone mass about age 25 and men at age 30, depending on your genes. By middle age the bones begin to lose density due to calcium withdrawn for such tasks as blood clotting and muscle contractions, like our beating heart.

You can't do anything about the genes you have, but you can reduce the risk of fractures with good health habits and other lifestyle choices. The main mineral is calcium. It adds strength and stiffness to bones that support the body. To lengthen long bones during growth, the body builds a scaffold of protein and fills this with calcium-rich mineral.

Between the ages of 11 and 25, you'll need about 1,300 milligrams of calcium each day. During adolescence your body has a higher capacity to absorb and retain calcium. The body also needs vitamin D to move calcium from the intestine to the bloodstream and into bones. You get vitamin D from short, normal exposure of arms and legs to sun and the foods fortified with the vitamin. Also needed are vitamins A, vitamin C, magnesium and zinc, as well as protein for building the scaffold.

Mother Nature provides many foods with these nutrients. One stands out, however, as "almost a perfect package." Milk is rich in calcium and high-quality protein. Most milk has vitamins D and A added and magnesium and zinc. All foods from the Food Guide Pyramid offer some calcium, from the grain based foods, the produce and high- protein, up to the fats and sweets "use sparingly" group at the top. To learn how much calcium is in the food, read the food label's Nutrition Facts panel.

FDA allows these terms on product labels: 20 percent of the daily value (DV) - "rich in calcium", 10 percent to 19 percent DV - "good source of calcium" and 10 percent DV - "calcium enriched or calcium fortified."

An easy plan to build your bones is to drink a glass of milk at each meal and eat one calcium food as a snack.

If you are unable to digest the lactose sugar in milk, try lactose-reduced or lactose-free milk. When fortified, these products can have up to 50 percent DV for calcium in one serving. There are also lactose drops and tablets to help digest dairy products like ice milk, yogurt and cheese.

Growing bones are sensitive to the impact of weight and muscle pull during exercise resulting in building stronger and denser bones. That's why it's important while you are growing to be physically active on a regular basis. Jumping appears to be the best activity. Just do something to get off the couch and get moving at some activity. It really is a matter of use it or lose it!

Avoid bone risks such as skipping meals that would reduce your chance to get a third of your calcium that day. Replacing milk with non-dairy drinks like soda pop or fruit flavored drinks is another habit that prevents bone from getting the calcium and other nutrients they need. Alcohol and smoking can also hurt bones. Eating disorders can weaken bones as does extreme exercising.

Osteoporosis may seem too far away to worry about when you are a teen. But small changes today for better bones tomorrow may be more important than you might guess. Get the immediate benefit of a calcium rich diet: feel stronger and more fit now!

Weird Winter Likely To Limit Maple Sugar Production

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — There's no point in trying to sugar coat it, warns an expert in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences — the unusually warm winter is likely to result in lower amounts of maple sap produced by trees in Pennsylvania.

"The season started much earlier this year than usual," says Jim Finley, associate professor of forest resources. "In much of the state, sap started flowing in January before anybody was ready to collect it. We may produce a lot less maple sugar this year because producers missed part of the season."

Normally, the state's approximately 700 maple sugar producers tap trees in mid-February and collect sap until the end of March. Finley believes the season for sap-collecting ended in some parts of the state the first week of March. "I saw red maple bud expansion by then in many places," he says. "That usually indicates the time for sap collection is over."

According to Finley, Pennsylvania ranks fifth to eighth among states in maple sugar production most years. The output of maple sugar from Quebec, Canada, dwarfs American production.

He says Pennsylvania produces about a million pounds of maple sugar annually, which translates to 900,000 gallons of syrup and 43 million gallons of maple sap. If the sugar content of the sap is 2.5 percent, it takes 43 gallons of sap to make a gallon of syrup.

Ironically, another aspect of the weather — drought — was expected by many to stymie maple sugar production, but Finley explains why the recent lack of precipitation probably won't be a factor.

"The sugar collected this season was produced last summer by the trees and then stored over the winter," he says. "The trees are converting the carbohydrates to sugar as they come out of dormancy. So precipitation in the last few months is not really much of a factor."

Finley is aware of drought conditions that affected much of the state last summer, but says trees in the primary maple-sugar-producing area — across the Northern Tier counties — didn't suffer significantly.

"Drought can affect the sugar content in maple sap," he says, "and if we continue to have a drought this summer, it may limit syrup production next year. But I don't believe the drought had much of an impact on producers this year."

Even producers who tapped maple trees early this winter probably didn't get the volume of sap they usually do, Finley believes. It was unseasonably warm in January, got cold, then warm again. Sap flow started, mostly stopped and started again.

"A tap hole where you put a spile (spout) only has so much life," says Finley. "Almost instantaneously when it is drilled, yeast, bacteria and fungus start growing in the hole. Eventually they literally plug the hole. Most producers, to protect their tree and minimize wood damage, won't drill a second hole the same year. They just give up on the year."

On Being a Farm Wife

Joyce Bupp

Sobering, but not really unexpected.

That was my gut reaction to a recent news article that many youngsters have developed extensive "gimme" expectations about Easter. Chocolate bunnies and jellybeans nested in plastic straw apparently don't cut it with kids anticipating basketfuls of things like DVD players and in-line skates.

While disappointing, that's not terribly surprising, considering society's tendency to commercialize every holiday.

Fortunately, in many families, ours included, Easter still focuses on church, a family dinner, and egg hunts. In fact, our family egg artists are so "into" egg decorating that they begin practicing their craft shortly after we put away the red Valentine hearts.

Coloring eggs is just plain down "eggs-citing," entertainment.

"Grandma, grandma, we're coloring eggs!" was the enthusiastic greeting on a recent afternoon at the house across the meadow. Three sets of shining eyes glistened at the prospect, lugging empty baskets around in anticipation. A panful of eggs bubbled on the stove, and newspaper covered the dining area table. Derra Dog parked herself beneath it, assured that sooner or later some fallout from the egg painters would reward her wait.

Easter egg art supplies are much more extensive and fun in recent years. I still usually boil a few eggs with onion skins for tradition's sake. To the kids, those bright brown eggs are boring in contrast to those sporting ornamentation ranging from the traditional small bottles of bright dyes to individual cups of dipping colors to glitter and sticker additions.

And so we begin, balancing the hot eggs in sections of egg carton for stability. Sorta.

The egg artists clutch cotton-tipped swabs in their small hands, busily streaking color across eggs gingerly balanced in the carton holders. Focus is not so much about creativity as it is to see who can do the most, the fastest. Before long, someone decides a swab-painted egg must also be dipped in one of the cups of dipping dye, and then all decide to follow suit.

Soon, it isn't enough to dip in one color. We must try two. So a yellow egg goes into the blue dye, and we get green. A blue goes into the red, for a purple results. Even a red plunked into the yellow give a cheery orange egg.

Do you know what you get when you start mixing them up from there?

An "eggs-traordinarily" muddy-sort of color.

But you can cover that all up with several bunny and chick-shaped stickers. And when the egg proceeds to crash to the floor, as it inevitably does when little hands get to squabbling about who uses what color in what rotation, Derra Dog doesn't care if the color is red or purple or muddy. It's hers.

Grandma gets tapped to fashion items with a clear wax crayon drawn onto the white eggs, which allows the design to show up when the egg is dipped in dye. Ever try to draw a design from clear wax onto a white egg with no outlines to follow? The egg-art critics are not impressed with the final results.

"Grandma, that doesn't look like a tractor." (How many kids want tractors drawn on their eggs?)

"Grandma, that's not my name!" (The straggly, half-formed letters are pretty unintelligible.)

"Grandma, that doesn't look like a person." (Maybe an "eggs-traterrestrial?)

I finally fashion an invisible wax bunny on the side of an egg that wins half-hearted approval after the dye dunking. Then we craft spotted eggs and striped eggs and one in combination that gets dubbed the "watermelon" egg.

We crash another egg or two onto the floor and a tipped cup of blue dye oozes across the damp, color-streaked paper. They squabble, they share, we laugh together. They are little kids (and big ones) observing together a classic Easter celebration.

No one has asked for a DVD or in-line skates or dolls or trucks or anything of such major proportions. Thank goodness. There is one additional request.

"This is fun! Can we color some more?" Which is eggs-actly what Easter celebrations are supposed to be about.

May you and yours have a happy and blessed one!

Keep Eye On Water Levels Online

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — With the worsening drought causing wells to go dry across the state, a water resources extension specialist in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences recommends that well owners use the Internet to keep tabs on groundwater levels.

"Droughts such as the one we are now experiencing can be especially stressful for the three million rural residents who rely on private wells," says Bryan Swistock.

In addition to the actual water levels, the site (http://pa.water.usgs.gov/durplots/well_duration.html) shows shaded areas to illustrate the normal groundwater levels as well as drought watch, warning and emergency levels.

There are other resources on the Internet, Swistock points out, that include information on drought, water supplies, water conservation and private well management. Some are:

- U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (http://www.epa.gov). Publications on water quality, private wells and conservation.
- The Penn State Water Quality Extension Web page (http://wqext.psu.edu). Has fact sheets and other publications related to private water systems.
- The Pennsylvania Department of Environmental Protection Drought Information Center (http://www.dep.state.pa.us/dep/subject/hotopics/drought/). Offers drought statistics, regulations, news updates and water conservation ideas.

Hort Healing Seminar Focus

GETTYSBURG (Adams Co.) — Gardens offer therapeutic benefits for children and adults, experts say, especially those who are physically challenged, suffering from chronic diseases and mental or emotional illnesses.

Aside from being places to enjoy sunshine, fresh air and physical activity, gardens are places to escape stress, to meditate and to heal.

"How to Create Healing Environments through Horticulture" is the topic of an upcoming seminar sponsored by Penn State Cooperative Extension from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. on April 4 at the Adams County Agricultural and Natural Resources Center in Gettysburg.

Mona Gold of Friends Hospital in Philadelphia will be the keynote speaker. The program cost is $30, which covers breakfast, lunch and materials.

For registration forms and additional information, call extension agents Ginger Pryor at (717) 270-4391 or Annette McCoy at (717) 240-6500.

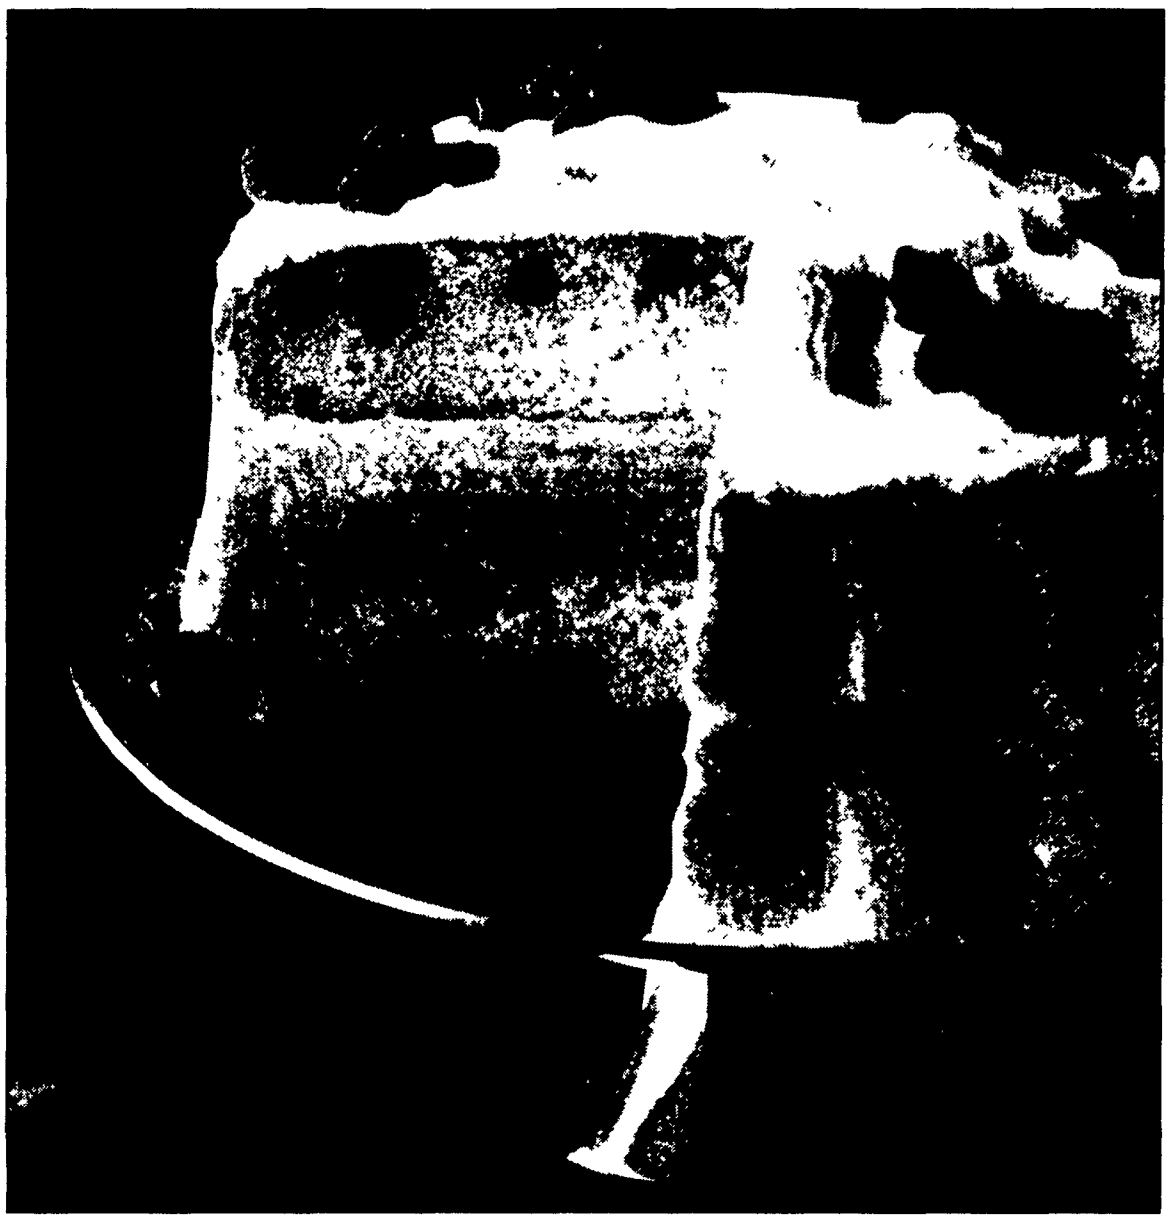
Creating An Enchanted Easter

Try These Recipes This Holiday



Try this Cool and Minty Party Cake for a refreshing dessert this Easter.

COOL AND MINTY PARTY CAKE

14-ounce can sweetened condensed milk
2 teaspoons peppermint extract
8 drops green food coloring, optional
2 cups whipped cream or whipped topping (do not use non-dairy)
1 package white cake mix
Green creme de menthe
8-ounce container whipped topping

Line 9-inch round layer cake pan with aluminum foil. To prepare ice cream layer, in a large bowl combine sweetened condensed milk, peppermint extract and food coloring if desired.

Fold in whipped cream. Pour into prepared pan; cover. Freeze at least 6 hours or until firm.

Meanwhile, prepare and bake cake mix as package directs for two 9-inch round layers. Remove from pan; cool thoroughly.

With fork, poke holes in layers one inch apart halfway through each layer. Spoon small amounts of creme de menthe in holes.

Place on cake layer on serving plate; top with ice cream layer then with second cake layer. Trim ice cream layer to edge of cake layers.

WHITE CHOCOLATE CHEESECAKE

8 ounces cream cheese, softened
2 cups cold milk
2 four-ounce packages white chocolate instant pudding and pie filling 8 ounce whipped topping, thawed
1 graham cracker pie crust

Beat cream cheese and ½ cup of the milk in a large bowl with a wire whisk until well blended.

Add remaining 1½ cups of milk and all of the pudding mix. Beat with a wire whisk for one minute. Gently stir in the whipped topping until well blended. Spoon over pie crust. Refrigerate four hours or until set.

ULTIMATE CHOCOLATE BROWNIES

¾ cup unsweetened cocoa
½ teaspoon baking soda
⅔ cup butter, melted and divided
½ cup boiling water
2 cups sugar
2 eggs
1⅓ cups flour
1 teaspoon vanilla
¼ teaspoon salt
1 cup semi-sweet chocolate chips

Stir together cocoa and baking soda in large bowl; stir in ⅓ cup butter. Add boiling water; stir until mixture thickens. Stir in sugar, eggs, and remaining ⅓ cup butter; stir until smooth.

Add flour, vanilla, and salt; blend completely. Stir in chocolate chips. Pour into prepared 13x9-inch cake pan.

Bake at 350 degrees 35-40 minutes or until brownies begin to pull away from sides.

Cool completely in pans on wire rack. Meanwhile, prepare frosting. Sprinkle with additional chocolate chips.

One-Bowl Buttercream Frosting

6 tablespoons butter, softened
2⅔ cup powdered sugar
½ cup unsweetened cocoa
4-6 tablespoons milk
1 teaspoon vanilla extract

Beat butter in medium bowl. Add powdered sugar and cocoa alternately with milk, beating to spreading consistency. Stir in vanilla.

A reader writes, "everyone loves chocolate. It is comforting and luscious and goes with just about any occasion. Here are a few of my family's favorite chocolate recipes."

WHOOPIE PIES

1 cup shortening
2 cups sugar
2 whole eggs
2 egg yolks
1 cup buttermilk
1 cup hot water
2 teaspoons baking soda
1 teaspoon baking powder
4 cups flour
1 cup cocoa
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla.

Cream shortening and sugar. Add eggs and yolks. Cream well. Mix baking powder with flour; add soda to buttermilk. Mix cocoa with first ingredients after they are creamed. Alternate flour, hot water, and buttermilk. Add vanilla and salt. Mix well. Should be light and fluffy. Drop by teaspoonfuls on ungreased cookie sheet. Bake at 400 degrees for 8-10 minutes. Cool on wire racks.

Filling

2 egg white (do not beat)
2 teaspoons vanilla
4 teaspoons flour
4 tablespoons milk
1½ cups shortening
2 tablespoons confectioner's sugar
4 cups confectioner's sugar

Beat first six ingredients well. Add four cups confectioner's sugar and beat until fluffy.

Take one cookie and spread cream on the flat side. Add second cookie to top. Wrap each finished whoopie pie in plastic wrap.

Yield: about five dozen.

"These are a family tradition and family favorite. My little brother enjoyed making these with Grandma and can't wait to make them again," writes a reader.

COW PIES

2 cups milk chocolate chips
1 tablespoon shortening
½ cup raisins
½ cup chopped slivered almonds

In a double boiler over simmering water, melt the chocolate chips and shortening, stirring until smooth. Remove from heat; stir in raisins and almonds. Drop by tablespoonfuls onto waxed paper. Chill until ready to serve.

Yield: two dozen.

RAISIN CHEESE BLINTZES

4 eggs
1 cup milk
3 tablespoons butter, melted
1 teaspoon sugar
dash salt
1 cup flour
additional butter

Filling

2 cups raisins
4 cups small cured cottage cheese
½ cup sugar
1 tablespoon cinnamon dash of salt butter
sour cream
blueberry or strawberry pie filling

In bowl, whisk eggs, milk, butter sugar, and salt. Beat in flour until smooth; let stand 10 minutes.

Melt one tablespoon butter in a non-stick skillet; pour ¼ cup batter into center of skillet. Lift and tilt pan to evenly coat bottom. Cook until top appears dry. Remove crepe to paper towel. Repeat with remaining batter, adding butter to skillet as needed.

Place raisins in saucepan; cover with water. Bring to boil.

Reduce heat; cook, uncovered, five minutes. Drain.

In a bowl, combine cottage cheese, sugar, cinnamon, salt, and raisins. Spoon about ½ down the center of each crepe; fold ends and sides over filling. In a skillet, cook blintzes in butter until heated through. Top with sour cream and pie filing if desired.

Yield: 9 servings.

"Easter is a joyous celebration in our household, often starting with sunrise Easter services and visiting family," writes a reader.

HORSERADISH DEVILED EGGS

6 hard cooked eggs
¼ cups mayonnaise
1-2 tablespoons prepared horseradish
½ teaspoon dill weed
¼ teaspoon ground mustard
⅛ teaspoon salt
dash pepper
dash paprika

Cut eggs in half lengthwise; remove yolks, set whites aside. In a bowl, mash the yolks.

Add mayonnaise, horseradish, dill, mustard, salt, and pepper, mix well. Pipe or spoon into egg whites. Sprinkle with paprika. Refrigerate until served.

Yield: one dozen eggs.

EASTER BEANS

1 pound fresh green beans, trimmed
¼ cup chopped onion
¼ cup chopped fully cooked ham
¼ cup butter
¼ cup water
1 garlic clove, minced
½ teaspoon salt
¼ pepper

In a saucepan, combine all ingredients. Cover and simmer for 15-20 minutes or until beans are tender.

Yield: four servings.

Farm Show Pineapple Upside Down Cake Winner

Thank you to our readers who wrote to say that they were having trouble with the winning pineapple upside down cake recipe from this year's Farm Show. Following is the corrected recipe. We apologize for the error.

PINEAPPLE UPSIDE DOWN CAKE

Topping:

½ cup melted margarine
1 cup firmly packed brown sugar
20-ounce can sliced pineapples (drained)
1 small jar maraschino cherries (drained and cut in half)

Cake:

2½ cups flour
2 cups sugar
3 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
¼ cup pineapple juice
¼ cup water
⅔ cup oil
2 eggs

Put margarine and brown sugar in bottom of 9x13-inch cake pan. Mix and spread over bottom of pan. Arrange pineapples on mixture. Put a cherry in center of each pineapple.

Mix all ingredients together for cake. Beat until thoroughly mixed (about 2-3 minutes).

Pour mixture over mixture in cake pan. Bake 35 to 40 minutes in 350 oven. Cool five minutes and remove from cake pan.

Raising Children of Character

The world has taken a bit of a shaking recently. We have begun to question our own lives and what truly has meaning.

As a parent or grandparent, these concerns take on more importance when we think of our children.

What will things be like for them as they grow into adulthood?

You may not be able to change what is happening in the world around your children, but you do have a great impact on what happens inside your children. You can make an impact on the character and moral development of your child. After all of our searching and questioning, isn't it our relationships that really count? Aren't the people who stand for something and have a good moral foundation the ones you look up to?

As a dad you can be just such a person for your child. The lessons you teach, the mentoring you do, and the life you live will impact not only your children but also their children and generations to come. What an awesome responsibility and privilege to be such a foundation builder for your family!

So just how can you go about building a good moral foundation and raise your child to be a person of character? Remember the old saying, "Do what I say and not what I do?"

We all know children are watching all of the time. It is those things that we do that leave the greatest impression. We need to be watching what we do almost more than what we say. Example is the teacher that has the biggest impact on children.

They are watching all of time. Even when we are not at our best, children are taking notes.

When we talk about being a person of character, we are talking about what we do when no one is looking — what we have internalized to be right.

How will your child know to make the right choices when you are not by their side?

As a parent this goal requires endless devotion on your part. You can't expect your children to always choose the right path, but as a dad you can guide and teach them as they grow through your kindness, love, and constant devotion. Use your own life experiences as examples to teach your child.

Look at what is happening in the lives of those around you. Point out why the decisions made are right or wrong. When your children are on their own, reaching their bends in the road, they will remember your lessons and the trust that you have forged. If they have seen your character, shine through in your life, chances are their decisions will also reflect that same character. Remember, no parent is perfect. The willingness to admit your mistakes to your children, however can be a great tool to teach, guide, and set an example for them.

What a profound responsibility! No father knows where the dangers are that lie ahead for his children. But if your children have grown up knowing your love and devotion and have watched you live your life as a man of character, they will find these storms of life much easier to weather.

An Enchanted Easter

3 large scoops vanilla ice cream
3 cups cold milk

Pour orange juice concentrate into container or electric blender. Add ice cream and milk. Top with cover and process until smooth. Serve immediately.

Yield: 5½ cups.

1¾ cup sugar
⅔ cup shortening
2 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla
2½ cups sifted cake flour
1½ teaspoons baking soda
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup buttermilk
½ cup cocoa
½ cup boiling water

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Grease and flour two nine-inch cake pans.

Cream sugar and shortening together until light and fluffy. Add eggs one at a time, beating well after each addition. Add vanilla.

Sift together the flour, baking soda, and salt. Add alternately with the buttermilk.

Make a heavy, smooth paste of the cocoa and boiling water. Cool slightly, add, and blend well.

Pour into prepared pans and bake for about 35 minutes.

This recipe is from a Hershey's Cocoa tin that dates back to the late 40's or early 50's. It is different from the one on the present can.

This recipe was sent in as an answer to a question from a reader who wanted a Hershey's heavy chocolate cake. Anna writes that if the baker used lard as shortening the cake may have been heavy.

Workshops For Childcare Providers On Outdoor Play

CARLISLE (Cumberland Co.) — "The Ups and Downs of Outdoor Play" is the title of the workshop being presented by Penn State Cooperative Extension. All childcare providers and interested parents can participate in the workshop at 7 p.m. on Thursday, April 11, at 1100 Claremont Road in Carlisle.

Marg Malehorn, Penn State Cooperative Extension family living agent in Cumberland County, says "Outdoor play is very important for children but be aware of possible dangers. Each year it is estimated that over 205,000 children are injured in playground accidents. Safety and proper supervision are critical when young children are playing outside."

According to Ms. Malehorn "the participants will learn how to identify playground hazards and how to provide proper supervision. Tips for maintaining play equipment and proper surfacing will also be discussed." The workshop is part of a statewide Better Kid Care childcare provider training program presented by Penn State Cooperative Extension and partially funded by the Pennsylvania Department of Public Welfare, and the Pennsylvania Childcare/Early Childhood Development Training System.

For more information on the program call Marg Malehorn at (717) 240-6500.

Workshop In Scranton

A workshop is also scheduled on April 11 from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. at the Children's Library in Scranton. The workshop will include: low-cost outdoor play, keeping children safe and great activities for the outdoors.

Childcare professionals will receive credits from the Department of Public Welfare, handout materials, refreshments, and interesting door prizes. The fee is $4 per person and is payable at time of preregistration.

To find out more information or to register for this workshop, call Penn State Cooperative Extension at (570) 963-6842 between 8:30 a.m.-4 p.m. Other workshop titles will be offered each month.

Chester County Workshop

All childcare providers and interested parents can participate in a workshop on "The Ups and Downs of Outdoor Play" at 7 p.m. on Thursday, April 11, at the Penn State Cooperative Extension, Government Services Center, 601 Westtown Road, Suite 370, in West Chester.

Trudy Dougherty, Penn State Cooperative Extension Family Living Agent in Chester County, says "Outdoor play is very important for children but often brings with it, dangers. Each year it is estimated that over 205,000 children are injured in playground accidents. Safety and proper supervision are critical when young children are playing outside."

For more information on the program, support materials and other services from "Better Kid Care," call Trudy Dougherty at (610) 696-3500.

If you are looking for a recipe but can't find it, send your recipe request to Lou Ann Good, Cook's Question Corner, in care of Lancaster Farming, P.O. Box 609, Ephrata, PA 17522. There's no need to send a self-addressed stamped envelope. If we receive an answer to your question, we will publish it as soon as possible. Check your recipe to make sure you copy the right amounts and complete instructions for making the recipe. Sometimes we receive numerous answers to the same request, but cannot print each one.

Answers to recipe requests should be sent to the same address. You may also e-mail questions and answers to lgood.eph@lnpnews.com

Notice: Several readers write that they have problems accessing this address. The common mistake is that readers are substituting an "i" for the lowercase "l (L)" needed in two places. If you are having problems reaching this address, please check to make sure you are typing a lowercase "l (L)" in both places and not a lower or uppercase "i" or "I."

QUESTION — Shirley Orfanella, 1125 Slate Hill Rd., Quarryville, PA 17566, wants to know how to keep the bottom crust of a pie from becoming soggy. She has already tried flour and egg whites.

QUESTION — L. Wolf, Elkridge, Maryland, would like a recipe for lima bean soup. Also looking for any good soup recipes, and for a cake similar to Tastykake peanut butter tandycake.

QUESTION — A Lancaster County reader would like homemade yogurt recipes, including yogurt flavored with fruits such as strawberry, raspberry, and peach.

QUESTION — Clair Richcrick, R.D. 8, York, PA 17403, is looking for a coleslaw recipe that uses real cream. He also wants an old-fashioned ginger snap recipe.

QUESTION — Mrs. E.H. Boger is looking for a recipe for Moravian cake, which looks similar to funny cake but has lemon on the bottom. The cake is sold at Leesport Farmers' Market.

QUESTION — Beth, Hampstead, Md., requests a recipe for oriental chicken salad that tastes like that served at Appleby's.

QUESTION — Beth, Hampstead, Md., requests a recipe for a non-dairy whipped frosting like the frosting Walmart uses on their cakes. Beth writes that she has never tasted better icing but cannot seem to duplicate it at home.

QUESTION — Nutritionists keep telling us to eat more vegetables. I need recipes to entice my family to eat them.

QUESTION — Barbie Beiler would like to have a recipe for cinnamon French bread sticks that taste like those served at restaurant breakfast buffets.

QUESTION — A reader wants some diabetic bread recipes that can be made in a bread machine.

ANSWER — Peter Nuskey, Southampton, wanted to know why his corn bread sticks to cast iron corn-shaped molds. Terri Martz Bowles, St. Mary's County, Maryland, writes that the key is to preheat the pan to "piping hot" when the batter is poured in. The type of shortening, oil, or spray doesn't matter, as long as the pan is hot. When it is removed from the oven, the corn bread should be removed from the pan immediately.

ANSWER — An Adams County reader requested recipes breaded onion rings, Russian borscht, sauerkraut, and recipes using canned black-eyed peas. Anna Martin, Denver, contributed a recipe for Russian borscht and another reader sent one for sauerkraut.

Russian Borscht

10 cups water
2 chicken legs
3-4 small carrots, grated
1 large onion, diced
4-5 medium potatoes
1 small head cabbage, shredded
1 garlic clove, pressed or diced
2 teaspoons salt
1 teaspoon pepper
4 tablespoons tomato sauce
2 medium beets
1 tablespoon vinegar

Start by boiling the meat and making a broth, then add carrots and onions. While this boils, peel the potatoes, dice and shred the cabbage, and add together. Add garlic, salt, and pepper. Cook until cabbage and potatoes are soft. Simmer.

Meanwhile, peel and grate the beets. Put in a separate frying pan to steam with vinegar and just a bit of water in the bottom until soft. Add this to the soup and simmer a bit more.

Serve with a spoonful of mayonnaise or sour cream, stirred in. Borscht usually improves on the second or third day, after the flavors have blended.

Homemade Sauerkraut

Reader who contributed this recipe prefers it above any other sauerkraut available.

Slice cabbage as thin as possible and pack in quart jars. Add 1 teaspoon salt to each quart, and fill with water to within an inch of the top. Put caps on loosely, and set jars in a pan or container, as some juice will run out.

Let set at room temperature for 10-12 days. Tighten caps and process in hot water bath for 15 minutes.

ANSWER — In response to an earlier request for chocolate-covered cherries, a reader contributed this recipe that does not use a mold.

Chocolate-Covered Cherries

60 cherries, drained
3 tablespoons butter or Oleo
3 tablespoons white corn syrup
¼ teaspoon salt
2 cups confectioner's sugar

Mix butter or Oleo with white corn syrup by melting on stove. Cool, then add sugar and salt. Knead until smooth. Pinch off small pieces and wrap around cherries. Refrigerate until cold and dip in chocolate. The cherries require about 1½ pounds of chocolate. They improve with age.

ANSWER — To the reponse for drink mix recipes, Mrs. Samuel King contributed this fruity drink recipe in addition to the one for cappuccino in last week's issue.

Strawberry or Cherry Tea Mix

1 cup strawberry or cherry drink mix powder
½ cup plus 2 tablespoons sugar
½ cup plus 2 tablespoons unsweetened instant tea

Place 2 tablespoons drink mix in a cup and add 1 cup water. Stir well, until completely dissolved. Using hot water will help the mixture dissolve. Add ice cubes.

A large box (eight-serving size) of regular peach or raspberry Jello can be used in place of the strawberry or cherry drink mix powder.

Raspberry Cultivars Vary In Nutrient/Cancer-Fighting Components

COLUMBUS, Ohio — Red raspberry cultivars have been found to contain varying levels of nutrient components and antioxidants, opening the doors to grow and market fruits that pack the healthiest punch.

Ohio State University evaluations of two summer cultivars (Lauren and Killarney) and two fall cultivars (Heritage and Caroline) showed varying measurements of dietary fiber, beta-carotene, vitamins A, E and C, and folic acid. Researchers, nutritionists and dietitians have speculated that the combination of such nutrient components produces greater health benefits than each one alone.

"We are finding some excellent results with berries and we are slowly realizing they can be a part of the diet with people with specific health needs," said Dick Funt, an Ohio State small fruit specialist. "If a person, say, needs more vitamin A or vitamin E, berries with high levels of these vitamins can be a part of their diet and it's a more organic way of staying healthy, rather than taking supplements."

Funt and his associates measured the components of freeze-dried raspberries, speculating that the highest nutrient levels could be immediately preserved as soon as the berries were picked from the plant. For example, in comparison to the U.S. Department of Agriculture Nutrient Database, freeze-dried raspberries contained four to 10 times as much dietary fiber as raw raspberries or any other raw fruit, such as apples, pears and plums.

In comparing cultivars, Caroline generally was 20-44 percent higher in beta carotene, 27-43 percent higher in vitamin A, 16-77 percent higher in vitamin E and 25-48 percent higher in vitamin C than the other raspberry cultivars tested.

Researchers also compared the Oxygen Radical Absorbency Capacity (ORAC) levels among the four cultivars. ORAC is a system of measuring the level of antioxidants (cancer-fighting agents) in food and is being recognized by scientists and nutritionists as the main method for determining overall antioxidant potential.

The higher the ORAC number the greater number of antioxidants present.

National research has suggested that the consumption of fruits and vegetables with a high ORAC (1,600 to 5,000 ORAC units per 100 grams or 3.5 ounces) may slow the aging process in both the body and the brain and has a significant impact on plasma and tissue antioxidant capacity.

In preliminary Ohio State studies, the Caroline cultivar had 47 percent more ORAC units than Lauren or Killarney and 65 percent more ORAC units than the average of two Heritage fall red raspberry samples. The Caroline cultivar contains 2,130 ORAC units/100 g. By comparison, blueberries contain 2,400 ORAC units and strawberries contain 1,540 ORAC units. Research suggests that consuming 10 grams of freeze-dried Caroline red raspberries may provide 40-66 percent of the 3,000-5,000 recommended daily ORAC units.

Funt emphasized that the nutrient levels in the berries may vary from season to season, region to region and among soil types and levels of soil fertility. Harvest procedures also have an impact on the level of such components. "Growers need to understand these factors when going to the market with their product," said Funt.

"Further studies need to be done that explain how these factors may effect nutrient components in different raspberry varieties."

Berks Society 1

Berks County Society of Farm Women Group 1 met at the Pleasantville Diner for a Valentine luncheon Feb. 13 with 12 members in attendance.

The county project for 2001 will be "Feed the Children," with more information coming to each group from the county board at bimonthly meetings.

Other county activities scheduled are Basket Bingo April 28 at the Ag Center, Leesport and Bingo at Berks Heim April 11.

Other group activities included several dates listed for trips to Blatt's Dinner Theater. The Spring Rally is scheduled May 15.

Red gifts in brown paper bags were exchanged among the members with a variety of surprises for all.

Berks County Society of Farm Women Group 1 met March 13 at the home of Mrs. Eva Siegfried, Oley with 10 members answering to roll call.

Berks Heim Bingo is the next upcoming event for the group's participation, including an angel food cake and various prizes for the residents at the Heim and the Annex to make for an evening of fun enjoyed by all.

The Volunteer Banquet is scheduled April 26 and each group will donate monies for the centerpieces to be used for this occasion. Heim Fest this year will be Sept. 14 and the theme will be "Music, Music, Music."

Basket Bingo is scheduled for April 28 and the Spring Rally, scheduled for May 15, will be at the York Expo Center. The county convention is planned for the Ag Center Oct. 5.

Next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Catherine Yanos with pink the color to be worn.

Society 18

Mrs. Edward Wissler was hostess to Farm Women Society 18 on March 16.

Mildred Kreider, president for 2002-2003, called the meeting to order.

Roberta Shepherdson led in devotions, reading the scripture account of the Passover Meal Christ had with His disciples before His crucifixion.

She also read two meaningful poems.

During the business session, Mildred reported on county affairs and the group heard from our committees.

The program by Sam Bender of Salunga gave a few memories of his months as a prisoner of War in Germany during World War II. Red Cross food was gladly received. An unexpected kindness of the Russians to the prisoners was a number of cattle slaughtered for meat to the relatively meatless prisoners. He did not report any severe treatment. After the program, Sam offered a "Basket of Kindness" one pound bags of black walnuts, shelled and ready to use.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

With Easter comes thoughts of "traditions." My dictionary says it very well — an inherited or customary pattern of action or behavior. It is handed down information or customs by word of mouth from one generation to another without written instructions.

My Grandmother always dyed her Easter eggs by using dried orange-brown onion skins. And I do the same. They give egg shells a mottled design, which is always different.

Hiding an Easter basket for children is an old tradition. I've gone from hunting my faded green basket, to hiding some for my children, to merely listen to my children's stories of hiding them for their children. We always hid them indoors but now the grandchildren, who live in the South, can expect to hunt outside in their back yards. My son has even had his children take part in the egg roll on the White House lawn. Later, they had their pictures taken with the President of the United States.

Ham on Easter is another tradition that many families follow. Although, nowadays, lamb is a close second. My father usually sold his lambs just before Easter.

Another tradition in our house was the breakfast menu. We always managed to have smoked tongue carefully sliced to eat with our soft boiled eggs. This meal was not repeated on other days of the year and so it was special.

Then we dressed for church in a different manner than we do today. If we could manage it, we had a new dress. With this outfit there had to be a new hat and also gloves. Today we skip the hat and gloves bit.

But no matter how we dress, the reason for celebrating Easter is the most important. We expect to have four families together for the religious holiday.

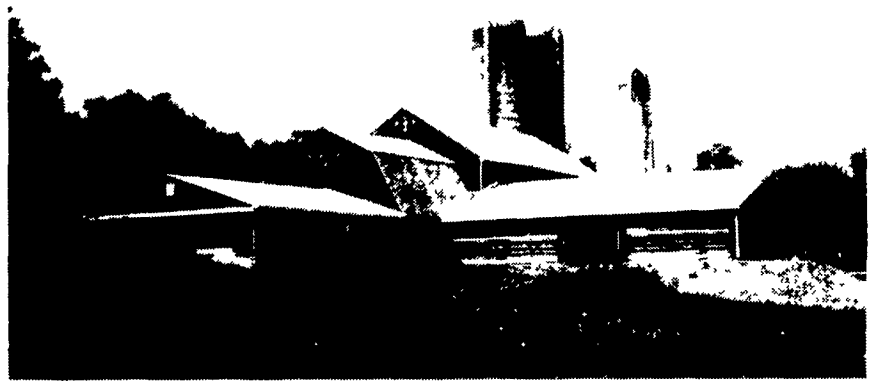
Wanted: Well-Kept Farms For Dairy of Distinction Merit

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) – Pennsylvania dairy farms are invited to apply for this year's Dairy of Distinction Award from the Northeast Dairy Farm Beautification Program. Applications must be submitted by April 15.

The award is based on the idea that attractive farmsteads enhance consumer confidence in the wholesomeness of milk and stimulate milk sales and public support for the industry. Dairies receiving the highest scores in each of 10 Pennsylvania districts will be awarded an 18- by 24-inch Dairy of Distinction sign to display in front of their farm.

"This program is run by volunteers and recognizes the hard work and dedication of dairy producers who promote a positive image for the dairy industry," said Mike O'Connor, secretary of the Pennsylvania Dairy of Distinction program and professor of dairy science extension in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences.

Roadside judging will take place in May. Judges will look at factors that can be controlled by the farmer, such as clean and attractively finished buildings; neat landscaping, ditches, roads, and lanes; and well-maintained fences. They also will take into account other aspects of the farm, such as cleanliness of animals, the barnyard, feed areas, and manure management.



Crystal Spring Farm, Mifflintown

Winning farms will be notified in late June. Because this is a yearly award, previous winners are reevaluated each year to see if they are still maintaining excellent standards.

To receive an application, call Mike O'Connor at (814) 863-3913 or e-mail him at MOConnor@das.psu.edu.

Since 1987, Pennsylvania's Dairy of Distinction Program has recognized more than 750 dairy farms. The Pennsylvania program is part of the Northeast Dairy Farm Beautification Program, which also includes New York, New Jersey, and Vermont. Dairies in these states can contact the program secretary in their state for applications.

How Is Your Farm Scored?

Awards will be based upon neatness, good maintenance, and other factors, which can be controlled by the farmer. Attractive background scenery should not be weighed heavily in judging All judging observations should be made from a vehicle at one or more points on an adjacent public highway (or if farm is off the road, the nearest lane). Judging should give equal consideration to old wood construction and new construction of metal or concrete block

The award program may be used for subsequent advertising or promotion activities for dairy producers or dairy farming Farmers who apply for awards agree that, if selected, they will cooperate with these activities and make all reasonable efforts to maintain both the exterior and interior of their properties in an acceptable condition

How The Judging Works

Judging teams will visit farms during the month of May. Farms will be judged each year as the award is presented on an annual basis Any dairy failing to maintain appearance standards will be asked to remove their sign The Dairy of Distinction signs remain the property of the committee, not the property of the dairy farmer All farms must achieve a compliance score of 90 percent of their Dairy of Distinction score card. Your cooperative or milk handler will be contacted to approve your milk quality.

Rules

1 The Dairy of Distinction sign remains the property of the Northeast Dairy Farm Beautification Program Committee (NEDFBP)

2 The post and bracket shall be supplied by and maintained by the dairy farmer NEDFBP suggests that a wood post 4"x4"x12' or iron pipe 2"x12' be used Posts or pipe should be installed and maintained in true vertical position with 8' above ground Top of the bracket should be lower than six inches from the top of the post In addition, NEDFBP suggests that the sign be mounted in a frame to provide additional stability

3. The sign shall be displayed in front of the dairy at roadside An attractive post and bracket, or other frame shall be used to display the sign No more than three signs should be displayed from the sign frame or post, and all shall be of a style, general size and quality comparable to the Dairy of Distinction sign The sign should be secured on all sides to avoid wind damage

4 Signs shall not be moved to other premises New owners of a Dairy of Distinction farm must apply to retain the sign

5 Replacement of damaged signs shall be at the discretion of the committee

6 No producer shall be charged with scoring or sign expenses

7 The judges' decision will be final

8 Judging will take place between May 1 and May 31

9 Farms awarded a Dairy of Distinction sign in previous years will be judged between April 1 and April 30 If they do not qualify, they will be rejudged between May 1 and May 31 so they have the opportunity to keep the sign

10 Farms that do not requalify will return the sign to their regional Dairy of Distinction Committee

Dairy of Distinction
2002 Pennsylvania Application

PURPOSE OF PROGRAM

Attractive dairy farms give the consumer greater confidence in the wholesomeness of milk and stimulate milk sales which encourages public support for the dairy industry. The award gives recognition to the dairy farmer for maintaining a well-kept farmstead.

ELIGIBILITY

All Northeast dairy farms producing milk for sale are invited to submit an application for the award. Dairies receiving the 10 highest scores in each of the 21 districts will receive an 18"x24" Dairy of Distinction sign to be displayed in front of their farm.

Pennsylvania Egg Producers Join In New York Celebration

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Just in time for Easter, the most popular and biggest selling time of the year for eggs, PennAg Industries Association joins with other egg producers around the country for an "Eggstravaganza" to celebrate the good news about eggs — the comeback kid of nutritional foods.

Egg consumption is up a healthy 11 percent, a wealth of new research and scientific studies have prompted changes in the American Heart Association's (AHA) 30-year stance on eggs and new research points to nutrients contained in eggs that have important health benefits.

The "Eggstravaganza" was celebrated March 30 in New York City's Central Park and brought together leading scientists, egg industry representatives and six of America's best-known and beloved television moms — from the days when standard breakfast fare was a couple of eggs.

Barbara Billingsley (Leave It to Beaver), Betty Buckley (Eight is Enough), Beverly Garland (My Three Sons), Shirley Jones (Partridge Family), June Lockhart (Lassie/Lost in Space) and Marion Ross (Happy Days) symbolically returned eggs to their rightful place in America's hearts by putting a giant-sized Humpty Dumpty back together again.

"Maybe mom really did know best when she told her TV families, 'eat your eggs, they're good for you'," quipped Shirley Jones. "Eggs are back and, like us, they're better than ever."

"We're pleased that Americans are eating and enjoying more eggs," says Jim Shirk, assistant vice president of PennAg. "Not only are eggs good tasting, they're one of the most versatile foods, and now with research showing that they may have several health benefits, eggs seem like a perfect food to include in one's daily diet."

In addition to increased consumption, the Eggstravaganza commemorated the American Heart Association's (AHA) decision to allow an egg a day back in the American diet. The AHA's landmark decision ended a 30-year campaign that singled out eggs and limited consumption to no more than three per week. The organization now says it's OK for healthy Americans to eat an egg a day.

Scientists point to a landmark Harvard University (Journal of the American Medical Association, April 1999) study, among others, which concluded that one egg a day did not have significant impact on the risk of coronary heart disease. Research now shows that saturated fat and trans fat are the more serious contributors to heart disease.

A study published in the October 2000 Supplement to the Journal of the American College of Nutrition suggests that choline, an essential ingredient found abundantly in eggs and milk, when taken during pregnancy, may be key in the development of an infant's memory function and may improve memory capability later in life.

A separate study in the same publication showed that two carotenoids, lutein and zeaxanthin, found in eggs and certain vegetables, significantly reduce the risk of cataracts and age-related macular degeneration. Some observational studies have shown that generous intakes of these carotenoids reduce the risk of cataracts up to 20 percent and age-related macular degeneration up to 40 percent.

The American Heart Association's journal Circulation (June 2001), published research showing that lutein, a nutrient found in egg yolks, may help to reduce the risk of heart disease. In this study of 480 middle-aged men and women, those with the highest blood levels of lutein showed the least thickening in their artery walls over an 18-month period. Research has shown lutein from egg yolks is better absorbed by the body than from a comparable serving of vegetables.

Define Passover

Before you can truly understand Passover and what the holiday means to Jewish people everywhere, it might be a good idea to find out what some of the Hebrew words mean and their significance

Passover Originally a weeklong celebration, today Passover is an eight day Jewish holiday in the spring Passover commemorates when the Israelites were miraculously freed from centuries of slavery in Egypt The name comes from the last of 10 plagues God inflicted on the Egyptians when all their first born children were put death However, God passed over the homes of the Israelites It is also the oldest of Jewish holidays

Pesach (Pay sach) Original Hebrew word for Passover The word also refers to the lamb that was sacrificed and eaten in ancient times on the first night of Passover

Matzah or Matzo When the Israelites left Egypt their dough did not have time to rise so they could not make typical bread Instead they took flat dry unleavened cakes – matzah As a reminder matzah is eaten during Passover

Hametz or Chometz The Hebrew word for leaven, which allows bread to rise Before Passover is observed, anything with yeast or any leavened items, must be carefully removed from Jewish homes These items cannot be used or eaten during the holiday

Seder (Say der) During the first nights of Passover, families gather for this festive meal The traditional ceremony is very complicated, so it is done according to a detailed order, and the Hebrew word 'Seder' means 'order' During a Seder, participants relive the experiences of slavery in Egypt and the happiness of being free through the use of the Haggadah It represents a time of joy and freedom, The people around the table recline during the Seder as a symbol of freedom and ease

Haggadah: Jews have been commanded to tell the wonderful story of how the Israelites were liberated from slavery in Egypt The Haggadah 'telling' is the traditional text for doing just that

Afikoman The name of the last thing eaten—a piece of matzah—at the Seder It is customary for the children at the Seder to steal the piece of matzah, and parents offer a gift for its return Sometimes parents hide the Afikoman, and the child who finds it gets a reward

Charoset: A mixture of apples and nuts that symbolizes the clay or mortar used to construct buildings for the Egyptian Pharaoh

The Four Questions

Children play a big role in the Seder First, God has commanded that the story of Passover be passed on thus the children present must pass it on to their children It is also the responsibility of the youngest child to ask four questions

On all other nights, we can eat leavened or unleavened bread Why do we eat only matzah at Pesach?
Matzah reminds us that when the Israelites left the slavery of Egypt they did not have time to let the bread rise before baking

On all other nights we eat many kinds of vegetables and herbs Why do we eat bitter herbs at our Seder?
Bitter herbs remind us of the bitter and cruel way the Israelites were treated when they were slaves in Egypt

On other nights, we don't dip one food into another During the Seder we dip parsley in saltwater and bitter herbs in Charoset Why do we dip our food twice tonight?
'The parsley is to remind us that spring is here, and the saltwater symbolizes the tears of Jewish slaves The bitter herbs are to remind us how hard the Jews worked in Egypt The Charoset symbolizes the mortar or bricks used for constructing the Pharaoh's buildings

On all other nights we eat sitting up straight Why do we recline tonight?
Slaves sit to eat or stand as the Israelites did for their last meal in Egypt We recline to be comfortable and remind us that once we were slaves but now we are free

Understanding what the words mean should help you understand the story of Passover better and realize why it is so important to Jews The holiday is a chance for Jewish people to celebrate freedom

Historic Quilts Unveiled At Landis Valley Farm Museum

Landis Valley Museum Interpretive Guide Lois Coleman prepares an antique patchwork, variable star pattern quilt (circa. 1840) for display in the upcoming "Quilts of Landis Valley" Exhibition planned at the Museum from April 3-April 21.

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Thirty extraordinary antique quilts, never before exhibited to the public, have been resurrected from deep storage, cleaned, and prepared for public viewing in "The Quilts of Landis Valley" Exhibition.

This colorful, visually exciting and educational exhibition will be conducted at Landis Valley Museum, a living history crossroads village located at 2451 Kissel Hill Road in Lancaster, on April 3 through April 21.

These 30 exquisite bedcoverings, chosen from among 80 in Landis Valley Museum's stored textile collection, represents various quilting techniques, materials, patterns, forms and quilting traditions of the Pennsylvania German families in Southeastern Pennsylvania from 1830 through the very early 1900s. The exhibition includes several children's quilts, whole cloth, pieced, appliqued and an unquilted crazy quilt. The majority of these quilts were either collected by the Museum's founders, the Landis Brothers, or given to the Museum by Central Pennsylvania families wishing to have their family treasures safely preserved for generations to come. A few of the pieces are from outside of Pennsylvania, such as a New Jersey Friendship Quilt, but have been included in the exhibition due to their historical importance.

The exhibition will have multiple components to enjoy throughout the Museum's various historic and gallery buildings including the Visitor Center Auditorium showcasing a large number of the quilts; The Visitor Center Gallery with displays of quilting patterns, textiles and sewing tools; The Textile Building featuring more quilts; The Erisman House with a selection of sewing tools; The Landis House featuring "the crazy quilt;" The Country Store offering a fabric display and The Brick Farmstead with a display of the earliest quilts.

Tickets to the exhibition are available to the public in two forms:

1. The "Quilts of Landis Valley Exhibition, Lunch and Lecture" package, which includes admission to the museum, a tour of the quilt exhibition, luncheon in one of the historic museum buildings followed by an informative lecture by quilt and textile experts is available and limited to 120 guests per day for $26 per ticket.

The guest lecturers for the package include:

- Wednesday, April 3 — Trish Herr, well-known textile expert and author, speaking on Hidden Treasures: Quilts from The Landis Valley Collection
- Thursday, April 4 — Rachel Pellman, quilt expert and author, speaking on: Amish women and their Quilts
- Friday, April 5 — Arlene Hess, expert quilter and 10th generation Lancaster Mennonite, speaking on Mennonite Quilting
- Saturday, April 6 — Nancy Roan, textile and quilt expert, speaking on The Fabrics in Grandma's Quilt

This exhibition, lunch and lecture package is available Wednesday, April 3 through Saturday, April 6, beginning with the tour at 10 a.m. through the finishing of the lecture at 2:15 p.m. Reservations are required for this package and can be made by calling (717) 569-0401 ext. 200.

2. The "Quilts of Landis Valley Exhibition" ticket, at the cost of $16, is an alternative. It includes admission to the museum and entrance to all quilt exhibits, and is available April 3 through 6 after 2:30 p.m. and then Tuesday through Saturday, 9 a.m to 4 p.m.; Sundays from noon to 4 p.m.; from Sunday, April 7 through the close of the exhibition on Sunday, April 21. The Museum is closed on Mondays.

The Landis Valley Museum, located on 100 acres a few miles north of Lancaster City, was founded in the 1920s by the Landis Brothers to document and preserve the material culture and heritage of early Pennsylvania Germans. It has grown from a handful of buildings to a crossroads village and museum comprised of many exhibit areas and structures original to Landis Valley, relocated early buildings, and new state of the art display and collection facility.

The museum, previously publicized for its use as a location in the movie Beloved, includes educational exhibits, a farmstead with historical breeds of animals, period demonstrations, and a highly regarded heirloom seed project that preserves and chronicles historical plants and seeds. The collections of buildings, artifacts and exhibits along with the demonstration of traditional crafts and skills give a comprehensive overview and interpretation of past German rural life.

This accurate picture of early German life in the colonies helps scholars, students, area residents and tourists from all over the world understand the important role the German culture played in those years gone by and in world in which we live today.

Landis Valley Museum is administered by the Pennsylvania Historical and Museum Commission and is actively supported by The Landis Valley Associates, Membership and Volunteer Corp.

The Museum is located 2.5 miles north of Lancaster on route 272/Oregon Pike, a marked exit from both Route 30 and Rt. 222. For information call (717) 569-0401 or visit our Website at: www.landisvalleymuseum.org.

More Than Handsome, Tunis Sheep Deliver The Goods

DAVE LEFEVER
Lancaster Farming Staff

WAYNESBORO (Franklin Co.) — Tunis sheep will turn your head.

Their slim, coppery faces and long ears are not the most familiar of sheep features. That rusty look, also found on the legs, can range from tan and cinnamon to a rich red. The wool is creamy in color.

It's the darker-faced Tunis that attract many people, according to Don and Miki Schrider, who have been raising Tunis for about eight years on their 10-acre farm between Waynesboro and Greencastle. They maintain a flock of 12-15 breeding ewes, along with two rams and young stock.

"Everybody really wants to get their hands on the deeper red," Don said.

According to the Schriders, however, the best functional qualities of the breed are not related to the degree of pigmentation.

"Color has nothing to do with the economy and production of this sheep," Miki said.

Good mothering ability, efficient growth, top-quality meat, and usable wool sometimes preferred by handspinners are some of the traits that have helped win widespread support for Tunis sheep.

They are also known for their docile nature, high percentage of twin births, strong milk production, and longevity.

The breed has a long, notable history that includes grazing privileges in the pastures of Thomas Jefferson.

Descendants of ancient, fat-tailed sheep, the Tunis breed originated in the arid lands of Tunisia on the northern coast of Africa. The first flock recorded in the U.S. was at Belmont, Philadelphia County, in 1799. Jefferson later owned a large flock and was a leading promoter of the breed, according to information supplied by the National Tunis Sheep Registry, Inc.

Their hardiness and heat tolerance helped make them a favorite in the U.S. South during the first half of the 1800s. Most of the large southern Tunis population, however, became food for soldiers during the Civil War, causing a majority of the flocks to be wiped out.

Flocks originally established in the Northeast have survived and served as seed stock for maintaining a strong gene pool and a thriving population throughout different regions of the country today. In earlier years, Tunis were crossed with some other breeds, including Southdown and Border Leicester. Today, no crossbreeding is allowed for registered animals, Don said.

While considered a fine-boned, medium-sized breed, Tunis grow rapidly through the pasture season and into maturity. For lambs destined for the dinner table, typical slaughter time is early fall for animals born in March or April on the Schrider farm.

Miki and Don Schrider, with flock of Tunis ewes, due to lamb soon. Roxy, the dog, is purebred Maremma, an Italian breed noted for its sheepguarding skill.

Miki Schrider with one-day old Tunis lamb, born with a double coat of deep red.

"They produce a 100-pound freezer lamb about as fast as any (breed)," Don said.

Some managers of meat breed flocks, such as Dorset, favor crossbreeding with Tunis sires to produce the lamb crop, believing this use of a Tunis "terminal sire" results in more lambs, greater weight gains, and tastier meat.

According to the Schriders, the meat of older Tunis sheep is also delicious and "in some ways better" than lamb, even when animals are slaughtered at four and five years of age.

As Pennsylvania director for the National Tunis Sheep Registry, Inc., Don noted that the breed standard allows for a certain range of traits, according to personal preference.

While some breeders focus on larger, show-type sheep, others go for a smaller frame they feel is more in line with original bloodlines. Breeders also have varying opinions on other traits, such as the ideal ear length.

According to Don, the differences in opinion are minor and help demonstrate the breed's genetic range.

"There's a fair amount of diversity that allows for unique breeding programs," he said.

The breed standard allows a bodyweight range of 125-175 pounds for breeding ewes, 175-200 pounds for rams.

Lambs should weigh between seven and 12 pounds at birth. They are born with a double coat, mahogany red on the surface, that gradually turns into a creamy-colored fleece as the animal matures.

At the Schriders, lambs are left to nurse their mothers well into the summer, nearly until the end of the natural lacatation period of the ewes. Meanwhile, the lambs are also supplying a large part of their diet by grazing on their own.

The Schriders rely on pasture during the growing season. In winter, orchard grass hay with a bit of alfalfa makes up the bulk of the ration. About two weeks prior to the start of lambing in March, they begin supplementing the ewes with grain, continuing through early lactation until the pastures are green and ready for grazing.

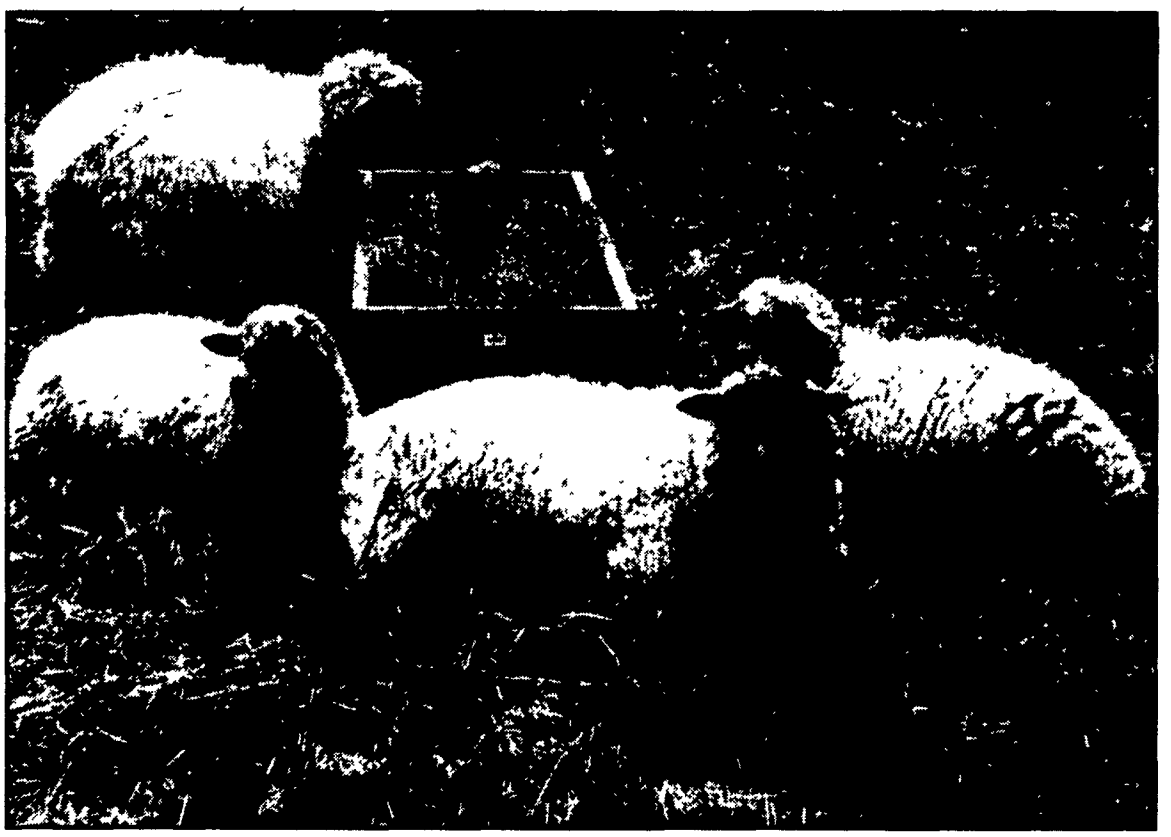
The Schriders caution other Tunis breeders against feeding more grain than necessary.

As a thrifty breed — historically able to subsist in desert-like conditions — Tunis can become fat from overeating and also risk birthing problems because of overly large lambs, the Schriders pointed out.

They rapidly changed their feeding program soon after starting in the Tunis business. At that time, they culled one of the adult ewes, had it butchered, and discovered its carcass was covered in a layer of fat several inches thick, Miki said.

Now they monitor their ewes' body condition frequently by checking spines with their fingertips, making sure the bone is not covered with tallow but can be felt as a distinct ridge.

Because of their high milk output, Tunis have also been crossbred with dairy sheep, according to Don. A sheep dairy for cheese production in Vermont has some ewes that are one-quarter Tunis, he said.



The Schriders keep two breeding rams on the farm to help maintain genetic diversity. Sampson, front, serviced the flock last fall. The other three are yearling rams, one of which will be selected as a breeder.

More About The Breed

Origin, History

The American Tunis evolved from a number of importations of fat-tailed sheep from Africa and the Middle East in the late 18th and early 19th centuries. These sheep were crossed with some established European breeds to improve the meat characteristics.

The earliest documented importation occurred in 1799. They came as a gift to the U.S. from the ruler of Tunisia, his highness the Bey of Tunis, and were entrusted to the care of Judge Richard Peters of Pennsylvania who became an outspoken advocate of the breed.

By the 1820's, Tunis were in much demand by butchers in eastern Pennsylvania. Descendants of Judge Peters' sheep, as well as additional importations of fat-tailed sheep became established in Maryland, Virginia, North and South Carolina, and Georgia. Thomas Jefferson imported "broad-tailed" sheep and kept them for many years. He preferred them over his Merinos for their mutton and wool-producing attributes.

The breed was quite popular as in 1892, Ezra Carmen in a chapter of A Report of the Sheep Industry of the U.S. wrote, " But for the introduction of the fine-wooled Merino, these Tunisian sheep would probably have become disseminated throughout the U.S., and in some of them have become the prevailing flocks."

4-H HAPPENINGS

VIRGINVILLE (Berks Co.) — The Berks County 4-H Dairy Program's banquet took place recently at the Virginville Grange Hall to honor 4-H'ers for their work in 2001.

Two special awards were presented at the banquet. First, Kelly Rohrbach was presented with the Charles D. Care Memorial Award, or "Rookie of the Year" honor. Rebecca Dietrich was awarded the Joyce Miller 4-H Career Advancement Award.

Kelly, the winner of the 2001 Charles D. Care Memorial Award, is the daughter of Allen and Beth Rohrbach of Shoemakersville. She is a member of the Eastern Berks 4-H Dairy Club. She helped her club with the breakfast baskets and as a server for the senior citizens banquet. Kelly and her family also hosted her club's summer picnic at their farm. According to club leader Linda Youse, Kelly is a "great 4-H member who is hard working."

The Charles D. Care Memorial Award or "Rookie of the Year" honor encourages first- or second-year 4-H dairy members to work hard and participate in their club activities. Charlie was a milk truck driver who always supported the 4-H Dairy Program.

Also recognized as "Rookie of the Year" finalists were Rebecca DeTurk and Samantha Johns. Rebecca, daughter of Dan and Denise DeTurk of Mohrsville, was nominated by Northern Berks 4-H Dairy Club. Samantha, the daughter of Mark and Debra Johns of Richland, was nominated by Western Berks 4-H Dairy Club. They both were deserving of the recognition received for all of their hard word they did in their clubs in 2001.

Rebecca Dietrich, winner of the 2001 Joyce Miller 4-H Career Advancement Award, is the daughter of Thomas and Karen Dietrich of Bernville. Becky has been a very active 4-H member. She lists her top 4-H leadership experiences as counselor for four years at Camp Shehaqua 4-H Camp. She says that was most meaningful because she spent time with 4-H'ers ages 9-13 and be like their mom, sister, or family member. Becky plans to use the award toward her books that she will need at college. She plans to attend Penn State to study agriculture business management. She credits her 4-H dairy project for influencing her in the field of agriculture and to serve dairy farmers.

The Joyce Miller 4-H Career Advancement Award was established to recognize an outstanding Berks County 4-H Dairy club member. Joyce was a dedicated 4-H leader who stressed hard work, service, and achievement with her members. This award is given to 4-H members who are older than 17 and will use the award for higher education, career training, or career investment.

Project book awards were presented to Large herd — Jason Rice (Northern Berks), Matthew Schantz (Eastern Berks), and Megan Schantz (Eastern Berks). Small herd — Rebecca DeTurk (Northern Berks), George Brown (Eastern Berks), and Jesse Bitler (Eastern Berks). Judge for the project books was Jerry Johnson, a former Berks County 4-H parent.

Dairy herd journal awards were presented to Large herd — Melissa Schuler (Eastern Berks). Jacob Rice (Northern Berks), and Kristen Gross (Northern Berks). Small Herd — Sandra Angstadt (Eastern Berks), Jason Troutman (Northern Berks), and Keri Houp (Eastern Berks). The judge for the herd journals was Donna Hix, a former Berks County 4-H dairy leader.

Officer book awards were presented to Secretary's Book — Brett Treichler, Eastern Berks; Treasurer's Book — Jason Troutman, Northern Berks; and Scrapbook — Jason Rice, Northern Berks.

4-H Dairy Activity Book Awards were presented to Kelly Rohrbach (Eastern Berks), Nathan Schantz (Eastern Berks), Pamela Werley (Northern Berks), Katherine DeTurk (Northern Berks), and Megan Schantz (Eastern Berks).

Kristen Gross, 2001-2002 Berks County Dairy Princess, provided entertainment during the banquet. She performed her skit, entitled "Off to the Dentist."

ANSWER — Holly Eshbach, Dover, wanted to know where to purchase babydoll sheep, and information on the breed and care that is required. Linda Boyer, 505 Lambert Road, Narvon PA 17555, (717) 445-6904, has several for sale and can provide information on feed and care. Cathy Christ, Gap, also writes that they purchased one from Suzanne and Bromley Lowe, 6685 Cuttalossa Rd., New Hope PA 18938.

ANSWER — Bonnie Blain, Halifax, followed up on a February question regarding growing fruit trees from seed. She writes that 10 years ago she successfully transplanted tiny peach trees that were growing from seed in her compost. The tree are healthier, stronger and better producers than trees she bought from a nursery, according to Blain. She also has a productive Macintosh apple tree, sour cherry trees, and strawberry plants, all grown from seed.

Museum Program Reveals Hershey Advertising Mystique

HERSHEY (Dauphin Co.) — Hershey native Neil Fasnacht will share some fascinating facts about Milton Hershey's unique and little-known advertising methods in a Sunday program on April 7 at 2 p.m. The lecture is free with museum admission.

Milton Hershey once said, "Give them quality. That's the best kind of advertising in the world." Around this simple philosophy he developed innovative marketing strategy that helped to create "The Great American Chocolate Bar."

Mass-market media campaigns promoting Hershey's products did not begin until the 1970s. Until that time, the company often used imaginative ways to promote their confections to both the trade and the general public. Fasnacht will share these methods using advertisements, point-of-purchase displays, premiums, and slogans developed over decades.

Fasnacht is a graduate of Lebanon Valley College and resides in Hershey with his wife Barbara and daughter Lauren. A postcard collection whetted his appetite for local history and has led to numerous presentations on Hershey's early years. He is actively involved in the planning of Hershey's Centennial Celebration and the running of his family's amusement park, Funland, in Rehoboth Beach, Del.

The Hershey Museum is open daily 10 a.m.-5 p.m. and is located adjacent to Hersheypark Arena. Admission is $6 for adults, $5.50 seniors 62+, $2 youths 3-15, and children under 3 are free. For more information, call (717) 534-3439 or visit the Website at www.hersheymuseum.org.

SCHELLSBURG (Bedford Co.) — It's the ideal spot for a minister's dream come true — the Fenstermaker Antique shop located in what used to be a church on a quiet side street near Shawnee State Park.

A retired Methodist minister, William Fenstermaker (which means "windowmaker" in German), used to dream of owning an antique shop.

"I got interested in antiques when an uncle took me to an auction and I bought a buggy for 15 cents, he said. We stored it in the barn and when the barn burned down, it was the only thing that was saved.

An outside view of the Schellsburg church/antique shop.

"I just got more and more interested, and realized early on the value of what it no longer being made. You learn a lot by going to museums or reading history books. The main thing you have to remember is you often can't replace what you sell. Once it is gone, it is gone!"

His shop in Schellsburg began when the little town was known as the "antique capitol" of Bedford County. "There were shops everywhere," he said. Today, antiques are fewer in number. Most are sold in marts or on the Web. The antique shops are vanishing.

> "You learn a lot by going to museums or reading history books. The main thing you have to remember is you often can't replace what you sell. Once it is gone, it is gone!"

> Schellsburg

When a buyer made him an offer he could not refuse on his first shop, Fenstermaker moved to his present location in the picturesque brick church. It was converted to living quarters in half, and three floors of antiques and collectibles fill the remainder of the building.

Tucked among his personal antique treasures are autographed photographs of Ike and Mamie Eisenhower. While a minister in Gettysburg, the Eisenhowers attended his church. "I have fond memories of those days," he said. "I remember the Secret Service telling me how to walk down the aisle with the president. When I walked too fast, Ike tapped me on the shoulder and said, 'slow down, the cameramen will hate you'."

Coming in contact with the famous seems to be a natural for the parson, as Vincent Price appeared in his Schellsburg shop one day. "My sister was helping in the store. She was startled to look up and see Vincent Price. He was very cordial and the shop quickly filled with spectators. He left without buying anything, and then came back in five minutes to purchase a quilt. He explained that he and his wife had a discussion. The quilt did not match their bedroom but they decided to repaint the room."

About a month later, Fenstermaker was watching the Johnny Carson show when Vincent appeared as a guest. He said he loved antiques and that he had bought a beautiful antique quilt in a small town in Pennsylvania.

Time rapidly vanishes as one listens to the pastor recall tales from the past. He remembers the time a neighbor brought in a pottery inkwell. It was signed and admittedly had been given to her by some boys who found it hiking in the woods. She had kept it a number of years and decided to see if it had any value.

Fenstermaker says he just didn't know enough about it to give her a good estimate, so he took it to auction. "Turns out it was one of only three pieces of pottery left by that artist and it sold for $2,400," he said. "Sure made my neighbor happy."

The front door bell chimes and the pastor beams broadly. It is some of his favorite and regular customers from Cumberland, Md.

"They come by every few weeks," he said. "She can spot a good piece a mile away."

It's Evelyn and Ken Dawson and they admit they are "Fenstermaker addicts."

"We buy for our children and grandchildren," Evelyn said. "I find jewelry the girls love to wear. They like it much better then something from Walmart. I've gotten friends hooked on

"You could spend hour upon hour in this shop and still not see it all. There are pure treasures everywhere," she said.

Fenstermaker admits there are some customers who come and never want to leave. "My best business is done during the Fall Foliage Festival in Bedford," he said. "I had a young couple stop one day driving a van with a Florida license plate. They arrived at noon and were still loading up at 6 p.m."

He has had customers from Germany who bought saws. A couple from Alaska took home milk bottles and some South African natives bought carpet beaters.

"The largest amount of my customers come from the states of California, Ohio, and Michigan," he said.

In the spring and summer, when nearby Shawnee State Park is abloom with campers, Fenstermaker's Antiques does a good business with kitchen utensils, pot, pans, and other useful items.

"Christmas here is nothing spectacular," he said. "Only New Englanders give antiques or collectibles for gifts. Here they seem to prefer new."

Most of his merchandise is bought at the antique auctions. "But that is getting more and more difficult," he said, agreeing with those antique dealers who find everyone trying to make a buck by buying it one place and selling on the Internet.

"I see a lot of mistakes being made," he said. "I saw two cake stands go for more then $30 each, which is ridiculous. There is no way you can mark them up to make anything at that rate."

He also attends local yard sales and often finds a few gems.

"If it is something that no one knows what it is or what it was used for, I buy it," he said. "Along the way, I always find the answer.

"I jokingly call myself the 'Neiman Marcus of Schellsburg,' he said. "But I think most folks think of me as 'Sanford and Sons'."

The Ultimate Easter Egg

Americans were introduced to the wonders of Fabergé eggs in 1985, when the first one, the Cuckoo egg, circa 1900, was auctioned at Sotheby's. It sold for more than $1 million.

Jeweler to the czars. Carl Fabergé designed hundreds of objects. But, he's best known for his elaborate Easter eggs.

Their mystique has grown in an ongoing Easter egg hunt. Of some 56 eggs Fabergé designed for the Russian royal family, some are still not accounted for. Also missing are many of the presentation eggs he made for a limited number of his wealthiest patrons. When they reappear at auction, they sometimes sell in the millions of dollars.

Largest prices in recent years were at a 1997 Christie's auction when the "Winter Egg" of rock crystal, commissioned by the nephew of Alfred Nobel, fetched $5.6 million. The same year, Sotheby's sold an imperial gift, the "Love Trophy" egg for nearly $3.2 million.

What makes the eggs so special? The mystique of the Russian connection, and the use of precious gems and metals, are not the only reasons for such astronomical prices. The workmanship alone warrants them. Add the mechanical skill of the interior "surprises" that Fabergé invented for most of his eggs and it's easy to understand.

Consider the "Orange Tree" egg. When one of the jeweled oranges is pressed, a tiny, feathered-gold nightingale appears from the top of the tree to sing and flap its wings.

One of the best-known Fabergé collectors was the late publisher Malcolm Forbes. He kept his paper clips in a Fabergé dish on his desk.

The Fabergé eggs originated as decorative Easter gifts — pendants and various objects d'art in the form of tiny eggs, popular in the 1880s. In 1884, Czar Alexander III asked Faberg'e to create an unusual Easter gift for his wife, the Empress Maria Feodorovna.

The first of the imperial eggs was relatively simple. It contained a golden yoke, which in turn held a tiny gold hen figurine. The czarina was so pleased that the commissions came annually, with each egg containing a hidden surprise.

In 1896, when Nicholas II came to the throne, he continued the tradition, adding one for his mother, the Dowager Empress.

Though Carl Fabergé was born in Russia, his heritage and decorative influences are French. His grandfather fled Huguenot persecution and became a Russian subject. His father, Gustav Fabergé, began training in his father's workshop and was apprenticed to a German goldsmith in Frankfurt am Main. However, a subsequent tour of Italy and France and the techniques of enamelers and goldsmiths were his greatest influence.

At the age of 24 he took over his father's firm, in 1870. By 1882 his unique style of jewelry won him the gold medal at Moscow's Pan-Russian Exhibition, and the eye of Czar Alexander III.

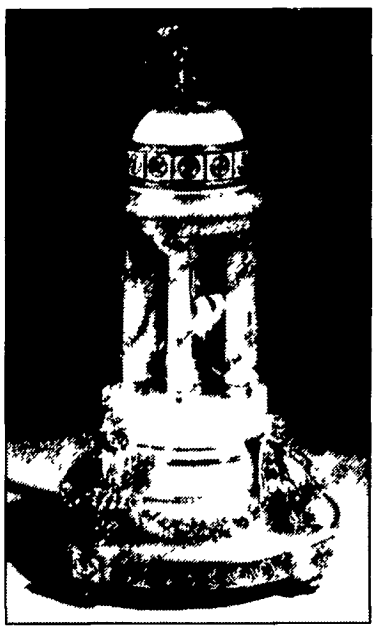
The 1900 International Exposition in Paris brought Fabergé international recognition, as well as the Legion d'Honneur.

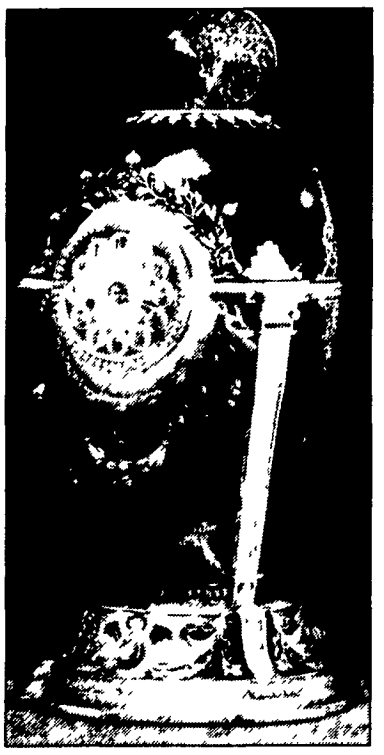
Working with enamels is considered one of the most difficult processes. Fabergé combined enamels with the Guilloche process, a decorative band or border that resembles a line of interlocking circles. Today it is rarely used, for not only the cost but also potential technical problems.

Fabergé is still the acknowledged master of enameling, a process where even a tiny mistake working with the enamels at high temperatures could ruin a fine piece.

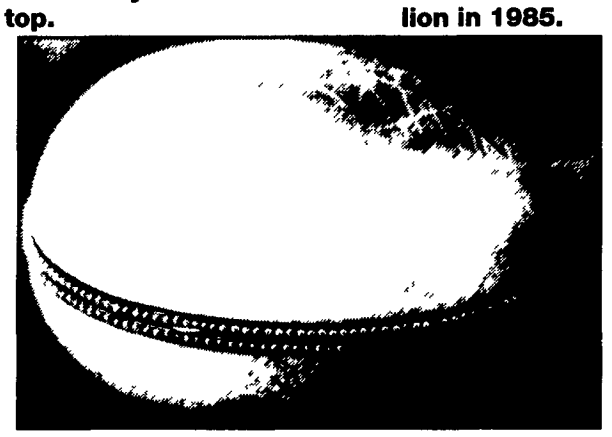
His eggs often combined materials that were equally difficult to work with, including various precious and semi-precious stones, matte and translucent enamels, and various shades of gold.



Above is the Colonnade Egg. 11 ¼ inches high in the form of a rotary clock. It was given to Alexandra by Nicholas at the birth of a male heir in 1904. Represented by the cherub on top.



The Cuckoo egg, c.1900. Sold for more than $1 million in 1985. Gold, enameled, and jeweled table clock in the form of an Easter Egg with automaton singing bird.



The "Nobel Ice" Easter egg. A jewelled silver-mounted, enamel Easter Egg, containing a jewelled platinum and rock crystal pendant watch "surprise." St. Petersburg, c. 1912. Sold in 1996 for $421,500. Photo by Sotheby's, London.

Pine Cone Egg. c. 1900. Commissioned by Alexander Kelch as an Easter gift for his wife, Barbara Petrovna. Sold in 1997 for more than $4 million.

Many of the imperial eggs were personalized. One, the "Lilies of the Valley" egg, contained portraits of Nicholas, Grand Duchess Olga, and Tatiana. The "Coronation" egg contained it's own royal coach. The Cuckoo Egg was in the form of an egg-shaped gold and jeweled table clock with a mechanical singing bird. There were also miniature eggs that were strung on necklaces.

The end of the Fagergé tradition came with the outbreak of the Bolshevik Revolution in 1917. Fabergé fled to Switzerland and died there in 1920.

His work has been hotly collected only in the past decade, and his genius newly appreciated, even in Russia.

Starting Your Own Affordable Egg Collection

Just as Christmas ornaments and objects have become highly collectible, so too are Easter items. Consider starting a collection of 11th and 20th century eggs, hens and bunnies.

Decorative eggs were made in a wide range of objects and materials including glass, tin, cardboard, and paper. Victorian eggs made of milk glass had painted and gilded decorations.

Tin and cardboard eggs and bunny figures, first made in the early 20th century, once held candy. These days they can brighten kitchen decor year-round. Glass hen and egg dishes originally made in the 19th century were in colors as well as white and colorless glass.

Reproductions can be found at antiques shops, shows, and gift shops. Keep your eye out at garage sales for the hollowed out, decorated eggs that were a popular craft beginning in the 1950s.

To be held at Smoketown Quality Dairy Sales,
Smoketown, PA. Rt. 340

FRI., APRIL 5, 2002 - 11:00 A.M.

This is a 75 cow herd of A.I. identified Holstein cows.
Dairyman is retiring. Herd average is 73 lbs. of milk in the tank.
S.L.L. 210 - B.F. 4.2, 10 cows over 100 lbs. 31 cows 75 lb. to 99 lb.
25-2 yr. olds. 34-3 yr. olds. Balance older. 35 cows fresh. 16 cows due July-August & Sept. Nov. 8 dry cows. A.I. Breeding for over 50 years.
Sires used are Aerolene, Classic, Outside, Allen, Inquirer, Top Gun, Progress, Lee, Lystre, SkyHawk & Jolt.
This is a sample of the cows coming to Smoketown.

#8 - Outside - Fresh 2/16/02 - 101 lb.
#25 - Classic - Fresh 3/10/02 - 85 lb.
#2 - Progress - Fresh 3/3/02 - 104 lb.
#60 - Lyster - Fancy - Due Sale Time

❖ BUSINESS NEWS ❖

Shirk Illustrated Lecture April 5

HINKLETOWN (Lancaster Co.) — The Swiss Pioneer Preservation Association invites the public to a special event.

Tom Shirk and Aaron Newswanger will give an illustrated lecture about the Shirk Family and the things they did. The seminar, sponsored by the Swiss Pioneer Preservation Associates, is scheduled Friday, April 5, at 7 p.m. at the Christian Aid Ministries Center on Rt. 322 between Hinkletown and Blue Ball.

The speakers will provide a genealogy presentation of the Shirk Family, who migrated from Europe to North America. Minister Christian Shirk, a tanner and a surveyor in the 1800s, was good with books and instruments. He made his own useful and detailed compass. Joseph Shirk, his young nephew, learned the surveyor profession from him.

Young Joseph Shirk invented a cradle for cutting and grouping wheat. Others made fun of it, and he was not allowed to use it at home doing harvest. While the others were eating lunch, he excused himself and tried this new invention. What a surprise the workers had when they returned. He had done more and better work in that short time than they had done altogether that forenoon.

The speakers will report on life in the 1800s. A slide show of Shirk homesteads will be featured. There will be a display of a surveying transit, account books, and Shirk heirlooms.

Admission is free. A free-will offering will be taken to benefit the Swiss Pioneer Preservation Associates as they work to preserve the local landmarks.

Advanced New Line Of Hay, Forage Equipment Available

LITITZ (Lancaster Co.) — Case IH has introduced a new line of hay and forage equipment designed to boost the productivity of livestock producers and commercial hay growers.

"These new products put the Case IH brand at the forefront of hay and forage equipment technology," said Landis Garman, who sells Case IH products at Binkley and Hurst Bros. "We now can offer our customers an even more advanced line square balers, mower conditioners, windrowers, and other equipment designed to meet their specific needs."

The new Case IH hay and forage line includes four round balers, four small square balers, two large rectangular balers, six mower conditioners, including three disc mower conditioners and two sizes of center-pivot machines, and three models of self-propelled windrowers, and pull-type forage harvester.

The new Case IH line builds on the strengths of the previous products while also offering a number of new features.

• Mower conditioners continue to offer both rubber-on-rubber or steel-on-steel conditioning rolls. Sicklebar mower conditions are offered in both center-pivot and side pull configurations. Disc mower conditioners are also available.

Case IH has introduced a new line of hay and forage equipment designed to boost the productivity of livestock producers and commercial hay growers. The line, available at Binkley and Hurst Bros. Inc., includes round and square balers, disc-mower conditioners, self-propelled disc mowers and a large-capacity forage harvester.

• Self-propelled windrowers are available in three models that ensure clean cutting, smooth crop flow, and consistent conditioning. Each WDX Series windrower can be equipped with a sicklebar header in 12-, 14-, 16-, or 18-foot cutting widths. The WDX1701 can be equipped with either a sicklebar or disc header.

• Large rectangular balers are available in three configurations: standard, packer cutter, and rotor cutter. Bales are 3x3- or 4x3-feet depending on model.

• Round balers come in five models and a Silage Special version. They offer several electric and electronic wrapping options. Electric twine wrap — a feature exclusive to the new Case IH round balers — gives operators control of bale wrap from the cab. Proven chevron-pattern belts continue, as on previous Case IH round balers.

• Small square balers pack tight, well-formed bales in 14x18-inch or 16x18-inch sizes.

• The forage harvester line includes a three-row corn head and two hay headers to meet the needs of large-volume forage producers.

• The popular Case IH 600 forage blower will continue to be sold.

"The 600 has been a leading blower in the industry for some years," said Garman. "For farmers who have upright silos, this blower is the best choice on the market."

LAKE FOREST, Ill. — Now more than ever, farmers and their families treasure those moments that are unique to American agriculture.

Understandably, recent historical events in our nation have strengthened the American farmers' devotion towards their families, homes, farms, communities, schools, neighbors, and their country.

That's why IMC Global is asking America's farmers to help them identify photos that best depict the theme, "The Basics of Farm Life." Through advertisements and the company's back-to-basics.net Website, growers will be encouraged to enter a special photo contest that runs through May 31.

"Just as the American farmer is devoted to his farm, we are equally committed to ensuring his success in the business," said Dr. Ray Hoyum, vice president of market development and communications at IMC Global. "It's our privilege to sponsor the photo contest as it highlights one of America's treasures — the farm family."

The American farmer is not only the backbone of our nation, but is vital to the world's food supply, said Hoyum. To solidify farmers' future in their businesses, they must maintain proper soil fertility levels for both high yields and profit.

"Proper soil fertility remains the foundation on which high yields are built," Hoyum said. "As a leader in the fertilizer industry, IMC Global has ongoing programs to educate growers and those who influence their decisions on the importance of soil fertility management."

With cooperation from the Potash and Phosphate Institute (PPI), the Back-to-Basis program enters its fourth season, teaching growers how maintaining proper soil fertility levels can help reduce the factors that can limit potential yields and profits.

Hoyum said the photo contest is one more way to convey the importance of the Back-to-Basics soil fertility message to growers. By visiting the Back-to-Basics Website to enter the photo contest, growers also can receive updated crop conditions, regional soil fertility facts and updates, as well as the "do's and don'ts" of proper soil fertility.

Agway Disinfects Feed Trucks To Guard Against Avian Influenza

SHIPPENSBURG (Franklin Co.) — The outbreak of Avian Influenza has affected poultry farms throughout Union, Snyder, and Juniata counties. This disease can be easily transmitted by anyone or anything that comes into contact with the infected farms.

Feed companies can play an important role in preventing the spread of this highly-contagious flu that can quickly devastate flocks. To guard against the spread, Agway feed trucks are equipped with sprayers that disinfect the undercarriages and wheels. When the truck is completely off the farm's premises, the driver flips a switch to activate the sprayer mounted beneath the truck.

Additionally, the Agway driver uses a separate hose to spray his or her boots with the same disinfectant before entering the truck's cab. This disinfectant also prevents the spread of other viruses that may be transmitted from farm to farm.

"This measure that we have been instituting on all of our feed trucks over the last several months demonstrates the exacting standards that we follow in delivering our feed products," said David Durr, the president of Agway Feed and Nutrition. "It is a measure of our commitment to serving our customers safely and effectively. We are taking a leadership role to help protect the agriculture industry throughout the Northeast."

Avian Influenza can be carried in any number of ways, including through the air, in manure, or crates that carry the birds to markets. This means that disinfecting everything that has come in contact with the previous farm is an important safeguard against its spread.

John Deere Pavilion Welcomes One-Millionth Guest

MOLINE, Ill. — Jon Becker, from Lynn Center, Ill., sent the John Deere Pavilion attendance figures over a new milestone Saturday, Feb. 2, as he became the one millionth guest to walk through the doors.

The John Deere Pavilion is the world's most comprehensive agricultural exhibit and is the official visitor center of Deere and Company. The Pavilion opened in the summer of 1997 and has averaged roughly 230,000 guests per year, surpassing annual visitor counts at nearly all other corporate museums.

"It is very exciting for all of us at the John Deere Pavilion to welcome our millionth guest," said LuAnn Haydon, manager of the John Deere Pavilion and Foundation Facilities. "In welcoming Mr. Becker, we add another dimension to the cornerstone of our community's renewal process," she added.

To celebrate the event, Mr. Becker received a new John Deere walk behind lawn mower, and a gift basket filled with a special edition of Genuine Value, a John Deere Pavilion T-shirt and cap, a $50 gift certificate to the John Deere Store, and a plaque commemorating the event. He will also be treated to lunch at the Planted Earth Cafe, adjacent to the John Deere Pavilion. The Radisson on John Deere Commons also contributed a night's stay for two and TGI Friday's donated a gift certificate for the prize package.

The visitor center was developed as the centerpiece of the John Deere Commons, a $100 million civic renewal program that broke ground in 1993. Called Renew Moline, the redevelopment brought a struggling downtown from near vacancy to a thriving retail and tourist destination that attracts thousands of visitors annually, from around the world.

To date, the John Deere Pavilion has attracted guests from over 50 countries and all 50 states. It is the Quad Cities' most popular tourist attraction and is one of the top five tourist destinations in the state of Illinois, according to the Illinois Bureau of Tourism. It was also named by Lycos Travel as one of the most intriguing road trips in America.

Valent U.S.A. Corporation Names New President

WALNUT CREEK, Calif. — Valent U.S.A. has announced that Masayo Tada has returned to Valent to lead the company. Tada replaced Mike Borel, who has served as president of Valent since 1998.

Tada was formerly an officer of Valent having served as vice president of marketing and planning from 1988-1992. He returns to Valent from its parent company, Sumitomo Chemical Company, Ltd., a company that develops and markets products to protect crops, improve food quality, beautify the environment and safeguard public health. A member of the Sumitomo Chemical board of directors, Tada was responsible for the plant protection division.

"Valent is committed to its crop protection business and customers with the support of Sumitomo," explains Tada. "The United States will continue to be a key strategic market in the global business strategy of Sumitomo, with Valent as the core of our U.S. business structure."

Sumitomo Chemical will continue to seek strategic alliance and acquisition opportunities with third-party partners to bring further value to customers in its global crop protection business.

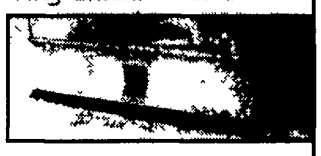
Ultra Series Heavy Duty Skid Loader Plows



Trip Cutting Edge Design
The SnowWolf Ultra features a trip cutting edge design which allows full down pressure for incredible scraping ability in forward or backdragging situations It eliminates "false tripping" from snow load and will only engage if you actually strike an immovable object

Massive Construction
The SnowWolf Ultra is designed to take abuse from the largest skid loaders At approximately 100 pounds per foot of plowing width, you know the Ultra means business

Food for Thought
Did you know that a modern skid loader with a high speed transmission and a SnowWolf Ultra will outplow a pickup truck under most plowing conditions? A cleaner job, closer to the obstacles (without worrying about your fenders), and more acres plowed in the same amount of time!

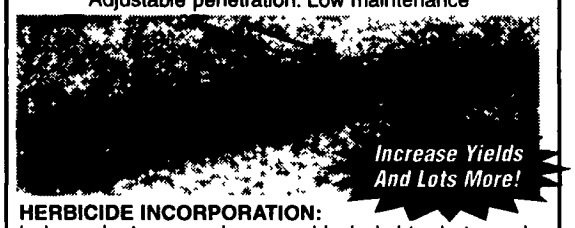
Binkley & Hurst Bros. Inc Offers This Low Cost Harrow The Flex-i-ble Tine Harrow

Aerates and scarifies to stimulate growth, improve moisture penetration. Breaks up manure to speed decomposition, reduce parasites Works in seeds after reseeding. Maintains rings and tracks. 4 to 42 ft widths Adjustable penetration. Low maintenance



HERBICIDE INCORPORATION: Independent research using black light photography proves the Fuerst Harrow behind your disk or cultivator gives you "near perfect" incorporation in one pass – better than implements costing several times more! Shreds trash as it prepares & levels seedbeds

BROADCASTING SMALL GRAINS AND GRASSES: University of Illinois found overseeding by broadcasting followed by a Fuerst Harrow a superior combination, outperforming equipment costing more than 10 times as much Pulled behind the broadcaster, it covers seed to desired depth in one time-saving operation

SHREDS STALKS: Shreds and spreads stalks in spring ahead of no-till and ridge-till planting.

4 to 42 ft widths Flexes to cover every inch at 6-8 mph No maintenance Easy to use and store Insist on the original "Spreading Action" ® tines

Kubota
Better Results... Every Time.

- Load Sensing Hydraulics-uniquely designed hydraulic system ensures speed under light loads and power under heavy loads.
- Featuring an offset boom, ideal for trenching next to or around existing structures. The long reach puts the bucket right into tight spaces while minimizing repositioning time.
- Complete with pilot controls, a two-pattern selection system, suspension seat and new hose connections between the boom/blade cylinders.

Hey, it's farming, not air-to-air combat.

As complex as some of the larger tractor controls are getting, you have to wonder what some manufacturers are thinking

Fortunately, clearer thinking prevails at Massey Ferguson. We work hard to make sure the controls on our MF 6200 and MF 8200 Series tractors are easy to work and easy to understand So you get your work done quickly and efficiently

You have bugs, weeds, diseases, and market prices to deal with. Why should you have to fight with your tractor?

WHAT TO DEFEATION. MASSEY FERGUSON

MODEL F-17B DOUBLE OFFSET TANDEM

AMCO's Model F-17B double offset tandem disk harrows range in size from 9'3" to 15'0" and are ideal for use with tractors ranging from 50 to 95 horsepower.

These dependable double offset harrows weigh from 296 to 337 pounds per cutting foot and are available in 9'3", 10'6", 12'0", 13'6", and 15'0" models.

Built AMCO tough, the Model F-17B double offsets have the same quality features you expect from AMCO implements. Depending upon size, the Model F-17B is equipped with eight or twelve regreasable ball type, toggle-mounted bearings featuring AMCO's Protect-O-Shield®; 1-1/2" square, high-carbon, cold rolled steel axles; reversible clevis and heavy-duty scrapers with high-carbon replaceable blades. The Model F-17B has standard 22" plain blades on 9" spacing and on the rear gang features diminishing blades with 16" feathering blades. A gang bolt wrench is also standard.

The Model F-17B has AMCO's optional Shock Absorber Gang Riser which allows the gang on the harrow to move upward and back to relieve shock when the disk blades encounter an obstacle in the ground.

Specifications subject to change without notice.

You can't buy a better ATV for this kind of money anyplace!
This ATV is an excellent work and recreational machine for the price you can't beat it!

Suzuki QuadRunner ATVs may be used by those aged 16 and older. Suzuki highly recommends that all ATV riders take a training course. We'll even pay for it! For safety and training course information, see your dealer or call the SVIA at 1-800-852-5344. ATVs can be hazardous to operate. For your safety, always wear a helmet, eye protection and protective clothing. Always avoid paved surfaces. Never ride on public roads. Never carry passengers or engage in stunt riding. Riding and alcohol or other drugs don't mix. Avoid excessive speeds. Be extra careful on difficult terrain. Along with concerned conservationists everywhere, Suzuki urges you to "TREAD LIGHTLY" on public and private land. Preserve your future riding opportunities by showing respect for the environment, local laws and the rights of others when you ride.

Need a cover? WE COVER!

The Regal Series...Offering Advantages

We Cover Building Systems is a specialty company providing a superior building solution. As we all know, the choice of a building style is not easily made. We know that we want something that fits our needs and satisfies our quest for lasting quality. The Regal Series Buildings come loaded with advantages you will need and appreciate on your property.

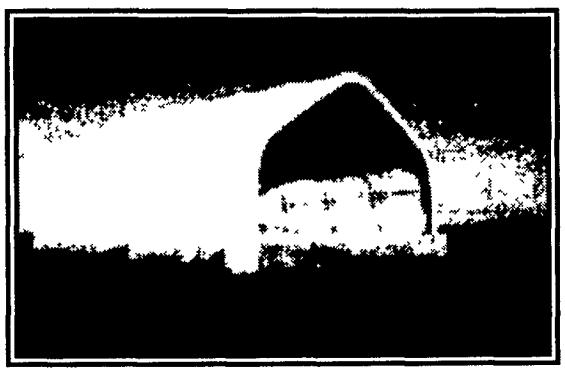
Engineered Steel Arches...are a specialty of the Regal Series. They are custom engineered to meet your specifications and designed to be economical.*

Hot-Dipped Galvanizing.. all of our trusses are dipped inside and out to ensure top quality weld protection from corrosion.*

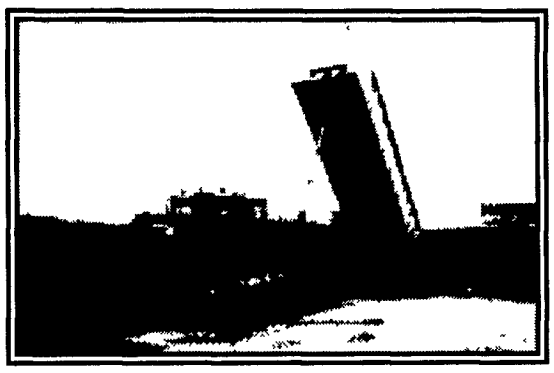
Call us today for your next building solution!

Sectional Roof Covering.. each truss section has its own fabric strip. Since an individual section can be replaced, repairs become economical UV inhibitors in the fabric bring years of protection to your structure*

A WIDE RANGE OF APPLICATIONS!



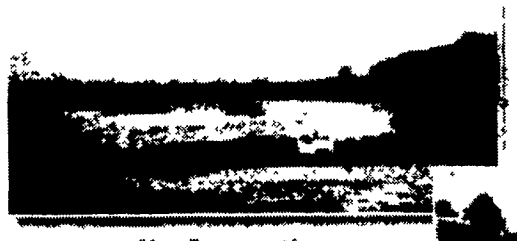
SALT AND SAND STORAGE MUNICIPAL



COMMERCIAL - GRAIN STORAGE

CATTLE-RIDING ARENA

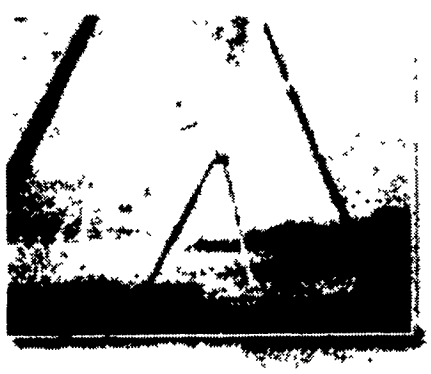
We knew that you would want to meet many different needs with the new building you are designing. So, we designed the Regal Series Buildings with the adaptability to service a wide range of applications.



Site Preparation

Truss Delivery

Cranes Erecting Trusses



From Start to Finish . . .

Livestock housing...Dairy cattle, hogs, sheep, and many other animals find a comfortable home in our buildings.*

Municipal Storage...Salt, sand, or cinders stay dry and useable under a We Cover Building System.*

Grain and fertilizer storage...You will need a storage solution for that extra grain this fall. And then, when the grain is gone, park your valuable machinery under a dry roof.*

Commercial fertilizer and grain distributors find that our buildings provide an economical place to store their gigantic piles of commodities.*

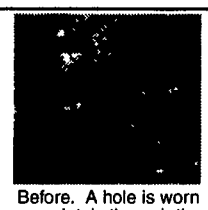
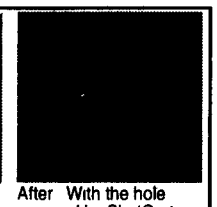
- Up to twice the strength of the original stave
- Rapid application
- Durable surface



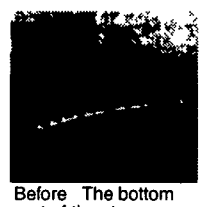
Before. A hole is worn completely through the silo wall



After With the hole repaired by ShotCrete and a new surface applied, the silo is ready for years of use

EXTENDS USEFUL LIFE:

- Support for old foundations
- Special repairs can be made... quickly and economically
- Little or no forming needed
- Stronger than the original



Before The bottom part of the staves are completely worn away

After The ShotCrete System repairs and replaces the missing structure

What's against soft paint?

In metal roofing and siding some manufacturers use soft pliable paint to prevent cracks. The disadvantage with softer paint is that it scratches so easy. Handling during erection, flying debris during storms, children playing against it, etc. can easily scratch softer paint. Scratches on softer paints tend to rust prematurely. Everlast heat forms to prevent this. Ask our competition if they heat form. It's important.

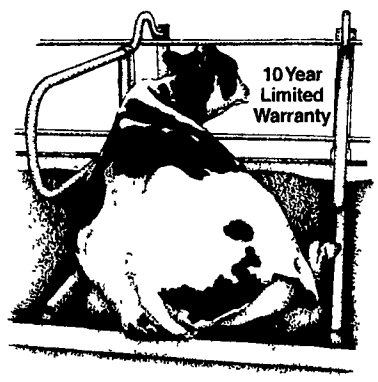
Waterbeds for Cows



ALANTA® A member of the LimiPoly group of companies Patent Pending

The ALANTA Waterbed for cows is a revolutionary product, comfortable, safe and hygienic. It clearly improves your cows' well-being and therefore promotes higher milk production. It is the ultimate stall floor covering for the modern, animal-friendly dairy farm.

WELL MADE
The ALANTA Waterbed is made of two rubber layers with a water-filled compartment in between. GD-Enerka gives a 10-year guarantee.

COMFORTABLE
The waterbed molds itself to the cow's shape. It's cool in summer and pleasantly warm in winter.

SAFE
Thanks to the non-slip rubber upper surface, the cow is gripped firmly and cannot slip off. In this way the ALANTA waterbed keeps damage to hooves to a minimum.

HOSTETTER GRAIN

ALFALFA SEED $1.55/Lb.
from the Dakota's Trask Family Seeds

- Features grower to-grower direct seed sales
- S D S U tested and researched
- Distributed from Parkesburg PA
- $1 55/per lb in 60 lb bags
- Varieties S D Common Vernal and Rhyzoma
- Dakota alfalfas are dormancy rated at '2 and proven to excel in winter hardiness and production!
- Trask Seed is American grown and priced to reflect no corporate monopolies!

PA farmers have great hay crops with South Dakota alfalfa seed Painterland Farms, Westfield, PA, John Painter said "The Trask's seed grew extremely well. We recommend it to anyone. It is real leafy and yielded as well as any of the high priced name brand seeds. It cost 40% as much. We planted 294 acres. We intend to plant more this spring. It was exceptionally winter hardy and resisted frost damage. We are very pleased.

Join the numerous farmers in the PA/NY area harvesting superb alfalfa from South Dakota seed

ROASTED BEANS FOR PROFIT

Some of the many advantages of using Roasted Soybeans

* All natural protein with no harmful chemicals or fillers
* Very high bypass protein, unlike solvent soybean meal
* Increases ration palatability to heighten dry matter intake
* Includes a broad spectrum of the essential amino acids
* High protein and energy, yet low neutral detergent fiber. (NDF)

Attention: Swine and Poultry Producers

Announcing:

Crude Soy Oil Now Available

With the addition of our new soybean processing facility, we now offer soybean oil as an animal nutrition product. Processing the soybeans ourselves allows us to utilize locally grown soybeans and support our local agricultural community!

Crude Soybean Oil

A product of Keystone's expelling process, this oil can be used in a wide variety of on farm applications. Crude soy oil is a natural alternative to animal fats and provides needed energy in various rations.

Uses of Crude Soy Oil Include:

- Use as a high energy feed ingredient in swine and poultry diets.
- Especially useful in sow lactation diets, pig starter and grow/finish diets.
- Used as an added energy source in broiler, turkey and layer feeds.
- Can be used for dust control purposes.
- Can be used as a lubricant for feeding systems.

Advantages of Crude Soy Oil:

- Use as a direct replacement for animal fat.
- Vegetable based product.
- Holding tank does not need to be heated if temperature is above 30 degrees, which reduces storage and handling costs compared to animal fat
- Bulk delivery, partial loads available direct to farm by Keystone Mills.
- Customer may pick up to save delivery costs.

Other Soy Products Available:

- Keystone offers Golden Pro 46 XP which is 46% protein - 6-7% oil, Golden Meal 40 which is 40% crude protein with 18% oil.

Keystone Mills Soybean Exchange Program

- We will take your soybeans in trade for Golden ProXP 46, Golden Meal 40.
- Contact Keystone Mills for details on our soybean exchange program featuring these quality nutritional products.

Several March Specials Await You!

Snyder Co. has 2 farms ready for this spring.

Farm #1 is a 98 acre grain farm with a piece of History. The old log house has been semi-modernized with kitchen, bath (rather than a path) 3 small bedrooms but lots of potential There is lots of road frontage and the availability for "AG PRESERVE". If you go this route you'll have a very cheap farm You decide The owner will finance

Farm #2 is a dairy farm with 72 acres and additional land to rent This is a 50 cow stanchion barn with lots of other outbuildings This farm again could go into "AG PRESERVE" and again have a very reasonable workable farm with country living for your family There is a 2-1/2 story aluminum sided house with 2 baths for that large or growing farm family This farm also has owner financing at very reasonable terms and rate Call today A little paint and remove some of the older buildings will make this one a show place

Dauphin Co. this 82 Acre Beef & Layer operation is ideal for a young or growing family There is a 2 yr old layer house which is computerized and takes very few hours a day The beef operation is capable of over 200 head with manure pit silo's feed conveyors, TMR and a farm family 4 bedroom home The 50' by 80' Implement shed handles a large JD 25' combine with ease

Priced @ $520,000.00.

SAIL THROUGH TOUGH CROPS

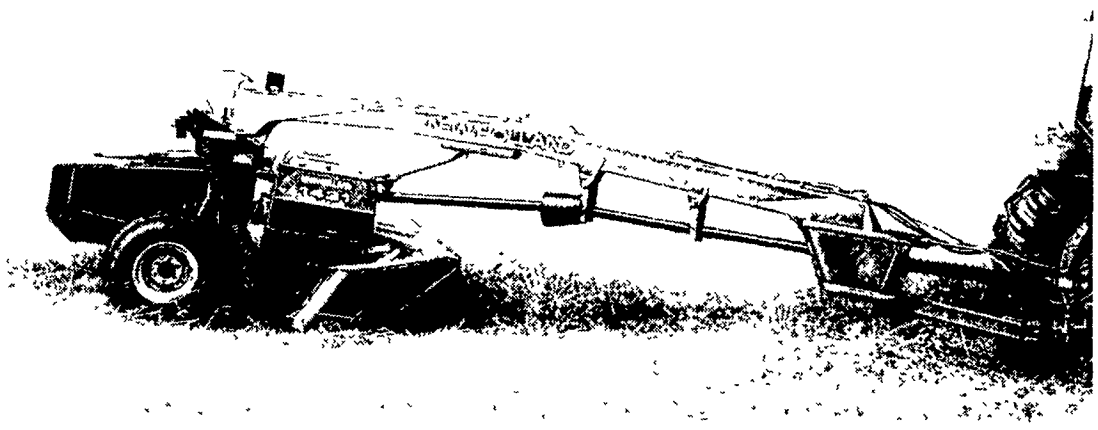
3 Cutting Widths Match Your Needs.

Choose New Holland Discbine® disc mower-conditioners for clean, fast cutting in your heaviest, toughest, wettest crops.

- The most advanced independent modular design for reliable performance, easy servicing and peace of mind.
- 102" chevron-design intermeshing rubber rolls for thorough, gentle conditioning and fast drydown
- Torsion-bar, roll-pressure system that maintains constant pressure for consistent conditioning, yet allows slugs to pass through without plugging

New Holland 1411

- Eight discs make a 10'4" cut through thick, tangled, wet crops—fast



Discbine® disc mower-conditioners give you the perfect combination of mowing reliability, fast drydown and no-hassle servicing.

New Holland 1431
featuring a 13' cutting width, and operates at high ground speeds in wet, heavy grass without plugging.

- A center pivot-tongue design
- Independent modular cutterbar with ten small-diameter cutting discs
- A full range of vertical and lateral flotation
- A cutterbar driven from both ends

New Holland 1441
12 discs to make a wide 15'7" cut through your heaviest, toughest crop conditions. You'll clear large fields fast and condition crops thoroughly for fast drydown.

- Standard swivel-hitch tongue gives you exceptional maneuverability to make tight headland turns and over-square corners.
